STATE'S VOTERS AGAIN TO NAME PARTY'S ENVOYS

Committee Gives People Right To Select National Delegates

HAND-PICKING BEGUN BY HUEY P. LONG TO CEASE

Move Also Started To Change Laws On Holding State Elections

BATON ROUGE, March 2.—(AP)—Louisiana Democratic voters received back again today, through their new state central committee, the right to participate in naming the party's national candidate for the presidency of the United States.

The central committee adopted a resolution authorizing each parish committee to hold a convention, mass meeting or election to select delegates to a statewide nominating convention here June 4.

The statewide convention will choose the delegates who will attend the National Democratic convention at Chicago July 15 at which the party's choice for president and vice-president of the United States will be made.

Since Huey Long's machine came into power a dozen years ago, the central committee has hand-picked the state's national convention delegates—a practice which brought on criticism that it deprived the people of any voice in selecting their party candidates for national executive offices.

Speakers hailed the new system as one reinstilling democratic principles to the state's Democratic party.

The central committee also authorized its newly-elected chairman, Frank J. Looney of Shreveport, named by acclamation to appoint a legal committee to recommend changes in the state's election laws and "particularly to deprive the boards of elections

WILL ROGERS TO GO TO HIS HOME

Widow Consents To Have Body Moved From California To Oklahoma

CLAREMORE, Okla., March 2.—(AP)—Will Rogers is coming home.

He will rest on a green slope he chose as a good homesite for the old age he hoped to spend among his own folk.

The widow of the cowboy philosopher has agreed to removal of his body from California to his native Rogers county in Oklahoma.

Governor Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma announced Mrs. Betty Rogers' decision from Los Angeles.

The crypt will be built here on the brow of a hill bearing the low-slung, gray stone memorial which Oklahoma built in honor of her favorite son.

Soon after their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers bought the ground as the site of a future home. The droll comedian's successes took him elsewhere but he expressed a hope of passing his declining years here.

Construction of the crypt will start as soon as plans are approved and is expected to take three months.

Ceremonies at the tomb perhaps could be held on the anniversary of Rogers' death August 15, 1935, in the Point Barrow plane crash which also

BOSSIER CITY BOY DIES OF LEUKEMIA

BOSSIER CITY, La., March 2.—(AP)—Gene Jory, 7-year-old victim of lymphatic leukemia, a rare blood disease for which neither a cause nor cure has been found, died at his home here last night, less than three weeks after doctors discovered symptoms of the disease.

Gene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Jory, was apparently a healthy child shortly before the symptoms were discovered. Doctors pronounced the case as incurable but some hope was held for his recovery several days ago when the family telephoned to a Washington, D. C., woman who had broadcast on a radio network that she had recovered from a rare blood disease and would give transfusions. It developed, however, that she had not had leukemia but another serious blood disease.

Leukemia causes an increase in the amount of blood in the body, killing the red corpuscles and allowing the white cells to multiply at a tremendous rate.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Sunday in Opelousas where the family lived before moving here. The body was sent to Opelousas tonight.

LEGION PLANS TO WELCOME KELLY

National Legion Commander Will Arrive In Monroe At 11 A. M. Today

Part of the program honoring Raymond J. Kelly, national commander of the American Legion, on his visit to Monroe today has been cancelled because of the lateness of his arrival, it was announced late yesterday by Ed C. Apperson, commander of the L. B. Faulk Post No. 13.

Mr. Apperson said he received a telegram from the national commander's aide stating that Commander Kelly would not arrive until 11 o'clock this morning. He previously was scheduled to arrive at 7 a.m. and a program had been arranged at the Legion home at 10:30 where Commander Kelly was to have inspected the Legion emergency truck and presented a meritorious service certificate to the local post.

The telegram, sent from Little Rock, stated Commander Kelly is "worn out" after his strenuous speaking tour and required a full night's rest in a hotel at Little Rock. He will come here by plane, arriving at Selman field at 11 o'clock.

However, the chief feature of the program will be carried out. The national commander will be guest of honor at a banquet on the Cherokee terrace of Hotel Frances, starting at 1 o'clock. He will deliver an address starting at 2 o'clock that will be broadcast over a state-wide hookup. Some three hundred legionnaires and other guests are expected to attend the banquet.

Commander Kelly will be officially welcomed by Mayor Harvey H. Benoit, and C. C. Sheppard, of Clarks, will make the response. The address of welcome for legionnaires will be made by Department Commander E. L. Gladney, and distinguished guests will be introduced.

Commander Kelly will begin his address at 2 o'clock. The broadcast will be carried over stations KWKH, KMLB, KALB, WJBO and WDSU, and was made possible through the

Judge J. D. Womack Of Baton Rouge Sets March 11 As Hearing Date

BATON ROUGE, La., March 2—(AP)—Governor Earl K. Long tonight obtained a temporary restraining order in district court prohibiting the secretary of state from placing the name of James A. Gremillion on the ballot for that office in the April 16 general election.

The order was signed by Judge J. D. Womack at 7:10 p.m. and was filed at 7:20 p.m. with the clerk of court.

It named besides Secretary of State E. A. Conway, H. Carey Comish, assistant secretary of state, Gremillion, and Wade O. Martin, Sr., chairman of the "old" Democratic state central committee which today rescinded its previous action of naming Long the nominee for secretary of state.

The governor's suit would prohibit the four men named from participating in certification of Gremillion as nominee for the post and placing his name on the general election ballots.

Judge Womack set March 11 as the date for a hearing at which the defendants are to show cause why a preliminary injunction should not be issued.

The judge in his order said that unless the temporary restraining order were granted "immediate and irreparable injury, loss and damage will result to Earl K. Long, the applicant."

Governor Long appeared himself to obtain the order. Among those accompanying him were Wade Martin, Sr., and Wade Martin, Jr., the latter a special assistant to the attorney-general, George Wallace, the govern-

GRAND JURORS TO CONVENE MONDAY

Special Session Called By Garrett; Probe Of Deadheads Indicated

A special session of the Ouachita parish grand jury will convene here Monday morning.

The session was called by Judge David I. Garrett, who refused to divulge the nature of the investigations planned. He added, however, that he had promised to call the jurors back after the supreme court had passed on jurisdiction in "deadhead" cases. He referred particularly to a case which went up to the supreme court from Morehouse parish. The high court recently ruled that the Morehouse court had jurisdiction, and the indication is that alleged "deadheads" in Ouachita parish will be investigated.

Last fall the grand jury returned several indictments concerning "political scandals." Dr. Harvey Dillon, former superintendent of Louisiana Training institute, was convicted of embezzlement and his appeal is awaiting a hearing by the supreme court. W. D. Dark and Lee Melton, employes of the conservation department, were indicted on a charge of accepting bribes but the indictment was quashed because of alleged defects in the bill. J. Lloyd Warren, president of the Ouachita parish police jury, was convicted on a charge of receiving money other than per diem and mileage from the parish and a hearing on motion for a new trial was continued Friday by Judge J. T. Shell.

Big Slum Clearance Fund To Be Sought By Monroe

The city of Monroe has requested the establishment of a housing authority for the city and will seek an appropriation from the United States Housing authority of "at least a million dollars," it was announced yesterday by Mayor Harvey H. Benoit.

The city council adopted a resolution embodying the petition to the federal agency, following receipt of a petition signed by more than 25 citizens of Monroe, the number required by the authority.

Mayor Benoit said the necessary papers will be drawn up immediately and forwarded to Nathan Straus, United States Housing authority administrator at Washington, and expressed the hope that quick action would be accorded the petition.

Mayor Benoit was optimistic over the chances of Monroe to obtain a large sum for slum-clearance following the announcement Friday that $90,000 had been earmarked for a similar project in Shreveport. That city only recently applied for a housing authority there and the earmarking of funds was made with almost unprecedented speed.

The petition to the government agency recites that unsanitary and unsafe dwelling accommodations exist in Monroe and that such conditions arise from over-crowding and concentration of population, the obsolete and poor condition of buildings, improper planning, excessive land coverage, lack of proper light, air space and access, unsanitary design and arrangement, lack of proper sanitary facilities and the existence of conditions which endanger life and property by fire and other causes.

The petition further states that there are many families of low income here who are forced to reside in unsafe and unsanitary dwelling accommodations and that there is a lack of suitable buildings at rents which families of

2,050 MORE RUSSIANS ON FROZEN BATTLEFIELD DIE

Soviet Forces Storming At Gates Of Viipuri But Still Held Back

By Wade Werner

HELSINKI, March 2—(AP)—Finland's stalwart fighters tonight marked up another smashing defeat to the Red army in the cold fastness northeast of Lake Ladoga while the defenders of Viipuri held at bay ponderous Russian forces storming the very gates of the ancient key city on the Karelian isthmus.

This time the Finns announced, it was the 34th Moscow tank brigade which was trapped in a snow-shrouded labyrinth—so easy to march into, so deadly when phantom ski troops suddenly close the exits—where the formidable 18th Soviet division recently met its doom.

The 34th tank brigade had been attempting to come to the rescue of the [illegible]th division. But it was caught, the Finns said, encircled and finally annihilated, meeting the same fate as the division it tried to save.

Thus tonight on another frozen battlefield lay some 2,050 Russian dead.

Numerically inferior to the invading force and vastly inferior in weight of motorized equipment, the Finns first had to entangle the advancing brigade in the bleak country [illegible] w so intimately, break [illegible] smaller, more "convenient" [illegible] ating it with sniping into wasting its ammunition, worry it and heckle it day after day while its supplies ran low, and then systematically destroy it in a series of sudden attacks.

The Russians stubbornly dug themselves in, made fortresses of their immobilized tanks and fought valiantly.

But on February 29, the Finns announced, the last of the embattled groups was stormed and its stronghold captured.

Yesterday mopping up was completed and the Finns began to count their war booty.

The Finnish communique said that captured war material so far counted after the defeat of the 34th brigade in-

HITLER ARGUES BEFORE WELLES

Says Germany Determined To Have Vast Central European 'Living Space'

By Louis P. Lochner

BERLIN, March 2.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler zealously argued Nazi Germany's case for a new place in the sun in a 94-minute session today with Sumner Welles in which informed sources said he pledged the Reich to fight until she felt secure in a vast central European "living space" and had untrammeled access to raw materials.

Amid a great show of an "invincible will to victory" in the nation to add to the information the American is sifting for President Roosevelt, the fuehrer was portrayed as pledging a battle against the allies until:

1. Germany has unchallenged political domination extending through Bohemia-Moravia, Slovakia and Hungary on the southeast and, through German-occupied Poland on the east.

2. Great Britain and France promise not to stir up the Balkan nations on the south and Scandinavia on the north.

3. Germany's war-lost colonies are

CAPITAL MAY GET BREATHING SPELL

BATON ROUGE, La., March 2—(AP)—Louisiana's capital, on edge for months as sizzling political developments pyramided excitement, settled back for a breathing spell after today's events.

Governor-Designate Sam Jones left for his home at Lake Charles, preparing to go from there to "an undisclosed place" on a three-week vacation.

His defeated gubernatorial opponent, Governor Earl K. Long, said he expected to "go off and rest for the next three or four days."

The capital breathed relief.

ROOSEVELT RAPS AT COMMITTEE

Says House Group Camouflaging Reasons For Refusing Canal Appropriation

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN, March 2—(AP)—President Roosevelt returning to the capital after a cruise in Central American waters, accused the house appropriations committee today of camouflaging its reasons for refusing $15,000,000 he asked to begin enlarging the Panama canal.

Congress, he said, has full authority to delay for a year the construction of an extra set of locks, but he added somewhat grimly that such action should not be camouflaged by statements that the war department was pushing the project too rapidly.

The president said that the responsibility for delay should be squarely on congress, because plans are sufficiently far advanced to permit construction to get under way this spring on the extra set of locks, which would cost $277,000,000.

As he traveled back to the capital Mr. Roosevelt left four big issues unsolved. These were the problems:

1. Will the president seek a third term? He told newsmen only that he

TWO HUMAN SKINS SENT TO TANNERY

NAPA, Calif., March 2—(AP)—Two skins, described by Undersheriff John Claussen as those of human beings, were delivered to the Napa Tanning company today with a note asking that they be made into a pair of gloves. The note was unsigned.

The railway express package containing the skins bore the return address of a tanning company in Salem, Ore.

J. E. Trodden, proprietor of the Napa Tanning company, said he recognized the skins as those of human beings and summoned Claussen, who agreed.

Claussen said one skin had a heavy growth of hair on the chest and apparently was that of a man. The other appeared to be that of a woman.

One skin had been stripped from the torso and upper arms in one piece. The skin from the legs was packed separately. The other was from the torso only and was cut down the sides.

The skins were wrapped in heavy brown paper with a piece of cloth between each section of skin. Trodden said this was the usual packing method.

PERTINENT JONES PRONOUNCEMENTS

BATON ROUGE, La., March 2—(AP)—Pertinent pronouncements made today by Governor-Designate Sam Jones:

I believe that on February 20 a new era was born in Louisiana.

There was a new birth of freedom and a new declaration of independence.

It signified the end of dictatorship and the enthronement of democracy.

There will be no more hasty, fly-by-night special session legislatures. From now on every proposal will be given mature deliberation.

I hold a mandate from the people to carry out the pledges and principles of Sam Jones and with all my power I will try to carry out those principles in a constitutional manner.

I expect to formulate a complete program to carry out my platform pledges.

When you consider the magnitude of the task we have to face, there is none too much time to prepare. My entire time from here on out will be spent in preparation of my program.

The great and unbought masses of the people of this state do not understand Sam Jones if any believe that I am going to be controlled.

I have my mandate from the people as a whole and I shall be responsible to the people as a whole.

2 BELGIAN PLANES DOWNED BY NAZIS

Protest Made Against 'Grave Violation Of Neutrality' And 'Aggression'

BRUSSELS, March 2—(AP)—Two Belgian army planes were shot down over their homeland today in a clash with a German bomber which the government quickly protested to Berlin as "a grave violation of Belgian neutrality and an act of aggression."

One Belgian pilot was killed and another was wounded in the clash.

The incident, announced in a communique, was followed swiftly by a series of unrelated accidents in which four other Belgian planes crashed and one pilot was killed, making the day the worst in the nation's aviation history.

Within a short time after the issuance of the communique, German Ambassador Vicco Karl von Buelow-Schwante, obviously disturbed, hastened to the Belgian foreign office.

He was kept waiting 45 minutes before he was admitted to Foreign Minister Paul Henry Spaak. He was with Spaak for about 10 minutes, and after his departure the government announced a "vigorous" protest had been registered.

The official Belgian version said that three Belgian planes were in-

Egyptian Tomb Yields Vast Fortune In Gold And Gems

CAIRO, Egypt, March 2—(AP)—A king's ransom in gold and jewels that for 3,000 years had graced a Pharaoh's mummy shone in the fierce Egyptian sunlight today.

Archaelogists rejoiced in the discovery and exploration of a tomb some considered more important to historians than Tut-Ankh-Amen's—that of Psou Sennes, second king of the 21st dynasty and possibly one of Solomon's many fathers-in-law.

Discovery of the tomb two weeks ago and the opening of the royal sarcophagus on February 28 in the presence of modern Egypt's ruler, King Farouk, crowned 10 years of toil by the French Egyptologist, Pierre Montet.

Working for Strasbourg university Professor Montet grubbed patiently for a decade in the sands of San El Hagar, west of the Nile delta site of the ancient city of Tanis built by Rameses the Second as a holiday resort.

There under the great temple built by Rameses, Montet found the tomb entrance, a shaft four feet deep, which led to an anteroom. A short passage led the scientist to the burial chamber, 22 feet long, nine feet wide and nine feet high, with walls of rose granite.

Inside the huge sarcophagus, also of rose granite and carved with symbolic figures of the dead king and the god Osiris, lay the body of the man who ruled an empire which was old and dying when Homer sang of Troy, the head encased in a mask of pure gold and the body swathed in silver gilt.

The prize, sought in vain by such distinguished Egyptologists as Sir Flinders Petrie in the ruins of the city from which Moses is believed to have led the Exodus, is a rich one. Inscriptions on the walls of the tomb and the sarcophage and on the jewels

LEGISLATURE AND COMMITTEE TURN GOVERNOR DOWN

Solons Refuse To Convene For Special Legislative Session

JONES GETS THUNDEROUS OVATION AS HE APPEARS

Old Democratic Group Strikes Off Earl's Name And Picks Gremillion

BATON ROUGE, La., March 2—(AP)—[illegible] of the powerful [illegible] Long political machine [illegible] the former [illegible] Democratic state central committee turned [illegible] Earl K. Long to sweep [illegible].

Louisiana's Democratic electorate had rendered the machine a smashing blow at the polls February 20 when [illegible] Sam H. Jones their next governor on a pledge of government reform here.

Governor Long who was defeated by Jones [illegible] today saw a runaway legislature refuse even to convene at his call, and a short time later the Democratic state central committee knifed his attempted coup to get into Jones' administration by scratching him as the appointed nominee for secretary of state.

Long, vowing vengeance as his formerly unbroken ranks of supporters [illegible] away from him without a break, threatened to take the committee's annulment of its former appointment to the post to the courts, but the prevailing opinion was this was an idle threat which never would materialize.

An amazing spectacle such as Louisianians have not seen in 12 years unfolded before excited galleries assembled in the state capitol here today to see how Long's second attempt in two days to call the legislature into special session would develop. Long's call asked the formerly obedient body to pass legislation sharply crimping Jones administration in criminal violation which Jones has pledged to carry out when he comes into office.

The legislature, in open revolt for the first time in 12 years, spurned Long, however, and failed to produce a quorum in either body and Long angrily abandoned the session, issuing a sharp and rambling statement later saying his supporters had quit him.

Immediately afterward the state central committee made an about face from action of last Sunday, scratched Long from the ticket and certified a Jones candidate for the secretary of stateship, a key government position.

Muttering angrily, Long passed the long hallway where his brother the Kingfish, was shot four and a half years ago, now and then glaring at Jones, who was waiting in an anteroom for the newly seated state central committee to organize along "democratic" lines and call him before the body.

The committee wiped out another of the Long power practices of naming delegates to the national Democratic committee and voted to name them instead in state convention, then summoned Jones, who was given a thunderous ovation as he appeared to pledge himself to returning "Louisiana and its government to the people."

Jones solemnly announced he would bring to the state "a new era * * * a new day of freedom and independence signifying the end of dictatorship and the enthronement of democracy."

Within 24 hours—last night and today—Long twice unsuccessfully summoned into special session the legislature which until now had always murmured "yes" to any administration proposal. At neither time did a quorum of legislators appear.

Long walked disconsolately among

MONOPOLY CHARGED TO PAPER MILLS

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—A charge that paper pulp mills have a "hog-tied monopoly" in dealing with small timberland owners was made before a joint congressional forestry investigation today by Representative Fulmer, Democrat, South Carolina, vice-chairman of the group.

Fulmer cited recent antitrust fines against the Southern Pine association at New Orleans in support of his charge that farmers and other small land owners "get almost nothing" for wood sold to pulp mills.

Fulmer suggested states be required to meet certain legislative standards on cutting timber, reforestation and fire protection before they receive any share in federal funds provided for acquisition and protection of forest lands.

He said the Southern Pine association, representing 275 mills in 11 southern states, had paid a $10,000 fine at New Orleans recently for fixing prices in violation of antitrust laws.

H. A. Hicks, committee investigator, testified commissions for agents, contractors and other middlemen took a large part of the price that pulp mills were paying southern land owners for timber.

That city only recently applied for a housing authority there and the earmarking of funds was made with almost unprecedented speed.

The petition to the government agency recites that unsanitary and unsafe dwelling accommodations exist in Monroe and that such conditions arise from over-crowding and concentration of population, the obsolete and poor condition of buildings, improper planning, excessive land coverage, lack of proper light, air space and access, unsanitary design and arrangement, lack of proper sanitary facilities and the existence of conditions which endanger life and property by fire and other causes.

The petition further states that there are many families of low income here who are forced to reside in unsafe and unsanitary dwelling accommodations, and that there is a lack of suitable buildings at rents which families of

MEETS FATE OF DIVISION IT WAS TRYING TO SAVE

Slowly Annihilated After Being Trapped In Snow-Shrouded Labyrinth

Soviet Forces Storming At Gates Of Viipuri But Still Held Back

By Wade Werner

HELSINKI, March 2.—(AP)—Finland's stalwart fighters tonight marked up another smashing defeat to the Red army in the cold fastness northeast of Lake Ladoga while the defenders of Viipuri held at bay ponderous Russian forces storming the very gates of the ancient key city on the Karelian isthmus.

This time, the Finns announced, it was the 34th Moscow tank brigade which was trapped in a snow-shrouded labyrinth—so easy to march into, so deadly when phantom ski troops suddenly close the exits—where the formidable 18th Soviet division recently met its doom.

The 34th tank brigade had been attempting to come to the rescue of the 1[illegible]th divisi[illegible] But it was caught, the Finns said, encircled and finally annihilated, meeting the same fate as the division it tried to save.

Thus tonight on another frozen battlefield lay some 2,050 Russian dead.

Numerically inferior to the invading force and vastly inferior in weight of motorized equipment, the Finns first had to entangle the advancing brigade in the bleak country th[illegible]w so intimately, break it [illegible] smaller, more "convenient" [illegible]sting it with sniping into wast[illegible] its ammunition, worry it and heckle it day after day while its supplies ran low, and then systematically destroy it in a series of sudden attacks.

The Russians stubbornly dug themselves in, made fortresses of their immobilized tanks and fought valiantly.

But on February 29, the Finns announced, the last of the embattled groups was stormed and its stronghold captured.

Yesterday mopping up was completed and the Finns began to count their war booty.

The Finnish communique said that captured war material so far counted after the defeat of the 34th brigade in-

HITLER ARGUES BEFORE WELLES

By Louis P. Lochner

BERLIN, March 2.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler zealously argued Nazi Germany's case for a new place in the sun in a 94-minute session today with Sumner Welles in which informed sources said he pledged the Reich to fight until she felt secure in a vast central European "living space" and had untrammeled access to raw materials.

Amid a great show of an "invincible will to victory" in the nation to add to the information the American is sifting for President Roosevelt, the fuehrer was portrayed as pledging a battle against the allies until:

1. Germany has unchallenged political domination extending through Bohemia-Moravia, Slovakia and Hungary on the southeast and, through German-occupied Poland on the east.

2. Great Britain and Frace promise not to stir up the Balkan nations on the south and Scandinavia on the north.

3. Germany's war-lost colonies are

CAPITAL MAY GET BREATHING SPELL

BATON ROUGE, La., March 2.—(AP)—Louisiana's capital, on edge for months as sizzling political developments pyramided excitement, settled back for a breathing spell after today's events.

Governor-Designate Sam Jones left for his home at Lake Charles, preparing to go from there to "an undisclosed place" on a three-week vacation.

His defeated gubernatorial opponent, Governor Earl K. Long, said he expected to "go off and rest for the next three or four days."

The capital breathed relief.

Says House Group Camouflaging Reasons For Refusing Canal Appropriation

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN, March 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, returning to the capital after a cruise in Central American waters, accused the house appropriations committee today of camouflaging its reasons for refusing $15,000,000 he asked to begin enlarging the Panama canal.

Congress, he said, has full authority to delay for a year the construction of an extra set of locks, but he added somewhat grimly that such action should not be camouflaged by statements that the war department was pushing the project too rapidly.

The president said that the responsibility for delay should be squarely on congress, because plans are sufficiently far advanced to permit construction to get under way this spring on the extra set of locks, which would cost $277,000,000.

As he traveled back to the capital Mr. Roosevelt left four big issues unsolved. These were the problems:

1. Will the president seek a third term? He told newsmen only that he

TWO HUMAN SKINS SENT TO TANNERY

NAPA, Calif., March 2.—(AP)—Two skins, described by Undersheriff John Claussen as those of human beings, were delivered to the Japa Tanning company today with a note asking that they be made into a pair of gloves. The note was unsigned.

The railway express package containing the skins bore the return address of a tanning company in Salem, Ore.

J. E. Trodden, proprietor of the Napa Tanning company, said he recognized the skins as those of human beings and summoned Claussen, who agreed.

Claussen said one skin had a heavy growth of hair on the chest and apparently was that of a man. The other appeared to be that of a woman.

One skin had been stripped from the torso and upper arms in one piece. The skin from the legs was packed separately. The other was from the torso only and was cut down the sides.

The skins were wrapped in heavy brown paper with a piece of cloth between each section of skin. Trodden said this was the usual packing method.

PERTINENT JONES PRONOUNCEMENTS

BATON ROUGE, La., March 2.—(AP)—Pertinent pronouncements made today by Governor-Designate Sam Jones:

I believe that on February 20 a new era was born in Louisiana.

There was a new birth of freedom and a new declaration of independence.

It signified the end of dictatorship and the enthronement of democracy.

There will be no more hasty, fly-by-night special session legislatures. From now on every proposal will be given mature deliberation.

I hold a mandate from the people to carry out the pledges and principles of Sam Jones and with all my power I will try to carry out those principles in a constitutional manner.

I expect to formulate a complete program to carry out my platform pledges.

When you consider the magnitude of the task we have to face, there is none too much time to prepare. My entire time from here on out will be spent in preparation of my program.

The great and unbought masses of the people of this state do not understand Sam Jones if any believe that I am going to be controlled.

I have my mandate from the people as a whole and I shall be responsible to the people as a whole.

Protest Made Against 'Grave Violation Of Neutrality' And 'Aggression'

BRUSSELS, March 2.—(AP)—Two Belgian army planes were shot down over their homeland today in a clash with a German bomber which the government quickly protested to Berlin as "a grave violation of Belgian neutrality and an act of aggression."

One Belgian pilot was killed and another was wounded in the clash.

The incident, announced in a communique, was followed swiftly by a series of unrelated accidents in which four other Belgian planes crashed and one pilot was killed, making the day the worst in the nation's aviation history.

Within a short time after the issuance of the communique, German Ambassador Vicco Karl von Buelow-Schwante, obviously disturbed, hastened to the Belgian foreign office.

He was kept waiting 45 minutes before he was admitted to Foreign Minister Paul Henry Spaak. He was with Spaak for about 10 minutes, and after his departure the government announced a "vigorous" protest had been registered.

The official Belgian version said that three Belgian planes were in-

Egyptian Tomb Yields Vast Fortune In Gold And Gems

CAIRO, Egypt, March 2.—(AP)—A king's ransom in gold and jewels that for 3,600 years had graced a Pharoah's mummy shone in the fierce Egyptian sunlight today.

Archaelogists rejoiced in the discovery and exploration of a tomb some considered more important to historians than Tut-Ankh-Amen's—that of Psou Sennes, second king of the 21st dynasty and possibly one of Solomon's many fathers-in-law.

Discovery of the tomb two weeks ago and the opening of the royal sarcophagus on February 28 in the presence of modern Egypt's ruler, King Farouk, crowned 10 years of toil by the French Egyptologist, Pierre Montet.

Working for Strasbourg university Professor Montet grubbed patiently for a decade in the sands of San El Hagar, west of the Nile delta site of the ancient city of Tanis built by Rameses the Second as a holiday resort.

There under the great temple built by Rameses, Montet found the tomb entrance, a shaft four feet deep, which led to an anteroom. A short passage led the scientist to the burial chamber, 22 feet long, nine feet wide and nine feet high, with walls of rose granite.

Inside the huge sarcophagus, also of rose granite and carved with symbolic figures of the dead king and the god Osiris, lay the body of the man who ruled an empire which was old and dying when Homer sang of Troy, the head encased in a mask of pure gold and the body swathed in silver gilt.

The prize, sought in vain by such distinguished Egyptologists as Sir Flinders Petrie in the ruins of the city from which Moses is believed to have led the Exodus, is a rich one. Inscriptions on the walls of the tomb and the sarcophage and on the jewels

JONES GETS THUNDEROUS OVATION AS HE APPEARS

Old Democratic Group Strikes Off Earl's Name And Picks Gremillion

BATON ROUGE, La., March 2.—(AP)—Final destruction of the powerful old Huey P. Long political machine was completed today when the former rubber stamp legislature and Democratic state central committee turned on Governor Earl K. Long to sweep him into political oblivion.

Louisiana's Democratic electorate had rendered the machine a smashing blow at the polls February 20 when voters chose Sam H. Jones their next governor on a pledge of government reform here.

Governor Long, who was defeated by Jones then, today saw a runaway legislature refuse even to convene at his call, and a short time later the Democratic state central committee knifed his attempted coup to get into Jones' administration by scratching him as the appointed nominee for secretary of state.

Long, vowing vengeance, as his formerly unbroken ranks of supporters flowed away from him without a break, threatened to take the committee's annulment of its former appointment to the post to the courts, but the prevailing opinion was this was an idle threat which never would materialize.

An amazing spectacle such as Louisianians have not seen in 12 years unfolded before excited galleries assembled in the state capitol here today to see how Long's second attempt in two days to call the legislature into special session would develop. Long's call asked the formerly obedient body to pass legislation sharply crimping Jones' administration in criminal violation which Jones has pledged to carry out when he comes into office.

The legislature, in open revolt for the first time in 12 years, spurned Long, however, and failed to produce a quorum in either body, and Long angrily abandoned the session, issuing a sharp and rambling statement later saying his supporters had quit him.

Immediately afterward the state central committee made an about face from action of last Sunday, scratched Long from the ticket and certified a Jones candidate for the secretary of stateship, a key government position.

Muttering angrily, Long passed the long hallway where his brother, the Kingfish, was shot four and a half years ago, now and then glaring at Jones, who was waiting in an anteroom for the newly seated state central committee to organize along "democratic" lines and call him before the body.

The committee wiped out another of the Long power practices of naming delegates to the national Democratic committee and voted to name them instead in state convention, then summoned Jones, who was given a thunderous ovation as he appeared to pledge himself to returning "Louisiana and its government to the people."

Jones solemnly announced he would bring to the state "a new era * * * a new day of freedom and independence signifying the end of dictatorship and the enthronement of democracy."

Within 24 hours—last night and today—Long twice unsuccessfully summoned into special session the legislature which until now had always murmured "yea" to any administration proposal. At neither time did a quorum of legislators appear.

MONOPOLY CHARGED TO PAPER MILLS

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—A charge that paper pulp mills have a "hog-tied monopoly" in dealing with small timberland owners was made before a joint congressional forestry investigation today by Representative Fulmer, Democrat, South Carolina, vice-chairman of the group.

Fulmer cited recent antitrust fines against the Southern Pine association at New Orleans in support of his charge that farmers and other small land owners "get almost nothing" for wood sold to pulp mills.

Fulmer suggested states be required to meet certain legislative standards on cutting timber, reforestation and fire protection before they receive any share in federal funds provided for acquisition and protection of forest lands.

He said the Southern Pine association, representing 275 mills in 11 southern states, had paid a $10,000 fine at New Orleans recently for fixing prices in violation of antitrust laws.

H. A. Hicks, committee investigator, testified commissions for agents, contractors and other middlemen took a large part of the price that pulp mills were paying southern land owners for timber.

ANTI-POLITICAL WARNING GIVEN

Farm Committee Members Are Told They Must Not Take Part In Campaigns

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—The agriculture department has notified its 130,000 farmer members of local AAA committees—many of whom are party leaders—that they must not take active part in forthcoming presidential, state, congressional and local campaigns.

The farmer committeemen are subject to the Hatch act designed to prevent "pernicious" political activity on the part of federal employees.

Aides of Secretary Wallace, who has endorsed President Roosevelt for a third term, said a ruling by the department's solicitor, Martin S. White, holding the AAA committeemen liable under the Hatch law, was "significant."

They said "thousands" of the committeemen were local party leaders. Many were said to be members of party committees.

The administration has counted these farmers as the backbone of the rural support for the Wallace crop control programs. However, under the department's ruling, they apparently would not be in a position to comply with a recent Wallace plea that "friends" of the farm program work for the election of congressmen who likewise were friendly.

Approximately 70,000 other employes of the department, both in Washington and in the field, also have been instructed to stay out of active politics.

"In general," said a memorandum sent jobholders, "such employes (AAA committeemen) must not solicit political contributions from other agricultural conservation association employes, employee of the agricultural adjustment administration, or other government employes, or persons drawing federal emergency relief benefits."

The memorandum added, however, that such employes were free to make voluntary political contributions.

"They may not run for or hold elective federal, state, or major county office, but may run for or hold other offices. They may not serve as officers or employes of polyitical organizations or use the property or facilities of the AAA committees for political purposes," it stated.

Violators of these regulations, the document said, would be subject to automatic discharge.

ALLEN SENDS JONES CONGRATULATIONS

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Representative Allen, Democrat, Louisiana, made public today the text of a letter of congratulations he sent Sam Jones shortly after the latter's victory over Governor Earl K. Long in Louisiana's runoff Democratic primary.

"The Democratic party of Louisiana has nominated you for governor and as a loyal Democrat I desire to extend to you my sincere congratulations and wish for you a successful administration," Allen wrote.

"The welfare of the people of Louisiana is paramount and should be uppermost in the heart of every loyal Louisianian and transcends factionalism. It is with this thought that I not only extend to you my best wishes but say to you that it will be my pleasure to cooperate with you and your administration in all matters for the best interests of the citizens of Louisiana."

STATE REPUBLICANS TO NAME DELEGATES

SHREVEPORT, La., March 2.—(AP)—Philip H. Mecom, chairman, and Robert L. Clark, secretary of the Republican state central committee, announced that a convention at Alexandria March 23 would elect four delegates at large and four alternate delegates to the national convention.

Mecom said delegates to the state meeting will be elected under auspices of the member or members of the Republican state central committee of each parish and from the 17 wards of Orleans parish.

The announcement said the appointment of delegates to the state convention and congressional district conventions shall be on the basis of one delegate for every 500 Republican votes cast in the last presidential election.

The national Republican convention will start at Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.

BATON ROUGE, La., March 2.—(AP)—Work done by the Louisiana State Law institute since the project meeting of its council last June will be considered at the institute's first annual session at the Louisiana State university March 16, it was announced here today by Dr. Paul M. Hebert, acting president of the university.

FLOOD RECEDING

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—(AP)—Many of the 6,000 or more refugees from one of the worst northern California floods in recent years returned to their homes today as the waters receded and a warm sun brought them comfort. Deaths attributed to the flood increased to six after Joseph Rosasco, 63, a farmer discouraged by having his orchard inundated twice in the last few years, tied a weight around his neck and drowned in a pit of muddy water.

ONE KILLED AND 12 INJURED IN TORNADO

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 2.—(AP)—A tornado, preceded by heavy rain and hail, ripped through the north industrial section of Evansville this afternoon, killing a 9-year-old girl and injuring at least 12 persons.

Josephine Daugherty died in the wreckage of a two-story frame home. Her mother, Mrs. W. C. Daugherty, 25, was injured dangerously and four younger Daugherty children were hurt.

The tornado came from the west and skipped northeastward through the city, striking with its hardest force in the industrial section.

Weather bureau officials said the wind reached a velocity of 48 miles an hour.

Several homes were twisted off their foundations and demolished, others were unroofed. Several industrial buildings were damaged. Trees were uprooted and communications disrupted.

Among those injured were Mrs. Dorothy Fireline, 23, and her three young children. Their home was one of those torn apart.

Ralph Hayden, 40, and F. C. Pfeiffer, 64, were injured as they worked in a burial vault company's one-story plant. Hack Moore, garbage collector, was another injured.

Bricks and concrete blocks were hurled 200 feet.

Almost simultaneously, a tornado swept through an Alton, Ill., residential district, causing heavy damage. No injuries were reported immediately. Earlier, high winds damaged the Shawneetown, Ill., high school building.

NATCHEZ PILGRIMAGE SEASON IS LAUNCHED

NATCHEZ, Miss., March 2.—(AP)—The pilgrimage season of Natchez in which life and customs of the antebellum south are depicted against a background of old plantation homes opened today with the ninth annual tour of the Pilgrimage Garden club.

Visitors from as far east as New York and Connecticut and as far west as South Dakota were on hand.

During the day tours were conducted to a dozen of the 21 estates, some more than a century old, which are shown in the pilgrimage, and the remainder will be open tomorrow.

Hugh Bowie, young Natchez businessman, and Miss Ruth Audley Beltzhoover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melchoir Beltzhoover, were crowned king and queen tonight at a colorful Confederate ball to reign throughout the three weeks of the tour. They will preside at the balls and entertainments to be presented on alternative nights.

Negroes sang spirituals, citizens wore dress of "before the war," and young men donned Confederate uniforms.

The tour of the Pilgrimage Garden club will continue until March 23, and then the Natchez Garden club will sponsor a similar tour through April 7.

GRAND JURY TO BE DISCHARGED

Body Inactive For Months Will Make Final Report Monday

NEW ORLEANS, March 2.—(AP)—One of the most embattled parish grand juries in New Orleans history, now reorganized and for months inactive, will make a final report Monday and then be discharged to make way for a new body.

The 11-man jury has been summoned by District Attorney Niels F. Hertz to submit its report to Criminal Judge George P. Platt so that it can be dismissed.

Then Criminal Judge Fred Oser will select a new jury to which Hertz said he would "present certain matters."

The outgoing jury was selected by Platt September 5, immediately began an investigation of "scandals" cases and returned indictments for alleged embazzlement from Louisiana State university and conservation department.

While the jury was scrutinizing charges of a tax racket, dual office-holding, "deadheads" on public payrolls and other cases of alleged political corruption, two jurors were dismissed by Platt.

The two, Sidney DeArmas and Edgar Powell, were arrested and fired from the jury when they insisted on reading in open court a petition signed by seven jurymen charging Charles A. Byrne, then district attorney, was hampering their probe.

Byrne quit in the midst of a public hearing which he demanded—and received—after the jurors made their allegations.

No attempt was made to convene the jury until after January 11 when Platt appointed Royal B. Stein and E. L. Loubat to replace DeArmas and Powell.

But since then—in spite of numerous attempts to convene the jury in a resumption of the "scandals" probe—it could never meet because it always lacked a quorum.

On February 13 Hugh Quarles resigned with the assertion the jury had been prevented from doing its duty since the dismissal of DeArmas and Powell.

22.2 MILES PER GALLON!
ECONOMY RUN

Official figures on the Mercury Economy Run were announced today. The stock Mercury 8 that finished the 2,203.6-mile Economy Run—the same car that came here earlier last month—averaged 22.2 miles per gallon of gasoline for the full distance! Crank case oil was not changed during the trip.

AMAZING RECORD FOR A BIG CAR

That a car of the Mercury's size could make such a record is extraordinary. That it was made under ordinary driving conditions, on city and country roads, at speeds up to 50 miles an hour, is even more impressive. But these results have only echoed what Mercury owners have been telling us ever since this great car was introduced!

We'll be delighted to arrange a demonstration for you.

ANTI-POLITICAL WARNING GIVEN

Farm Committee Members Are Told They Must Not Take Part In Campaigns

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—The agriculture department has notified its 130,000 farmer members of local AAA committees—many of whom are party leaders—that they must not take active part in forthcoming presidential, state, congressional and local campaigns.

The farmer committeemen are subject to the Hatch act designed to prevent "pernicious" political activity on the part of federal employees.

Aides of Secretary Wallace, who has endorsed President Roosevelt for a third term, said a ruling by the department's solicitor, Martin S. White, holding the AAA committeemen liable under the Hatch law, was "significant."

They said "thousands" of the committeemen were local party leaders. Many were said to be members of party committees.

The administration has counted these farmers as the backbone of the rural support for the Wallace crop control programs. However, under the department's ruling, they apparently would not be in a position to comply with a recent Wallace plea that "friends" of the farm program work for the election of congressmen who likewise were friendly.

Approximately 70,000 other employes of the department, both in Washington and in the field, also have been instructed to stay out of active politics.

"In general," said a memorandum sent jobholders, "such employes (AAA committeemen) must not solicit political contributions from other agricultural conservation association employes, employee of the agricultural adjustment administration, or other government employes, or persons drawing federal emergency relief benefits."

The memorandum added, however, that such employes were free to make voluntary political contributions.

"They may not run for or hold elective federal, state, or major county office, but may run for or hold other offices. They may not serve as officers or employes of polyitical organizations or use the property or facilities of the AAA committees for political purposes," it stated.

Violators of these regulations, the document said, would be subject to automatic discharge.

ALLEN SENDS JONES CONGRATULATIONS

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Representative Allen, Democrat, Louisiana, made public today the text of a letter of congratulations he sent Sam Jones shortly after the latter's victory over Governor Earl K. Long in Louisiana's runoff Democratic primary.

"The Democratic party of Louisiana has nominated you for governor and as a loyal Democrat I desire to extend to you my sincere congratulations and wish for you a successful administration," Allen wrote.

"The welfare of the people of Louisiana is paramount and should be uppermost in the heart of every loyal Louisianian and transcends factionalism. It is with this thought that I not only extend to you my best wishes but say to you that it will be my pleasure to cooperate with you and your administration in all matters for the best interests of the citizens of Louisiana."

STATE REPUBLICANS TO NAME DELEGATES

SHREVEPORT, La., March 2.—(AP)—Philip H. Mecom, chairman, and Robert L. Clark, secretary of the Republican state central committee, announced that a convention at Alexandria March 23 would elect four delegates at large and four alternate delegates to the national convention.

Mecom said delegates to the state meeting will be elected under auspices of the member or members of the Republican state central committee of each parish and from the 17 wards of Orleans parish.

The announcement said the appointment of delegates to the state convention and congressional district conventions shall be on the basis of one delegate for every 500 Republican votes cast in the last presidential election.

The national Republican convention will start at Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.

FLOOD RECEDING

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—(AP)—Many of the 6,000 or more refugees from one of the worst northern California floods in recent years returned to their homes today as the waters receded and a warm sun brought them comfort. ONE KILLED AND 12 INJURED IN TORNADO

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 2.—(AP)—A tornado, preceded by heavy rain and hail, ripped through the north industrial section of Evansville this afternoon, killing a 9-year-old girl and injuring at least 12 persons.

Josephine Daugherty died in the wreckage of a two-story frame home. Her mother, Mrs. W. C. Daugherty, 25, was injured dangerously and four younger Daugherty children were hurt.

The tornado came from the west and skipped northeastward through the city, striking with its hardest force in the industrial section.

Weather bureau officials said the wind reached a velocity of 48 miles an hour.

Several homes were twisted off their foundations and demolished, others were unroofed. Several industrial buildings were damaged. Trees were uprooted and communications disrupted.

Among those injured were Mrs. Dorothy Fireline, 23, and her three young children. Their home was one of those torn apart.

Ralph Hayden, 40, and F. C. Pfeiffer, 64, were injured as they worked in a burial vault company's one-story plant. Hack Moore, garbage collector, was another injured.

Bricks and concrete blocks were hurled 200 feet.

Almost simultaneously, a tornado swept through an Alton, Ill., residential district, causing heavy damage. No injuries were reported immediately. Earlier, high winds damaged the Shawneetown, Ill., high school building.

NATCHEZ PILGRIMAGE SEASON IS LAUNCHED

NATCHEZ, Miss., March 2.—(AP)—The pilgrimage season of Natchez in which life and customs of the antebellum south are depicted against a background of old plantation homes opened today with the ninth annual tour of the Pilgrimage Garden club.

Visitors from as far east as New York and Connecticut and as far west as South Dakota were on hand.

During the day tours were conducted to a dozen of the 21 estates, some more than a century old, which are shown in the pilgrimage, and the remainder will be open tomorrow.

Hugh Bowie, young Natchez businessman, and Miss Ruth Audley Beltzhoover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melchoir Beltzhoover, were crowned king and queen tonight at a colorful Confederate ball to reign throughout the three weeks of the tour. They will preside at the balls and entertainments to be presented on alternative nights.

Negroes sang spirituals, citizens wore dress of "before the war," and young men donned Confederate uniforms.

The tour of the Pilgrimage Garden club will continue until March 23, and then the Natchez Garden club will sponsor a similar tour through April 7.

Massachusetts was once wooded in all portions, but now retains only a fraction of the original forest wealth.

GRAND JURY TO BE DISCHARGED

Body Inactive For Months Will Make Final Report Monday

NEW ORLEANS, March 2.—(AP)—One of the most embattled parish grand juries in New Orleans history, now reorganized and for months inactive, will make a final report Monday and then be discharged to make way for a new body.

The 11-man jury has been summoned by District Attorney Niels F. Hertz to submit its report to Criminal Judge George P. Platt so that it can be dismissed.

Then Criminal Judge Fred Oser will select a new jury to which Hertz said he would "present certain matters."

The outgoing jury was selected by Platt September 5, immediately began an investigation of "scandals" cases and returned indictments for alleged embazzlement from Louisiana State university and conservation department.

While the jury was scrutinizing charges of a tax racket, dual officeholding, "deadheads" on public payrolls and other cases of alleged political corruption, two jurors were dismissed by Platt.

The two, Sidney DeArmas and Edgar Powell, were arrested and fired from the jury when they insisted on reading in open court a petition signed by seven jurymen charging Charles A. Byrne, then district attorney, was hampering their probe.

Byrne quit in the midst of a public hearing which he demanded—and received—after the jurors made their allegations.

No attempt was made to convene the jury until after January 11 when Platt appointed Royal B. Stein and E. L. Loubat to replace DeArmas and Powell.

But since then—in spite of numerous attempts to convene the jury in a resumption of the "scandals" probe—it could never meet because it always lacked a quorum.

On February 13 Hugh Quarles resigned with the assertion the jury had been prevented from doing its duty since the dismissal of DeArmas and Powell.

22.2 MILES PER GALLON!
ECONOMY RUN

Official figures on the Mercury Economy Run were announced today. The stock Mercury 8 that finished the 2,203.6-mile Economy Run—the same car that came here earlier last month—averaged 22.2 miles per gallon of gasoline for the full distance! Crank case oil was not changed during the trip.

AMAZING RECORD FOR A BIG CAR

That a car of the Mercury's size could make such a record is extraordinary. That it was made under ordinary driving conditions, on city and country roads, at speeds up to 50 miles an hour, is even more impressive. But these results have only echoed what Mercury owners have been telling us ever since this great car was introduced!

We'll be delighted to arrange a demonstration for you.

Allan Jones Draws High Praise For Concert Work

Young Tenor To Appear At Neville Auditorium Friday Night

There have been many testimonials written to the excellence of Allan Jones' voice and the charm of his personality, but unique is the unsolicited letter received by the Morning World yesterday from Harriet B. Jenner, music critic of the Evansville Courier of Evansville, Ind.

Jones will be presented here next Friday night by the Junior Charity league, whose members are now conducting the advance ticket sale. The concert will be held at the Neville High school auditorium.

Miss Jenner's letter follows:

"Seldom do I have such a thrilling surprise as I did here Monday night when Allan Jones sang such a beautiful concert that I have heard only praise of his work.

"I expected him to be good and I enthusiastically wrote stories about him and talked him up as I happen to be a member of the club sponsoring the concert.

"A singer who has been underplayed, Jones has a vital and powerful voice with beautiful clear tones and it carried well in a hall where acoustics are none too good.

"His stage presence is marvelous and he has loads of personality. He definitely has not gone 'Hollywood' and I noticed none of the cockiness I was somewhat prepared to see.

REVISED TRAFFIC CODE DRAFTED

The original draft of a new traffic code for Monroe was completed this week after a series of conferences attended by the Chamber of Commerce traffic committee and city officials, according to B. A. Trousdale, chairman of the committee.

To be passed at an early meeting of the city commissioner council, the new code will replace the present obsolete code, effective in 1928. It represents a marked departure from the old regulations, pertaining to the present-day traffic situation, Mr. Trousdale stated.

Features for improvement of traffic as recommended by the National Safety Council were incorporated into the code. They were contributed to the local traffic council by H. J. James, who has made a careful study of the national body's regulations. Thorougly familiar with Monroe's traffic problem, Judge W. M. Harper contributed valuable ideas to the new code, Mr. Trousdale said.

Extensive plans are underway to popularize the code among citizens of Monroe, the chairman indicated.

C. Of C. Seeks Members

The Chamber of Commerce is preparing plans for its 1940 membership drive, and the wholehearted cooperation of the entire citizenship must be had if the campaign is a success.

A well-rounded program has been adopted for the coming year. Perhaps some of these projects will not be successfully completed, but judging by past performances, a great deal of good will result from the efforts of those who make up our leading civic organization. This program was formulated after a series of civic clinics had been held; after every member of the Chamber of Commerce had been given an opportunity to air his views concerning the needs of the Twin Cities.

It is indeed an ambitious program, and hence the necessary finances must be obtained to carry on the work outlined by the membership at large. That's where the present campaign comes in. The Chamber of Commerce has adopted a budget of $13,728.45, certainly a relatively small amount for such an important function.

The 1940 budget represents an increase of some $2,000 over the money expended in 1939. Yet the per capita cost to the citizens of Monroe and West Monroe is considerably under that of other nearby cities. El Dorado has a per capita cost of $1.19; Lake Charles, $1.12; Ruston, $1.19; Vicksburg, .60, and Camden, $1.34, to cite a few. With the increased budget, the per capita cost in the Twin Cities will be .45. Last year it was .35.

A board of experienced business men of Monroe and West Monroe direct the activities of the Chamber of Commerce, and the expenditures are scrutinized most thoroughly. Under the supervision of these men the money is wisely spent.

Membership in the Chamber of Commerce offers an opportunity to contribute to the growth and development of our community, and we are confident that the committees conducting the 1940 membership drive will find a ready response to their appeal.

CAVALRY AND MODERN WAR

The embattled warhorse has just won a striking victory over his mechanized-minded critics. According to a dispatch from Washington, horse cavalry regiments are to be expanded from a six-troop to a nine-troop peace strength with a boost in enlistment from 744 to 1,122. There are also to be two additional rifle troops and a distinct innovation—special weapon troops equipped with eight machine guns.

Apparently the cavalrymen took to heart the advice of their chief, Major General John K. Herr, who said a year ago it is time for all cavalrymen "to make some effort to demonstrate to the people of this country the truth concerning the efficiency and worth of American cavalry." Since then there has been a lively debate within the army in defense of the horse's right to fight in modern wars. Despite the German's example of sensational mechanized blitzkrieg in Poland, American cavalrymen think their branch of the service is coming back into its own.

For a time things looked black for the cavalry after the trench fighting of the World war. Many men in America were unhorsed to take the wheels of motorized equipment. In 1916 the horse cavalry was 17,357 strong in enlisted men. Today its strength is 9,838, scattered among ten regiments. However, the men on horseback have kept a sharp eye on the modern use of cavalry in Spain, China and even in France, where riders have taken over scouting patrols. They quote Nazi headquarters staff on the feats of the German cavalry in Poland.

General Herr argues that a conflict in this hemisphere would be a war of movement and that "whenever there is movement there is a greater need for cavalry in large masses."

SOLD FOR FIFTY CENTS

The transitory nature of all human glories has been rarely so clearly demonstrated as in the sale of a silver goblet, presented to Stephen Decatur more than a century ago, for the modest sum of 50 cents. The sale, admittedly, was made in a pawnshop. The pawnshop is the last judgment on many evidences of the vanity of human ambitions and aspirations. In the pawnshop may be found the sad relics of misguided sentiment, the evidences of economic desperation and the sacrificed treasures of family pride.

But imagination may wonder why a silver goblet which was presented to an American hero by his Philadelphia admirers, who honored Stephen Decatur for his "virtue, and his valor," would be valued, at last, at the trifling redemption value of 50 cents. Are the honors and the dignities of the world of such transitory value? Does fame have such a short life?

Probably this is the ultimate destiny of all human greatness. Its day is brief, its glory but for a moment. In his time Stephen Decatur was a great man, deserving the tribute of an honorary silver set from his patriotic friends. But he has been dead a long time and one item from his set of silver has been pawned for the inconsiderable sum of 50 cents.

WASHINGTON—The real nature of the split in the labor board has so far eluded even the Smith committee, although it was the Smith committee which made the split public.

The disharmony between Board Member William M. Leiserson, on one side, and Members J. Warren Madden and Edwin S. Smith on the other, goes far deeper than the publicized row over "slipshod procedure" and the proper staffing of the board.

It reaches down to fundamentals, and—although the fact is not generally realized—on the basic point at issue Smith and Madden are actually much closer to the Smith committee's position than is Dr. Leiserson.

Broad Functions Of Board Are Hit

Basic complaint against the board throughout the Smith hearings has been the charge that it is judge, jury and prosecutor all in one. Congressman Smith has hammered at this point repeatedly, drawing out much testimony intended to show that a board with those three jobs to fill is apt to go haywire here and there.

Defense tactics, as shaped by Madden and Smith and Board Counsel Fahy, have been to show that the situation really isn't as bad as it looks; that the different functions of the board are kept in air-tight compartments, so that the job of prosecution is thoroughly insulated from the job of fact-finding.

There is where Leiserson most sharply differs with his colleagues. By his philosophy, the only way to answer the judge-jury-prosecutor charge is to say: "Why, of course we're those three things in one—that's the only way in which a board like this can work, the only way in which a law like the Wagner act can meet the problem it was created to meet."

Viewpoint Adopted From Wisconsin

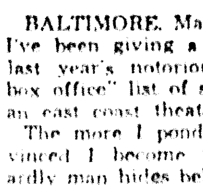
Leiserson draws his philosophy from the Wisconsin school of a generation ago—the school of the elder LaFollette and the famous Dr. John R. Commons. That philosophy, in brief, runs like this:

Complex modern life creates problems which existing machinery cannot handle; problems partly legal, partly administrative, partly judicial. Courts can't handle them, because they're only partly legal problems; ordinary administrative agencies can't handle them, because's they're only partly administrative problems. The problems can't be solved at all unless there is a new agency combining all of these functions in one.

Leiserson Is Not A Right-Winger

This is what is back of Leiserson's oft-repeated complaints about "too much of the legalistic viewpoint" on the board. Because that viewpoint is prevalent, he feels, the board has hamstrung itself in its fight for life and is making its fight on its enemies' own ground.

The odd part about it all is that Leiserson is commonly regarded as the board's one "moderate," even as its lone right-winger. Actually, he is much farther from the Smith committee's viewpoint than are its two favorite targets, Smith and Madden.



JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

BALTIMORE, March 2—Dear Staff: I've been giving a lot of thought to last year's notorious "poison at the box office" list of stars, given out by an east coast theater official.

The more I ponder, the more convinced I become that only a cowardly man hides behind futile excuses to explain his own failures. I mean, maybe the exhibitor who blamed the stars was himself to blame if his theaters were not prospering. Maybe he was not selling his goods to the public as they should have been sold.

Remember that poison list? It included Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford, Marlene Dietrich and Katharine Hepburn. The theater chap said their names on marquees kept people away. "Death to the box office," he described them.

But look at the records. Garbo's "Ninotchka" is piling up! Look at Hepburn's mark of 10 highly successful months in the stage play, "Philadelphia Story." Look at Dietrich standing 'em in line to see "Destry Rides Again," and look what Crawford did for box offices in "The Women."

Nothing poison about those stars today, is there? I'll wager that this exhibitor who was screaming insults at them a year ago, is bidding for their pictures today. It would serve him right if he couldn't get them.

So the fault was not with the stars at all. Given good pictures, exploited with some degree of showmanship, and that same group of stars will be clicking for years to come.

I wonder if that easterner who concocted that poisonous "poison list" isn't a wee bit ashamed of himself today?

JIMMIE FIDLER.

Dear Boss: Instead of harping on that raise, we'll tell you about a new word game that's sweeping Hollywood. To illustrate, Mr. Doe asks: "What's a down-south fairy?" Mr. Moe must answer with two words which rhyme ("Dixie pixie"—get it?). The youngest member of the staff thought he had us stymied this morning. Said he: "What are Fidler's reporters?" But quick as a flash, we all shouted: "Scrooge's stooges!" Which will prove to you that we're alert and on our toes, even if you are away.

News this past week has been scarce, but here are our gleanings: Despite its anti-war theme, British censors have okayed "The Fighting 69th" without change or deletion. . . . The Bill Boyds are marooned on their mountain ranch—recent rain storms caused landslides that blocked all roads to the property. . . . Dr. Ernst Toch, famous "modernist" composer has been signed by Paramount to do "mood music" for "The Ghost Breakers." . . . The John Paynes (Ann Shirley) have enrolled their expected heir-rival in the class of 1958 at the University of Virginia, John's alma mammy. . . . Marjorie Weaver's new heart beat is Walter Brooks, III, socialite. . . .

Linda Darnell's "dates" with Robert Shaw have been given rather amusing official sanction. After a solemn huddle, 20th Century execs decided that romance for so young, and so promising, a starlet would jeopardize her box-office value. On the other hand, who could expect so pretty a miss to be a stay-at-home? In their hour of perplexity, Linda's mother offered a suggestion. Robert Shaw, a former neighbor in Dallas, should be perfectly safe, since he and Linda have known one another too long to be anything more than pals. "Just the thing," said the studio Solomons—and forthwith appointed Mr. Shaw official escort to all premieres, parties and other social events.

Add Jimmy Cagney and Pat O'Brien to the songstar list—after hearing them do an off-set duet in close harmony, the director ordered a song number inserted for them in "Torrid Zone." . . . Jane Withers returns tomorow from her record-breaking p. a. tour. . . . Joan Davis had to blue-pencil that Indianapolis vacation—the flu's got her. . . . George Brent is long-distancing Ann Sheridan daily from Honolulu. . . . Eddie Albert and Beverly Holden are in hearty accord. . . . Add Irene Dunne, Charles Laughton and Carole Lombard to flu epidemic victims. . . . Edward Arnold's autobiography, "Lorenzo Goes to Hollywood," is selling so well he's started a sequel detailing his Filmville adventures. . . . Here's an amusing reversal of form: RKO, which like all studios has frowned on air jaunts for its stars, this week inserted a special clause in Maureen O'Hara's contract, stipulating that she must travel by clipper when she pays that visit to Ireland. . . . The laugh highlight in "The Dictator" will be a scene in which Charlie Chaplin, as Hitler, and Jack Oakie, as Mussolini, fight it out with custard pies. . . .

Human Side Of The News

(Copyright, 1940, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Once upon a time two great nations who ruled the world renounced forever war as an instrument of policy. They made a treaty to put an end to all that, but the wars went on and their glories faded and their temples became dust and there came other great nations solemnly to forswear war and to keep right on fighting.

This cut-back to thirty-two centuries before the Briand-Kellogg peace pact is suggested by the news story of the thrilling discoveries of the University of Chicago expedition, in its excavations near the town of the ancient Hittite city of Ras-el-Ain, in Syria.

The above peace treaty between the Hittites and the Egyptians is a previous discovery, and was a spur to these continuing efforts to piece out the story of power politics between the years 2,000 and 1,500 B. C. Discoveries to date are enlightening and just a bit disturbing in their reminder that the world of 3,000 years ago was, in its political aspects, pretty much like that of today. Human nature hasn't changed much. The onward march to the "parliament of mankind" seems to need a grand marshal.

The Hittites, lodging in our minds today only in a few Scriptural allusions, ruled a vast domain and held the Egyptians to a standstill in the outreach for "lebesraum." Around the year 1200 they were both hanging on the ropes and decided to be friends. Here's the first recorded Kellogg pact in history, as concluded between Rameses, the Egyptian and Hattushilish, the Hittite:

"There shall be no hostilities between them forever. The great chief of the Hittites shall not pass over into the land of Egypt, forever, to take anything therefrom; Rameses, the great chief of Egypt, shall not pass over into the land of the Hittites, to take anything therefrom, forever.

"If another people (or state) shall come as an enemy against the land of Rameses, the great chief of Egypt, and he shall send to the great chief of the Hittites, saying, 'Come with me with your army against him,' the great chief of the Hittites shall come, and the great king of the great king of the Hittites shall slay his enemy.

"But if it shall not be the desire of the great chief of the Hittites to come, he shall send his infantry and his chariotry and shall slay his enemy. Or, if Rameses, the great chief of Egypt, be provoked against delinquent subjects, when they have committed some other fault against him, and he shall come to slay them, then the great chief of the Hittites shall act with the lord of Egypt."

You will find the above text of the treaty, in a scholarly historical context, in the book, "International Politics," by Frederick L. Schuman, professor of Political Science at Williams college. You will find a wider historical backdrop in an article by Langdon and Gardiner in the Journal of Egyptian Archaeology. The two nations bolstered their treaty with royal matrimonial alliances. Their peace held for a few decades, but, in effect, it was an alliance against weaker states, which the two ruling powers jointly crushed. The Hittite empire was wrecked by swarms of savage tribesmen from the west. Steady aggression from the Libyan desert pulled Egypt down until it became a mere also-ran among rising Asiatic empires.

The University of Chicago expedition will read in the ruins of Ras-el-Ain the unfailing destruction of the political state by the military state. They will read the story of competing imperialisms, and in the temporary world stability which they provided, a line-for-line text of the later Pax Romana and Pax Brittanica. And their banners, the drums, their trumpets, their tablets of the law, their swords and their garlands all went to Cain's warehouse in the end.

The Yankees are our favorite Hittites and three big league ball-players have come from Cairo, Ill. One can't help having a keen academic interest in what the University of Chicago digs up in Syria, but the spring training season will start soon and we'll be occupied with more urgent and timely matter. Maybe we're smug about it, but there doesn't seem to be much nourishment for us in this empire league.

One thing sticks out like a sore thumb. The little states were always tossed to the wolves, and in time the big states beaned themselves with graft and taxes. As the old song goes, "In the days of old Rameses that story had paresis." We still have a chance to make other arrangements.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The term, "cataract," refers to a condition in which the lens of the eye becomes clouded. The lens is a crystalline substance, is used to focus light on the back of the eye. A cataract is not a film growing across the eye. It is a physical change in the tissue which is like the frosting of a clear window glass.

In surgical treatment of cataract, the lens is removed. It becomes necessary, therefore, to wear eyeglasses which help to focus the light properly on the retina at the back of the eye, after an operation.

For many years all sorts of so-called medical treatments for cataract have been promoted to the public. Today, people do not fear operations as much as they used to, but nowadays medicine advances so rapidly and there are so many remarkable discoveries that people are inclined to be even more credulous than they used to be.

Dr. Allen Greenwood has pointed out that about 40 years ago, electricity and various kinds of shocks were being used to make people with cataracts think they were seeing better. Some charlatans drop drugs into the eye to dilate the pupil. Then the patient sees around the cataract and thinks that his vision is improving. But, of course, the dilation wears off, and the patient realizes that he has been victimized.

Today it can be said with certainty that no one is able to cut a cataract with drops or with medicaments applied to the eye. Usually, the person who is treated in this manner is given some good medical advice about his diet and living, which tends to make him feel better.

Frequently the eyeglasses can be changed to advantage during the time when the patient is making up his mind to have an operative procedure. There is an advantage in having the patient come regularly for inspection so that the progress of the cataract can be determined. It is not desirable, however, for a patient with a cataract to wait until he has become completely blind before having an operation.

There is no evidence that any of the vitamins now known is specific in stopping the growth and development of a cataract or in curing one.

The rate at which the cloudiness increases varies with every patient. Sometimes there may be a little cloudiness which will remain static for years before it becomes sufficient to cause real distress.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

DISOBEDIENCE IN CHILDREN

Most of the disobedience of little children is caused by the attitude of those in charge of them. They give too many directions, and they care about only a few of them. When they do not really care whether a child heeds or not they give scant attention to his response. If he sits up straight when somebody tells him to, good, if not, why bother? If he comes when he is called, good, if not, well, he will come by and by, or when he is called in earnest. That is a poor way to train children if one wants to accustom them to obedience.

And yet that is usual in many households. Direction after direction is fired at the child. Sometimes he heeds, sometimes, oftener than otherwise, he does not. By and by the time comes when the adult is in a hurry and wants instant obedience. Of course he does not get it, and of course he is put out about it. If it happens to be father, he wants to know why mother doesn't train that child of hers to mind. If it happens to be mother, she goes after him in no uncertain mood and fetches him along, smartly, and with many words, amid uproar and tears.

The fact is that a child needs few directions to which he should give instant obedience. But there are but few and they must be kept clearly in the parent's mind, and held firmly in the mind of the child. Instead of a child to do this and stop doing that all day long, be casual about the things that are unimportant, don't feel compelled to see and to hear and correct everything he does. Skip most of it and give him a direction only when you mean to have it obeyed. If that is done the child soon learns to obey promptly and cheerfully, and those in charge of him feel greatly relieved to know that he can be counted on when the time comes for it.

Children tire easily under pressure. Their nervous systems are not perfected and seasoned as ours are and any call upon them means fatigue. If the calls are constant, the child becomes so fatigued that his nerve centers close down for repairs. Then the child does not hear when he is spoken to, does not see clearly, cannot think clearly. There is likely to be a temper tantrum with all its allied difficulties.

All this can be avoided if one learns to speak firmly, to call for obedience, only when it is important to the child and those close to him. Mean to be obeyed. Mean what you say. There is force in a thought and when your thought is clear, strong, directed to one point, its force is powerful and calls for prompt response.

When you are clear in your thought as to what and why and when, as you speak to a child you do not have to shout to put power in your voice. The power of the thought behind your words puts full force into the tones of your voice and you can speak clearly in your usual tone and get the response you want. Only be careful not to do this many times a day.

When one has to shout at a child, call and call again, to get his attention one can be certain some of these essential facts have been overlooked. Children like to obey but when they know what is wanted and when it is not wanted too often.

It isn't fair to allow your child to form disagreeable little habits that will make other people dislike him, or her. Be guided by Angelo Patri's booklet, "Annoying Habits." Send for it, enclosing ten cents in coin. Address Angelo Patri, in care this newspaper, P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By Preston Grover

WASHINGTON—The Smith-of-Virginia committee investigating fumblings of the national labor relations board is hot on the trail of so-called "blackjacking" by the government.

The "blackjacking" is supposed to have been directed at business organizations to compel them to abide by the labor bargaining law.

But if the committee would cast a roving eye about, it would find that congress itself has been employing the same squeeze-plays for several years with the general aim of boosting wages and reducing working hours.

Congress' Wish

The major discovery of the committee was that the RFC had agreed to hold up loans to employers whose labor relations were under examination by the labor board.

Yet, by specific action, congress at various times has ruled that no business house or contractor can get government business unless he agrees in advance to guarantee "prevailing wages and hours."

The Bacon-Davis act requires "prevailing wages and hours" in all government building contracts above $2,000, while the Walsh-Healy act does the same for government supply contracts valued above $10,000.

Source Of Opposition

Whether or not it is a good idea for the government to go into these things is another question. There have been mutterings in congress that the thing has gone too far. One of the arguments against the long pending bill to grant extensive federal aid to schools was that it would permit the government to "blackjack" the states into adopting whatever trend in education the federal government happened to favor at the time. Good old state's righters looked upon it as almost the ultimate in breaking down state independence.

Hope To Raise Wages

"Blackjacking" is probably a strong word to use in such business, but the idea is the same in all instances. The government may have an idea that a certain glove-maker is paying too low wages, so when a contract for gloves is to be let, the low-wage glove-maker is automatically out of the bidding unless he agrees to pay prevailing wages in the making of the government gloves.

The result in some instances has been that workmen standing side by side draw two different scales of pay. The administrators of the law do not attempt to hide their hope that the result will be to force general adoption of the "prevailing wages" by all industries.

An Old Idea

As a matter of fact a somewhat modified system of governmental "blackjacking" of the states has been going on for a half century, all in the cause of better education. And the states love it.

The system has to do with the various "grants in aid" to the states for doing this and that. Annually the government puts up in excess of $30,000,000 for distribution among the states for education in home economics, vocational training and rehabilitation, for farm experimentation.

Most of the money must be matched dollar-for-dollar by the states. While the government claims not to hold too close a rein on how the states will spend the money, it exercises a veto power which is backed up by the prospect that the money may be withdrawn if the states don't follow directions.

That system dates clear back to 1887, when the Hatch act authorized research in rural home economics and sociology with a flavoring of agricultural experimenting. The states had to match the money if they got it.

And it was only lately that congress eased up on the most controversial squeeze of all—the ruling that land-grant colleges must require all male students of suitable physique to take military training.

STAMP NEWS

WILLIAM A. ROACH, designer of the authors group of the U. S. Famous Americans series, also designed the poet's stamp, second set of five in the issue. The John Greenleaf Whittier 2-cent, red value, will be released at the poet's birthplace, Haverhill, Mass., on Feb. 16.

Almost every American is familiar with Whittier's "Barbara Frietchie" and "The Barefoot Boy." Many of his verses have been set to music as hymns. Whittier's Quaker parents started him out as a shoemaker, but he quit that trade early to write. His life spanned most of the 19th century, from 1807 to 1892.

Lithuania will issue a new series of stamps to commemorate the restoration of Vilna, returned to Lithuania by Russia after the partition of Poland. The new series will displace the overprints currently in use.

The Postoffice Department has been asked to consider issuance of a stamp, for release in December, 1941, to commemorate the 125th anniversary of the admission of Indiana to the Union.

BIBLE THOUGHT

When thou shalt vow a vow unto the Lord thy god, thou shalt not slack to pay it: for the Lord thy God will surely require it of thee; and it would be a sin in thee.—Deuteronomy 23:21.

Hasty resolutions are of the nature of vows, and to be equally avoided.—Penn.

C. Of C. Seeks Members

The Chamber of Commerce is preparing plans for its 1940 membership drive, and the wholehearted cooperation of the entire citizenship must be had if the campaign is a success.

A well-rounded program has been adopted for the coming year. Perhaps some of these projects will not be successfully completed, but judging by past performances, a great deal of good will result from the efforts of those who make up our leading civic organization. This program was formulated after a series of civic clinics had been held; after every member of the Chamber of Commerce had been given an opportunity to air his views concerning the needs of the Twin Cities.

It is indeed an ambitious program, and hence the necessary finances must be obtained to carry on the work outlined by the membership at large. That's where the present campaign comes in. The Chamber of Commerce has adopted a budget of $13,728.45, certainly a relatively small amount for such an important function.

The 1940 budget represents an increase of some $2,000 over the money expended in 1939. Yet the per capita cost to the citizens of Monroe and West Monroe is considerably under that of other nearby cities. El Dorado has a per capita cost of $1.19; Lake Charles, $1.12; Ruston, $1.19; Vicksburg, .60, and Camden, $1.34, to cite a few. With the increased budget, the per capita cost in the Twin Cities will be .45. Last year it was .35.

A board of experienced business men of Monroe and West Monroe direct the activities of the Chamber of Commerce, and the expenditures are scrutinized most thoroughly. Under the supervision of these men the money is wisely spent.

Membership in the Chamber of Commerce offers an opportunity to contribute to the growth and development of our community, and we are confident that the committees conducting the 1940 membership drive will find a ready response to their appeal.

CAVALRY AND MODERN WAR

The embattled warhorse has just won a striking victory over his mechanized-minded critics. According to a dispatch from Washington, horse cavalry regiments are to be expanded from a six-troop to a nine-troop peace strength with a boost in enlistment from 744 to 1,122. There are also to be two additional rifle troops and a distinct innovation—special weapon troops equipped with eight machine guns.

Apparently the cavalrymen took to heart the advice of their chief, Major General John K. Herr, who said a year ago it is time for all cavalrymen "to make some effort to demonstrate to the people of this country the truth concerning the efficiency and worth of American cavalry." Since then there has been a lively debate within the army in defense of the horse's right to fight in modern wars. Despite the German's example of sensational mechanized blitzkrieg in Poland, American cavalrymen think their branch of the service is coming back into its own.

For a time things looked black for the cavalry after the trench fighting of the World war. Many men in America were unhorsed to take the wheels of motorized equipment. In 1916 the horse cavalry was 17,357 strong in enlisted men. Today its strength is 9,838, scattered among ten regiments. However, the men on horseback have kept a sharp eye on the modern use of cavalry in Spain, China and even in France, where riders have taken over scouting patrols. They quote Nazi headquarters staff on the feats of the German cavalry in Poland.

General Herr argues that a conflict in this hemisphere would be a war of movement and that "whenever there is movement there is a greater need for cavalry in large masses."

SOLD FOR FIFTY CENTS

The transitory nature of all human glories has been rarely so clearly demonstrated as in the sale of a silver goblet, presented to Stephen Decatur more than a century ago, for the modest sum of 50 cents. The sale, admittedly, was made in a pawnshop. The pawnshop is the last judgment on many evidences of the vanity of human ambitions and aspirations. In the pawnshop may be found the sad relics of misguided sentiment, the evidences of economic desperation and the sacrificed treasures of family pride.

But imagination may wonder why a silver goblet which was presented to an American hero by his Philadelphia admirers, who honored Stephen Decatur for his "virtue, and his valor," would be valued, at last, at the trifling redemption value of 50 cents. Are the honors and the dignities of the world of such transitory value? Does fame have such a short life?

Probably this is the ultimate destiny of all human greatness. Its day is brief, its glory but for a moment. In his time Stephen Decatur was a great man, deserving the tribute of an honorary silver set from his patriotic friends. But he has been dead a long time and one item from his set of silver has been pawned for the inconsiderable sum of 50 cents.

WASHINGTON—The real nature of the split in the labor board has so far eluded even the Smith committee, although it was the Smith committee which made the split public.

The disharmony between Board Member William M. Leiserson, on one side, and Members J. Warren Madden and Edwin S. Smith on the other, goes far deeper than the publicized row over "slipshod procedure" and the proper staffing of the board.

It reaches down to fundamentals, and—although the fact is not generally realized—on the basic point at issue, Smith and Madden are actually much closer to the Smith committee's position than is Dr. Leiserson.

Broad Functions Of Board Are Hit

Basic complaint against the board throughout the Smith hearings has been the charge that it is judge, jury and prosecutor all in one. Congressman Smith has hammered at this point repeatedly, drawing out much testimony intended to show that a board with those three jobs to fill is apt to go haywire here and there.

Defense tactics, as shaped by Madden and Smith and Board Counsel Fahy, have been to show that the situation really isn't as bad as it looks; that the different functions of the board are kept in air-tight compartments, so that the job of prosecution is thoroughly insulated from the job of fact-finding.

There is where Leiserson most sharply differs with his colleagues. By his philosophy, the only way to answer the judge-jury-prosecutor charge is to say: "Why, of course we're those three things in one—that's the only way in which a board like this can work; the only way in which a law like the Wagner act can meet the problem it was created to meet."

Viewpoint Adopted From Wisconsin

Leiserson draws his philosophy from the Wisconsin school of a generation ago—the school of the elder LaFollette and the famous Dr. John R. Commons. That philosophy, in brief, runs like this:

Complex modern life creates problems which existing machinery cannot handle; problems partly legal, partly administrative, partly judicial. Courts can't handle them, because they're only partly legal problems; ordinary administrative agencies can't handle them, because's they're only partly administrative problems. The problems can't be solved at all unless there is a new agency combining all of these functions in one.

Leiserson Is Not A Right-Winger

This is what is back of Leiserson's oft-repeated complaints about "too much of the legalistic viewpoint" on the board. Because that viewpoint is prevalent, he feels, the board has hamstrung itself in its fight for life and is making its fight on its enemies' own ground.

The odd part about it all is that Leiserson is commonly regarded as the board's one "moderate," even as its lone right-winger. Actually, he is much farther from the Smith committee's viewpoint than are its two favorite targets, Smith and Madden.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

BALTIMORE, March 2.—Dear Staff: I've been giving a lot of thought to last year's notorious "poison at the box office" list of stars, given out by an east coast theater official.

The more I ponder, the more convinced I become that only a cowardly man hides behind futile excuses to explain his own failures. I mean, maybe the exhibitor who blamed the stars was himself to blame if his theaters were not prospering. Maybe he was not selling his goods to the public as they should have been sold.

Remember that poison list? It included Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford, Marlene Dietrich and Katharine Hepburn. The theater chap said their names on marquees kept people away. "Death to the box office," he described them.

But look at the records Garbo's "Ninotchka" is piling up! Look at Hepburn's mark of 10 highly successful months in the stage play, "Philadelphia Story." Look at Dietrich standing 'em in line to see "Destry Rides Again," and look what Crawford did for box offices in "The Women."

Nothing poison about those stars today, is there? I'll wager that this exhibitor who was screaming insults at them a year ago, is bidding for their pictures today. It would serve him right if he couldn't get them.

So the fault was not with the stars at all. Given good pictures, exploited with some degree of showmanship, and that same group of stars will be clicking for years to come.

I wonder if that easterner who concocted that poisonous "poison list" isn't a wee bit ashamed of himself today?

JIMMIE FIDLER.

Dear Boss: Instead of harping on that raise, we'll tell you about a new word game that's sweeping Hollywood. To illustrate, Mr. Doe asks: "What's a down-south fairy?" Mr. Moe must answer with two words which rhyme ("Dixie pixie"—get it?). The youngest member of the staff thought he had us stymied this morning. Said he: "What are Fidler's reporters?" But quick as a flash, we all shouted: "Scrooge's stooges!" Which will prove to you that we're alert and on our toes, even if you are away.

News this past week has been scarce, but here are our gleanings: Despite its anti-war theme, British censors have okayed "The Fighting 69th" without change or deletion. . . . The Bill Boyds are marooned on their mountain ranch—recent rain storms caused landslides that blocked all roads to the property. . . Dr. Ernst Toch, famous "modernist" composer, has been signed by Paramount to do "mood music" for "The Ghost Breakers." . . . The John Paynes (Ann Shirley) have enrolled their expected heir-rival in the class of 1958 at the University of Virginia, John's alma mammy. . . . Marjorie Weaver's new heart beat is Walter Brooks, III, socialite. . . .

Linda Darnell's "dates" with Robert Shaw have been given rather amusing official sanction. After a solemn huddle, 20th Century execs decided that romance for so young, and so promising, a starlet would jeopardize her box-office value. On the other hand, who could expect so pretty a miss to be a stay-at-home? In their hour of perplexity, Linda's mother offered a suggestion. Robert Shaw, a former neighbor in Dallas, should be perfectly safe, since he and Linda have known one another too long to be anything more than pals. "Just the thing," said the studio Solomons—and forthwith appointed Mr. Shaw official escort to all premieres, parties and other social events.

Add Jimmy Cagney and Pat O'Brien to the songstar list—after hearing them do an off-set duet in close harmony, the director ordered a song number inserted for them in "Torrid Zone." . . . Jane Withers returns tomorrow from her record-breaking p. a. tour. . . . Joan Davis had to blue-pencil that Indianapolis vacation—the flu's got her. . . . George Brent is long-distancing Ann Sheridan daily from Honolulu. . . . Eddie Albert and Beverly Holden are in hearty accord. . . . Add Irene Dunne, Charles Laughton and Carole Lombard to flu epidemic victims. . . . Edward Arnold's autobiography, "Lorenzo Goes to Hollywood," is selling so well he's started a sequel detailing his Filmville adventures. . . . Here's an amusing reversal of form: RKO, which like all studios has frowned on air jaunts for its stars, this week inserted a special clause in Maureen O'Hara's contract, stipulating that she must travel by clipper when she pays that visit to Ireland. . . . The laugh highlight in "The Dictator" will be a scene in which Charlie Chaplin, as Hitler, and Jack Oakie, as Mussolini, fight it out with custard pies. . . .

Human Side Of The News

(Copyright, 1940, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Once upon a time two great nations who ruled the world renounced forever war as an instrument of policy. They made a treaty to put an end to all that, but the wars went on and their glories faded and their temples became dust and there came other great nations solemnly to forswear war and to keep right on fighting.

This cut-back to thirty-two centuries before the Briand-Kellogg peace pact is suggested by the news story of the thrilling discoveries of the University of Chicago expedition, in its excavations near the town of the ancient Hittite city of Ras-el-Ain, in Syria.

The above peace treaty between the Hittites and the Egyptians is a previous discovery, and was a spur to these continuing efforts to piece out the story of power politics between the years 2,000 and 1,500 B. C. Discoveries to date are enlightening and just a bit disturbing in their reminder that the world of 3,000 years ago was, in its political aspects, pretty much like that of today. Human nature hasn't changed much. The onward march to the "parliament of mankind" seems to need a grand marshal.

The Hittites, lodging in our minds today only in a few Scriptural allusions, ruled a vast domain and held the Egyptians to a standstill in the outreach for "lebesraum." Around the year 1200 they were both hanging on the ropes and decided to be friends. Here's the first recorded Kellogg pact in history, as concluded between Rameses, the Egyptian and Hattushilish, the Hittite:

"There shall be no hostilities between them forever. The great chief of the Hittites shall not pass over into the land of Egypt, forever, to take anything therefrom; Rameses, the great chief of Egypt, shall not pass over into the land of the Hittites, to take anything therefrom, forever.

"If another people (or state) shall come as an enemy against the land of Rameses, the great chief of Egypt, and he shall send to the great chief of the Hittites, saying, 'Come with me with your army against him,' the great chief of the Hittites shall come, and the great king of the great king of the Hittites shall slay his enemy.

"But if it shall not be the desire of the great chief of the Hittites to come, he shall send his infantry and his chariotry and shall slay his enemy. Or, if Rameses, the great chief of Egypt, be provoked against delinquent subjects, when they have committed some other fault against him, and he shall come to slay them, then the great chief of the Hittites shall act with the lord of Egypt."

You will find the above text of the treaty, in a scholarly historical context, in the book, "International Politics," by Frederick L. Schuman, professor of Political Science at Williams college. You will find a wider historical backdrop in an article by Langdon and Gardiner in the Journal of Egyptian Archaeology. The two nations bolstered their treaty with royal matrimonial alliances. Their peace held for a few decades, but, in effect, it was an alliance against weaker states, which the two ruling powers jointly crushed. The Hittite empire was wrecked by swarms of savage tribesmen from the west. Steady aggression from the Libyan desert pulled Egypt down until it became a mere also-ran among rising Asiatic empires.

The University of Chicago expedition will read in the ruins of Ras-el-Ain the unfailing destruction of the political state by the military state. They will read the story of competing imperialisms, and in the temporary world stability which they provided, a line-for-line text of the later Pax Romana and Pax Brittanica. And their banners, the drums, their trumpets, their tablets of the law, their swords and their garlands all went to Cain's warehouse in the end.

The Yankees are our favorite Hittites and three big league ball-players have come from Cairo, Ill. One can't help having a keen academic interest in what the University of Chicago digs up in Syria, but the spring training season will start soon and we'll be occupied with more urgent and timely matter. Maybe we're smug about it, but there doesn't seem to be much nourishment for us in this empire league.

One thing sticks out like a sore thumb. The little states were always tossed to the wolves, and in time the big states beaned themselves with graft and taxes. As the old song goes, "In the days of old Rameses that story had paresis." We still have a chance to make other arrangements.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The term, "cataract," refers to a condition in which the lens of the eye becomes clouded. The lens is a crystalline substance, is used to focus light on the back of the eye. A cataract is not a film growing across the eye. It is a physical change in the tissue which is like the frosting of a clear window glass.

In surgical treatment of cataract, the lens is removed. It becomes necessary, therefore, to wear eyeglasses which help to focus the light properly on the retina at the back of the eye, after an operation.

For many years all sorts of so-called medical treatments for cataract have been promoted to the public. Today, people do not fear operations as much as they used to, but nowadays medicine advances so rapidly and there are so many remarkable discoveries that people are inclined to be even more credulous than they used to be.

Dr. Allen Greenwood has pointed out that about 40 years ago, electricity and various kinds of shocks were being used to make people with cataracts think they were seeing better. Some charlatans drop drugs into the eye to dilate the pupil. Then the patient sees around the cataract and thinks that his vision is improving. But, of course, the dilation wears off, and the patient realizes that he has been victimized.

Today it can be said with certainty that no one is able to cut a cataract with drops or with medicaments applied to the eye. Usually, the person who is treated in this manner is given some good medical advice about his diet and living, which tends to make him feel better.

Frequently the eyeglasses can be changed to advantage during the time when the patient is making up his mind to have an operative procedure. There is an advantage in having the patient come regularly for inspection so that the progress of the cataract can be determined. It is not desirable, however, for a patient with a cataract to wait until he has become completely blind before having an operation.

There is no evidence that any of the vitamins now known is specific in stopping the growth and development of a cataract or in curing one.

The rate at which the cloudiness increases varies with every patient. Sometimes there may be a little cloudiness which will remain static for years before it becomes sufficient to cause real distress.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

DISOBEDIENCE IN CHILDREN

Most of the disobedience of little children is caused by the attitude of those in charge of them. They give too many directions, and they care about only a few of them. When they do not really care whether a child heeds or not they give scant attention to his response. If he sits up straight when somebody tells him to, good, if not, why bother? If he comes when he is called, good, if not, well, he will come by and by, or when he is called in earnest. That is a poor way to train children if one wants to accustom them to obedience.

And yet that is usual in many households. Direction after direction is fired at the child. Sometimes he heeds, sometimes, oftener than otherwise, he does not. By and by the time comes when the adult is in a hurry and wants instant obedience. Of course he does not get it, and of course he is put out about it. If it happens to be father, he wants to know why mother doesn't train that child of hers to mind. If it happens to be mother, she goes after him in no uncertain mood and fetches him along, smartly, and with many words, amid uproar and tears.

The fact is that a child needs few directions to which he should give instant obedience. But there are but few and they must be kept clearly in the parent's mind, and held firmly in the mind of the child. Instead of a child to do this and stop doing that all day long, be casual about the things that are unimportant, don't feel compelled to see and to hear and correct everything he does. Skip most of it and give him a direction only when you mean to have it obeyed. If that is done the child soon learns to obey promptly and cheerfully, and those in charge of him feel greatly relieved to know that he can be counted on when the time comes for it.

Children tire easily under pressure. Their nervous systems are not perfected and seasoned as ours are and any call upon them means fatigue. If the calls are constant, the child becomes so fatigued that his nerve centers close down for repairs. Then the child does not hear when he is spoken to, does not see clearly, cannot think clearly. There is likely to be a temper tantrum with all its allied difficulties.

All this can be avoided if one learns to speak firmly, to call for obedience, only when it is important to the child and those close to him. Mean to be obeyed. Mean what you say. There is force in a thought and when your thought is clear, strong, directed to one point, its force is powerful and calls for prompt response.

When you are clear in your thought as to what and why and when, as you speak to a child you do not have to shout to put power in your voice. The power of the thought behind your words puts full force into the tones of your voice and you can speak clearly in your usual tone and get the response you want. Only be careful not to do this many times a day.

When one has to shout at a child, call and call again, to get his attention one can be certain some of these essential facts have been overlooked. Children like to obey but when they know what is wanted and when it is not wanted too often.

It isn't fair to allow your child to form disagreeable little habits that will make other people dislike him, or her. Be guided by Angelo Patri's booklet, "Annoying Habits." Send for it, enclosing ten cents in coin. Address Angelo Patri, in care this newspaper, P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By Preston Grover

WASHINGTON—The Smith-of-Virginia committee investigating fumblings of the national labor relations board is hot on the trail of so-called "blackjacking" by the government.

The "blackjacking" is supposed to have been directed at business organizations to compel them to abide by the labor bargaining law.

But if the committee would cast a roving eye about, it would find that congress itself has been employing the same squeeze-plays for several years with the general aim of boosting wages and reducing working hours.

Congress' Wish

The major discovery of the committee was that the RFC had agreed to hold up loans to employers whose labor relations were under examination by the labor board.

Yet, by specific action, congress at various times has ruled that no business house or contractor can get government business unless he agrees in advance to guarantee "prevailing wages and hours."

The Bacon-Davis act requires "prevailing wages and hours" in all government building contracts above $2,000, while the Walsh-Healy act does the same for government supply contracts valued above $10,000.

Source Of Opposition

Whether or not it is a good idea for the government to go into these things is another question. There have been mutterings in congress that the thing has gone too far. One of the arguments against the long pending bill to grant extensive federal aid to schools was that it would permit the government to "blackjack" the states into adopting whatever trend in education the federal government happened to favor at the time. Good old state's righters looked upon it as almost the ultimate in breaking down state independence.

Hope To Raise Wages

"Blackjacking" is probably a strong word to use in such business, but the idea is the same in all instances. The government may have an idea that a certain glove-maker is paying too low wages, so when a contract for gloves is to be let, the low-wage glove-maker is automatically out of the bidding unless he agrees to pay prevailing wages in the making of the government gloves.

The result in some instances has been that workmen standing side by side draw two different scales of pay. The administrators of the law do not attempt to hide their hope that the result will be to force general adoption of the "prevailing wages" by all industries.

An Old Idea

As a matter of fact a somewhat modified system of governmental "blackjacking" of the states has been going on for a half century, all in the cause of better education. And the states love it.

The system has to do with the various "grants in aid" to the states for doing this and that. Annually the government puts up in excess of $30,000,000 for distribution among the states for education in home economics, vocational training and rehabilitation, for farm experimentation.

Most of the money must be matched dollar-for-dollar by the states. While the government claims not to hold too close a rein on how the states will spend the money, it exercises a veto power which is backed up by the prospect that the money may be withdrawn if the states don't follow directions.

That system dates clear back to 1887, when the Hatch act authorized research in rural home economics and sociology with a flavoring of agricultural experimenting. The states had to match the money if they got it.

And it was only lately that congress eased up on the most controversial squeeze of all—the ruling that land-grant colleges must require all male students of suitable physique to take military training.

NEW MYSTERY OF SEA DEVELOPS

British Freighter Found Apparently Safe After Reporting Attack

WASHINGTON, March 2 —(AP)— A new mystery of the war at sea developed today when the British freighter Southgate was found apparently safe after flashing word that she was being attacked by a submarine within the American neutrality zone.

Naval patrol planes located the 4,862 ton vessel off Puerto Rico and reported there was "no apparent damage."

Left unanswered were the questions whether a belligerent submarine was operating on this side of the Atlantic and had actually attacked the Southgate, or whether the message of distress early last night represented merely the latest of a series of baseless maritime scares that have occurred since the European war started.

Disposing of the possibility that an American submarine had been mistaken for a German U-boat, the navy established that no United States submersible was in the vicinity—about 130 miles northeast of Puerto Rico.

Hours after the ship was located there was no explanation from her master for the electrifying, wartime signal, "SSS," signifying a submarine attack. The Southgate's wireless ignored requests for information, presumably because of unwillingness to betray the vessel's position should a hostile war craft be nearby.

In accord with procedure followed since the neutrality zone was created last fall, the navy likewise maintained a portective silence, declining to divulge the position where the Southgate was found in mid-morning.

Representative Fish, Republican, New York, said that the report of the attack on the Southgate "is obviously part of a carefully planned propaganda program to influence American public opinion."

In an address prepared for radio delivery, Fish said that "a month ago another British ship was reported as having been the victim of a German submarine off our coast, but when our destroyers sought to locate the victim it had vanished, only to turn up later in a British port."

"Unfortunately, some of the submarine propaganda emanates from the White House," Fish declared. "A few months ago it was announced from the White house that a foreign submarine had been sighted about 20 miles off Key West, Fla., by navy patrol vessels."

BUCHALTER MUST SERVE LONG TERM

Found Guilty On 15 Counts And Faces Life Term In Penitentiary

NEW YORK, March 2—(AP)—The courts have finished with the big shot racketeer Louis (Lepke) Buchalter.

Early today, a general sessions jury found him guilty on 15 counts of extorting $50,000 in a trucking racket. He's a fourth offender, and thus faces a life sentence, but nobody got excited, certainly not Buchalter. He didn't bat an eyelash.

He stopped batting eyelashes long before this anti-climax, long before the government recently handed him a 14-year sentence for smuggling narcotics all over the world.

Federal agents have traced his rise to the top of three lucrative rackets —narcotics, furs, trucking—from the time the law started getting him for larceny and burglary in the turbulent twenties.

As head of a $10,000,000 narcotics syndicate, he was dubbed the nation's racketeer No. 1. In 1937, things got hot and Buchalter turned fugitive.

Last summer, his day ended. He surrendered to J. Edgar Hoover on a Manhattan street, still cool. Friends deserted him and turned state's witnesses: the huge chunks of "glitter" dwindled, and his racketeering was finished.

Convicted with him today on all 15 extortion counts was Max Silverman, who may be sentenced to 15 to 30 years. Harold Silverman, the latter's son, was convicted on seven counts, with a possible 7 1-2 to 15 years prison term. The state said thousands of dollars had been paid to the Buchalter ring by intimdated bakers and flour truckmen.

Last January, the government released him to stand trial in general sessions for extortion, but it said the state sentence could be served only after the convicted racketeer had completed his federal term.

So there's just the matter of another sentence, now; that comes March 18, and Judge John J. Freschi can, if he wants to, pile up year after year for the guy with dead black eyes.

STATE'S VOTERS TO NAME ENVOYS

supervisors of any and all power over Democratic primaries.

Under the present law, members of the various board of elections supervisors are appointed by the governor and serve at his pleasure.

They distribute ballots and election supplies and, after polls close, are charged with the duty of delivering boxes containing ballots to the parish clerks of court.

This provision, enacted under the Huey Long regime, thus rendered to the state chief executive virtual control over those handling primary election ballots.

Today's Democratic committee proceedings began when the "old" central committee rescinded Governor Earl K. Long's nomination as secretary of state, on motion of Norman Bauer of St. Mary parish, and then nominated James A. Gremillion, runner-up to the late E. A. Conway in the January 16 primary, in Long's stead.

The "old" committee certified Sam Jones as party nominee for governor, Dr. Marc C. Mouton as lieutenant governor, Eugene Stanley as attorney general, and Gremillion as secretary of state, directing that their names appear on the April general election ballots.

The new committee first selected its new officers and then affirmed its predecessor's action in rescinding Long's nomination and giving it to Gremillion.

All officers of the new central committee received their posts by acclamation, Looney as committee chairman succeeds Wade O. Martin, chairman of the state public service commission, who presided over the "old" committee sessions.

Vance Plauche of Lake Charles, state co-campaign manager for Jones during the recent campaign, was named vice-chairman; Major A. W. Newlin, veteran secretary was reelected; Francis J. Whitehead as assistant-secretary, and Sheriff Newman Debretton as sergeant-at-arms.

The resolution proposing the state convention system for selecting the national convention delegates was introduced by Val Irion of Caddo parish.

"Louisiana returned to the union February 20," he said. "This resolution will restore democracy to the Democratic party. We will give the party back to the members."

Roland B. Howell, Thibodaux, also praised the resolution.

It provided that the state's Democratic national committeeman and committeewoman also be selected at the June 4 convention.

Ten per cent of the voters in any parish or in any ward in New Orleans may have delegates for the state convention selected at a primary election by presenting a petition to that effect to their parish or ward organization.

Otherwise, selection will be either by mass meeting or by parochial (or ward) convention, as determined by parochial or ward committies.

The number of delegates to be selected for the state convention was fixed on the basis of population as follows: Acadia 13, Allen 5, Ascension 6, Assumption 5, Avoyelles 11, Beauregard 5, Bienville 8, Bossier 9, Caddo 41, Calcasieu 14, Caldwell 3, Cameron 2, East Carroll 5, East Feliciana 6, Evangeline 8, Franklin 10, Grant 5, Iberia 9, Iberville 8, Jackson 5, Jefferson 13, Jefferson Davis 7, Lafayette 13, LaFourche 11, Catahoula 4, Claiborne 11, Concordia 4, DeSoto 10, East Baton Rouge 23, Natchitoches 13, Orleans ward one 5, ward two 4, ward three 9, ward four 8, ward five 10, ward six 7, ward seven 12, ward eight 14, ward nine 15, ward ten 6, ward eleven 8, ward twelve 12, ward thirteen 8, ward fourteen 14, ward fifteen 7, ward sixteen 5, ward seventeen 8, Ouachita 18, Plaquemines 3, Pointe Coupee 7, Rapides 22, Red River 5, LaSalle 4, Lincoln 8, Livingston 6, Madison 5, Morehouse 8, Richland 9, Sabine 8, St. Bernard 2, St. Charles 4, St Helena 3, St. James 5, St. John 5, St. Landry 20, St. Martin 7, St. Mary 10, St. Tammany 7, Tangipahoa 16, Tensas 5, Terrebonne 10, Union 7, Vermillion 11, Vernon 7, Washington 10, Webster 10, West Baton Rouge 3, West Carroll 5, West Feliciana 4, Winn 5.

HITLER ARGUES BEFORE WELLES

returned and the so-called English "stranglehold" on the world economic structure is broken.

For the United States itself there was the specific information that improvement in German-American relations was most desirable.

Welles hid behind an affable smile his reaction to the talk in the palatial chancellery but on the German side quarters close to the government seemed completely satisfied with the results of the conference.

Information had been given to him painstakingly, it was said, for Welles came to Berlin with a reputation of being a good reporter who could be depended upon to carry back to his chief a factual statement of his impressions.

After his important meeting with Hitler, the American undersecretary of state lunched with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, formerly minister of economics and president of the Reichsbank; met the American colony at the home of American Charge D'-Affaires Alexander Kirk; dined with Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker, state secretary in the foreign office; and rounded out the day by listening to Mozart's "Figaro" at the state opera house.

Tomorrow he is expected to see Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, who just has returned from the front, and possibly will confer with Rudolf Hess, deputy Nazi party leader.

It was understood he would leave shortly after 7 p. m. (1 p. m. eastern standard time) tomorrow for Paris and London by way of Switzerland.

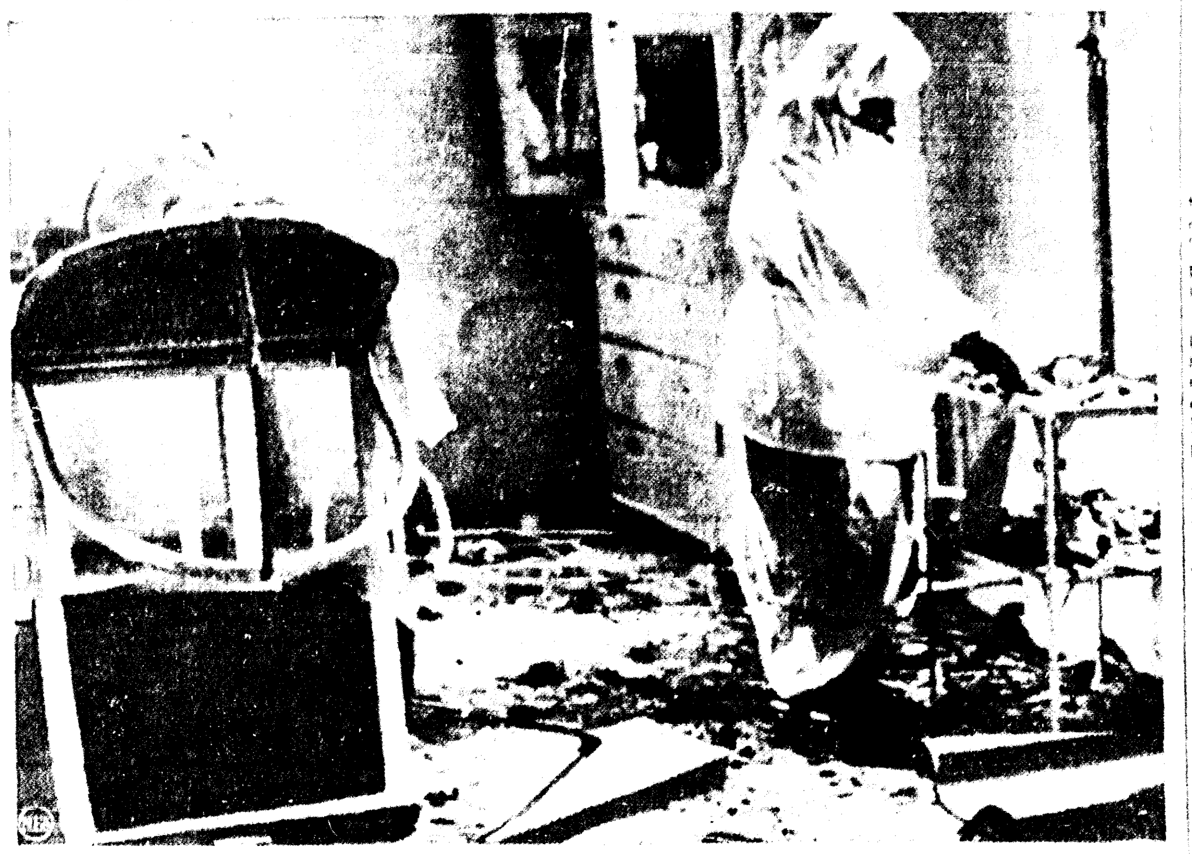
DEATH FROM THE SKIES RAINS ON HOSPITAL



Nurse inspects instruments in examination room of hospital in Rovaniomi, Finland, after Red planes have dropped bombs, strewn the infirmary with wreckage. This picture, taken by Eric Calcraft, NEA staff photographer who is covering the Finnish war, shows the other side of the conflict back of the fighting lines.

Three Neutral Nations Face Grave New Crises

By Kirke L. Simpson
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Europe's two wars that actually are joined like Siamese twins, have confronted three neutral nations with grave new crises.

In Finland, Russia was battering yesterday with a gigantic mailed fist at the door that stands between the Red army and the geographic and economic heart of Finland. Hopes of Finland's Scandinavian neighbors, Sweden and Norway, of avoiding involvement in either the war in Finland or the German-allied conflict may rest on what happens within days or even hours on the Karelian isthmus front.

Virtually the full Rumanian army strength stands mobilized.

For the moment, however, and until the interplay of still undisclosed forces on the Balkan crisis can be gauged, it is in Finland that the seventh month of the German-allied war must see decisive developments. Beaten back by overwhelming Russian forces all along the western sector of the Karelian isthmus front, the battered Finns have their backs to the last wall of the Mannerheim line.

The war-shattered ruins of what three months ago was Finland's third city, Viipuri, now forms the western "anchor" of the isthmus defense line. Russia is hurling forward fresh divisions in an effort to pinch it off by attack across the ice of Viipuri bay. Within a short time, the fate of Viipuri, of Finland and perhaps of Scandinavian neutrality should be known.

However, there are circumstances which lead Finn sympathizers around the world to hope that the Baltic nation's army can hold out until spring comes to its temporary rescue by turning both the isthmus and lake-strewn central Finland behind it into a vast morass.

Moscow reports on Red army progress buoy some of that hope. They dwell upon the speed of the advance since the original western Mannerheim line anchor at Koivisto was abandoned. Even the Russians, however, fail to claim that the retirement of the Finns has been a rout.

Every indication is that Finn defenders of the isthmus have held on doggedly as long as it was possible; then retired in good order and in conformity with tactical plans mapped long in advance.

Military opinion confirms the Finnish contention that despite loss of nearly 40 miles to the Red hosts on the western flank of the isthmus front, the present defense lines are naturally stronger as well as shorter, conserving Finnish manpower.

Communications with the rear are also shorter, and less vulnerable to air attack. If the new positions on which the Finns are reported digging in have been prepared in advance to any reasonable extent, there are strong possibilities that the Russian attack still can be halted short of a breakthrough.

2 BELGIAN PLANES DOWNED BY NAZIS

volved in the encounter with the German plane, a large Dornier bomber, over Saint Hubert in Belgium's Luxembourg province.

The Belgians surrounded the craft, which then opened fire upon them, it was said.

The leader of the Belgian squadron, Sub-Lieutenant Hernard, was killed when he was struck by a burst of fire and his plane crashed near the village of Hemroulle.

A few minutes later, another of the Belgian planes was forced down at Achene with bullet holes in the gas tank, but the pilot was uninjured. The pilot of the third plane was wounded.

Another flier was killed subsequently when two Belgian army planes collided near Antwerp. Two other Belgian military planes were reported to have cracked up near Antwerp and at Bierzet, but the fliers escaped injury.

The clash of the Belgian planes and the German Dornier was the first such incident since the start of the European war, although Belgian patrols frequently have gone aloft to drive off belligerent craft flying over their territory. Belgian anti-aircraft batteries also have fired at belligerent planes, driving them across the border, but no hits have been reported.

The Belgian government has repeatedly warned belligerent nations against violation of her neutrality. She has sent at least 11 protests to Berlin concerning the reported appearance of German aircraft over Belgian territory, and has sent at least four such protests to London.

EGYPTIAN TOMB YIELDS FORTUNE

will enable historians to fill gaps in their knowledge of this period in Egyptian civilization.

The inner sarcophagus is in the form of a statue of the king carved in silver. Adorned with the gold crowns of upper and lower Egypt the royal effigy lies with hands folded across the chest. One hand holds a golden sceptre, the other a flail. The royal face is that of a young man, leading archaeologists to believe that the likeness was cast before the Pharoah's death.

The second and third sarcophage are of black granite and gold. The outer sarcophagus which fills half the tomb—11 feet long, seven feet wide and four feet deep—is in the form of a carving showing the Pharoah lying on his back. Osiris watches over him and an unnamed goddess supports his head and protects him with outstretched arms.

The profusion of jewelry found in the tomb includes 21 golden bracelets, 10 found on the right arm and 11 on the left. These are most important, as inscriptions on the gold furnish a record of the king's family and genealogical tree. A Pharoah of the same name was one of Solomon's fathers-in-law. The marriage is recorded in the Bible.

A finely wrought gold necklace strung with rubies and scarabs adorns the neck of the silver sarcophagus statue. Laid out on a gold table and altar were 20 gold vases of simple taste, and in a perfect state of preservation. Some of these pieces compare favorably with modern metal and plate ware. Also found in the tomb was a large chalice in the form of a lotus bloom, a long necked bottle, jug and silver cups.

Egyptologists express belief that the tomb of Psou Sennes may reveal more of the history of the Egypt of 1100 B. C. than did the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen of the period of that Pharoah's time, some 200 years earlier.

The discovery of the Tut-Ankh-Amen tomb in 1922 by Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter did more than any other event to arouse popular interest in Egyptology.

2. What will come of the visit of Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, to Rome, Berlin, Paris and London? Mr. Roosevelt said he had received some reports already from Welles, who conferred today with Adolf Hitler, but that nothing could be said until the undersecretary returned to this country.

3. Will any protest result from the burning of a German vessel and a reported attack on an English freighter within the limits of the inter-American neutrality zones? The chief executive said he had had no official word on the two events.

4. What is congress going to do and when will it adjourn? The president said he had not discussed adjournment with house and senate leaders. He may have occasion to take up adjournment and the legislative slate at a conference with them Monday morning.

Immediately on the president's arrival in Washington it was announced that he had signed the bill under which the resources of the export-import bank are increased by $100,000,000 to permit a $20,000,000 loan to Finland and similar assistance to other nations.

BERNE—(AP)—Swiss army censors informed the Swiss press that they could print the text or extracts of the various white, orange and other official papers of the various belligerent governments, but warned them to refrain from all comment. The order was issued in connection with Swiss neutrality measures.

COMMITTEE LETS GOVERNOR DOWN

the empty chairs of the streamlined chambers where once his brother, the "Kingfish," roared command and pushed feebly protesting senators back into their seats.

Among other suggestions Long had proposed that the lawmakers hamstring the criminal prosecution powers of Jones who had vowed to punish every person whose bankroll had illegally been fattened at public expense in the past four years.

One hour after Long abandoned the legislative call, the "old" Democratic central committee which a week ago had nominated him for secretary of state in the April 16 general election—the renominated incumbent E. A. Conway died February 19—scratched his name from the ballot.

Then the committee unanimously nominated James A. Gremillion, unsuccessful Jones candidate in the first primary, for the secretary's job.

The governor, back in his office, said he would fight the committee move in the courts and added:

"The crowd who was connected with me, who were placarded and advertised as objectionable by the opposition, have every one, to a man, gone over with the opposition. * * * My head is bloody but still unbowed."

Then the new Democratic committee met and voted to select presidential convention delegates by popular choice once again.

Since the rule of Huey Long, who rose to power in 1928, the committee has been picking its own candidates without holding a state convention.

Jones made his declaration of a "new era" in the jammed house of representatives chamber where the "new" committee met, using the seats the legislators would have occupied had they obeyed Long's summons.

Jones, who announced that after returning from a brief vacation he would begin plans for his administration and the regular legislative session in May, said:

"My election, I consider, signifies the end of dictatorship and the restoration of democracy in Louisiana. I interpret the will of the people as wanting a new era and not merely a change of administration.

"I believe that February 20 heralded a new day for the state of Louisiana and it constituted a new day of freedom and independence signifying the end of dictatorship and the enthronement of democracy.

"No one realizes more than I do the tremendous task that is before me. But I shall with all the determination and with all the resolution that is in my heart and soul and system, labor in an attempt to carry out the platform and principles of my campaign.

"The great and unbought masses of the people of this state do not understand Sam Jones if any of you believe that I am going to be controlled. I have my mandate from the people as a whole and I shall be responsible only to the people as a whole."

Jones said a "democratic spirit prevails" now in Louisiana and his opponents had pledged their efforts to make his new administration a success.

"By the grace of God," he concluded, "we will give the people the kind of government for which they voted February 20."

The central committee authorized a legal committee to propose revisions in the state elections laws to the legislature, particularly measures controlling election machinery.

But Governor Long in a lengthy statement charged that "the opposition, with promises of jobs, money, intimidation, blackguarding, skullduggery, prosecution and non-prosecution, etc., were successful in prevailing on enough people from attending (the legislative session) to prevent a quorum from being present."

In referring to the "crowd going over to the opposition," Long said he was grateful for having been relieved "of this burden" and added:

"Had I had four years in the governor's office and the people had given me the mandate, and thought I was the right man to clean up, things would have been brought to light and some of my so-called friends probably would have been scrutinized."

When roll call was taken at 8:45 a.m., forty-five minutes after the legislative bodies had been summoned to meet, only 13 of 39 senators appeared and only 48 of the 100 house members.

Twenty senators and 51 house members were necessary for a quorum.

Long walked into the empty chamber at 8 a.m. but after the roll call an hour later he announced he had abandoned the legislative summons and went into his private office.

But when the packed galleries realized that the absence of a quorum meant the first definite revolt against the administration in almost the twelve years since Huey became dictator of the state there was prolonged applause.

Long lost his second round of the day when the "old" Democratic committee replaced his name on the ballot with that of Gremillion. The same committee last Sunday voted to put Long's name on the ballot as candidate for secretary of state.

The committee, undisturbed by scattered objections which were met with lusty boos, voted amid applause to "rescind, annul, void and set aside" the Long nomination.

Norman Bauer of St. Mary parish, representative-designate and candidate for speaker of the house, introduced the recall resolution which was opposed by recently defeated Representative C. A. Riddle of Avoyelles parish.

He termed the committee action "irregular and illegal and inconsistent."

He said there was no guarantee the committee would not rescind any other nomination it might make.

"When will the matter stop?" he asked. "When will there be an end?"

Boos interrupted him, but he went on:

"Lo and behold. One of the first steps on the part of the incoming administration is to carry into action a proceeding that is entirely illegal. I am surprised and dumbfounded. This will go down in history as one of the most irregular and illegal proceedings ever seen in Louisiana."

Another defeated legislator, Senator Gove Davis, declared:

"This is a democratic body. Whatever this body does is okay. If it wants to jump in the river it's all right. That's democratic."

Besides Riddle, who held the proxy of Wilbur W. Voinche, those who objected to rescinding of Long's nomination and asked that their names be withdrawn because they considered the proceedings illegal were:

S. R. Oldstein, Winnsboro, holding the proxy of D. J. Anders; L. M. Hinton, Lincoln; Charles Schulze, Ouachita; T. J. Coenan, Richland; Sam Polmer, Terrebonne; Coleman Lindsey, Minden; J. W. Gajan, New Iberia; Curtis E. Bozeman, Natchitoches; and James Lindsey, holding the proxy of W. G. Parham, Orleans. They were recorded as absent.

The committee then certified Jones, Dr. Marc Mouton, Eugene Stanley and Gremillion as party nominees respectively for governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and secretary of state. Then it adjourned.

Gremillion's nomination by Bauer was seconded by Property Commissioner Joseph P. Skelly of New Orleans, Old Regular leader of the committee.

After learning of the committee action, Governor Long said:

"I'm going to fight this in the courts. I've got some of the finest lawyers in the state and I know I'm right. Everybody's known all along this thing would be decided in the supreme court."

The withdrawal of Long's name followed a week of political maneuvering. Jones, refusing to consider Long in the official family of his administration, had said "there is no place in my administration for the repudiated governor."

The governor-designate at a press conference said Roland Coereham, former adjutant general of the Louisiana American Legion, would open an office for Jones in Lake Charles Monday in the capacity of private secretary.

Jones said he expected to open a Baton Rouge office about April 1 and explained that right now he was not ready to think of making any appointments.

cluded 105 tanks, 12 armored cars, six guns, five four-barreled anti-aircraft machine guns, 200 trucks, 28 automobiles, 25 truckloads of shells, much infantry ammunition and other supplies.

The victory was considered particularly important because it tended to consolidate Finnish defense lines east of Uomaa on the Uuksu river, in effect throwing the Russians in that area back to where they were in the opening days of the war.

On the Karelian isthmus front the situation remained essentially unchanged.

Heavy losses were inflicted on Red forces which were repulsed in the vicinity of Ayrapaa and Nuoraa, about 25 miles east and five miles south of the city, respectively.

At the eastern end of the Mannerheim line, at Taipale, the usual Russian attacks were repulsed.

The Finnish communique announced that among those killed in the bitter fighting northeast of Lake Ladoga were the Soviet commanders of the 34th brigade and 18th division.

While the bitter fighting continued on the front, Russian planes flew back and forth on bombing raids far behind the lines. Helsinki citizens were kept in bombproofs four and a quarter hours while war planes passed over at great altitude, heading for objectives to the north.

After his death, Mrs. Rogers gave the 20-acre hill site here to the state, the city of Claremore added five acres and the rugged native limestone memorial was built at a cost of nearly $300,000.

The governor said cost of the tomb had been underwritten privately.

GOVERNOR LONG OBTAINS ORDER

or's executive counsel, and Shirley Wimberly, his former law partner.

Named as attorneys for Long were Wallace, Clem H. Sehrt, Long's city campaign manager during the recent campaign, and James A. Lindsay.

The suit contained excerpts from the proceedings of both the "old" central committee, which chose Long over Gremillion a week ago by 51-40 vote and then rescinded its action and named Gremillion at a meeting today, and the "new" committee which affirmed Gremillion's nomination at a subsequent meeting today.

Gremillion, former Acadia parish district attorney who lives at Crowley, was backed by Governor-Designate Sam Jones in the first party primary January 16.

He lost to E. A. Conway, Sr., who obtained nomination to a third successive term in office but who died February 19, thereby creating a vacancy which the central committee was authorized to fill.

The "old" committee in its resolution rescinding Long's nomination also ordered the secretary of state not to place Long's name on the general election ballots.

Long's court plea said the rescinding, ordering his own name off the ballot, and naming Gremillion all were "unlawful" proceedings.

"It is well settled in the law," Long's petition said, "that after a nomination has been duly made and certificate of nomination has been issued, a party committee cannot revoke the nomination or withdraw the candidate's name, there being no withdrawal known to the election law except by a candidate himself. . . .

"The state central committee is entirely without power or authority in the law to place before the electorate of Louisiana as a candidate for secretary of state the name of a man whom the electorate has already rejected as a candidate for the same office."

The petition alleged Gremillion's subsequent selection by the committee was not by viva voce vote, a mandatory provision of the state constitution, and Gremillion's name never had been "properly presented to the Democratic State Central committee by nomination."

For the first time, in Long's petition, came confirmation of reports that E. A. Conway Jr., named by Long as his father's successor until May, when the next four-year term in question will begin, had told Long he would recognize Gremillion as proper party nominee.

"The said secretary of state (young Conway) will recognize James A. Gremillion as the nominee of the Democratic party for the said office of secretary of state and will print his name upon the official ballots for the said general election . . . and your petitioner (Long) has so been told by Eugene A. Conway, secretary of state," the petition complained.

Martin accepted service of the court order on the spot but Long and Wallace were unable to have Conway, Comish or Gremillion appear for voluntary service. Gremillion left the city after the committee meetings earlier in the day.

STATE'S VOTERS TO NAME ENVOYS

supervisors of any and all power over Democratic primaries."

Under the present law, members of the various board of elections supervisors are appointed by the governor and serve at his pleasure.

They distribute ballots and election supplies and, after polls close, are charged with the duty of delivering boxes containing ballots to the parish clerks of court.

This provision, enacted under the Huey Long regime, thus rendered to the state chief executive virtual control over those handling primary election ballots.

Today's Democratic committee proceedings began when the "old" central committee rescinded Governor Earl K. Long's nomination as secretary of state, on motion of Norman Bauer of St. Mary parish, and then nominated James A. Gremillion, runner-up to the late E. A. Conway in the January 16 primary, in Long's stead.

The "old" committee certified Sam Jones as party nominee for governor, Dr. Marc C. Mouton as lieutenant governor, Eugene Stanley as attorney general, and Gremillion as secretary of state, directing that their names appear on the April general election ballots.

The new commitiee first selected its new officers and then affirmed its predecessor's action in rescinding Long's nomination and giving it to Gremillion.

All officers of the new central committee received their posts by acclamation. Looney as committee chairman succeeds Wade O. Martin, chairman of the state public service commission, who presided over the "old" committee sessions.

Vance Plauche of Lake Charles, state co-campaign manager for Jones during the recent campaign, was named vice-chairman; Major A. W. Newlin, veteran secretary was reelected; Francis J. Whitehead as assistant-secretary, and Sheriff Newman Debretton as sergeant-at-arms.

The resolution proposing the state convention system for selecting the national convention delegates was introduced by Val Irion of Caddo parish.

"Louisiana returned to the union February 20," he said. "This resolution will restore democracy to the Democratic party. We will give the party back to the members."

Roland B. Howell, Thibodaux, also praised the resolution.

It provided that the state's Democratic national committeeman and committeewoman also be selected at the June 4 convention.

Ten per cent of the voters in any parish or in any ward in New Orleans may have delegates for the state convention selected at a primary election by presenting a petition to that effect to their parish or ward organization.

Otherwise, selection will be either by mass meeting or by parochial (or ward) convention, as determined by parochial or ward committies.

The number of delegates to be selected for the state convention was fixed on the basis of population as follows: Acadia 13, Allen 5, Ascension 6, Assumption 5, Avoyelles 11, Beauregard 5, Bienville 8, Bossier 9, Caddo 41, Calcasieu 14, Caldwell 3, Cameron 2, East Carroll 5, East Feliciana 6, Evangeline 8, Franklin 10, Grant 5, Iberia 9, Iberville 8, Jackson 5, Jefferson 13, Jefferson Davis 7, Lafayette 13, LaFourche 11, Catahoula 4, Claiborne 11, Concordia 4, DeSoto 10, East Baton Rouge 23, Natchitoches 13, Orleans ward one 5, ward two 4, ward three 9, ward four 8, ward five 10, ward six 7, ward seven 12, ward eight 14, ward nine 15, ward ten 6, ward eleven 8, ward twelve 12, ward thirteen 8, ward fourteen 14, ward fifteen 7, ward sixteen 5, ward seventeen 8, Ouachita 18, Plaquemines 3, Pointe Coupee 7, Rapides 22, Red River 5, LaSalle 4, Lincoln 8, Livingston 5, Madison 5, Morehouse 8, Richland 9, Sabine 8, St. Bernard 2, St. Charles 4, St. Helena 3, St. James 5, St. John 5, St. Landry 20, St. Martin 7, St. Mary 10, St. Tammany 7, Tangipahoa 16, Tensas 5, Terrebonne 10, Union 7, Vermillion 11, Vernon 7, Washington 10, Webster 10, West Baton Rouge 3, West Carroll 5, West Feliciana 4, Winn 5.

returned and the so-called English "stranglehold" on the world economic structure is broken.

For the United States itself there was the specific information that improvement in German-American relations was most desirable.

Welles hid behind an affable smile his reaction to the talk in the palatial chancellery but on the German side quarters close to the government seemed completely satisfied with the results of the conference.

Information had been given to him painstakingly, it was said, for Welles came to Berlin with a reputation of being a good reporter who could be depended upon to carry back to his chief a factual statement of his impressions.

After his important meeting with Hitler, the American undersecretary of state lunched with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, formerly minister of economics and president of the Reichsbank; met the American colony at the home of American Charge D'Affaires Alexander Kirk; dined with Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker, state secretary in the foreign office; and rounded out the day by listening to Mozart's "Figaro" at the state opera house.

Tomorrow he is expected to see Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, who just has returned from the front, and possibly will confer with Rudolf Hess, deputy Nazi party leader.

It was understood he would leave shortly after 7 p. m. (1 p. m. eastern standard time) tomorrow for Paris and London by way of Switzerland.

Three Neutral Nations Face Grave New Crises

By Kirke L. Simpson
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Europe's two wars that actually are joined like Siamese twins, have confronted three neutral nations with grave new crises.

In Finland, Russia was battering yesterday with a gigantic mailed fist at the door that stands between the Red army and the geographic and economic heart of Finland. Hopes of Finland's Scandinavian neighbors, Sweden and Norway, of avoiding involvement in either the war in Finland or the German-allied conflict may rest on what happens within days or even hours on the Karelian isthmus front.

Virtually the full Rumanian army strength stands mobilized.

For the moment, however, and until the interplay of still undisclosed forces on the Balkan crisis can be gauged, it is in Finland that the seventh month of the German-allied war must see decisive developments. Beaten back by overwhelming Russian forces all along the western sector of the Karelian isthmus front, the battered Finns have their backs to the last wall of the Mannerheim line.

The war-shattered ruins of what three months ago was Finland's third city, Viipuri, now forms the western "anchor" of the isthmus defense line. Russia is hurling forward fresh divisions in an effort to pinch it off by attack across the ice of Viipuri bay. Within a short time, the fate of Viipuri, of Finland and perhaps of Scandinavian neutrality should be known.

However, there are circumstances which lead Finn sympathizers around the world to hope that the Baltic nation's army can hold out until spring comes to its temporary rescue by turning both the isthmus and lake-strewn central Finland behind it into a vast morass.

Moscow reports on Red army progress buoy some of that hope. They dwell upon the speed of the advance since the original western Mannerheim line anchor at Koivisto was abandoned. Even the Russians, however, fail to claim that the retirement of the Finns has been a rout.

Every indication is that Finn defenders of the isthmus have held on doggedly as long as it was possible; then retired in good order and in conformity with tactical plans mapped long in advance.

Military opinion confirms the Finnish contention that despite loss of nearly 40 miles to the Red hosts on the western flank of the isthmus front, the present defense lines are naturally stronger as well as shorter, conserving Finnish manpower.

Communications with the rear are also shorter, and less vulnerable to air attack. If the new positions on which the Finns are reported digging in have been prepared in advance to any reasonable extent, there are strong possibilities that the Russian attack still can be halted short of a breakthrough.

2 BELGIAN PLANES DOWNED BY NAZIS

volved in the encounter with the German plane, a large Dornier bomber, over Saint Hubert in Belgium's Luxembourg province.

The Belgians surrounded the craft, which then opened fire upon them, it was said.

The leader of the Belgian squadron, Sub-Lieutenant Hernard, was killed when he was struck by a burst of fire and his plane crashed near the village of Hemroulle.

A few minutes later, another of the Belgian planes was forced down at Achene with bullet holes in the gas tank, but the pilot was uninjured. The pilot of the third plane was wounded.

Another flier was killed subsequently when two Belgian army planes collided near Antwerp. Two other Belgian military planes were reported to have cracked up near Antwerp and at Bierzet, but the fliers escaped injury.

The clash of the Belgian planes and the German Dornier was the first such incident since the start of the European war, although Belgian patrols frequently have gone aloft to drive off belligerent craft flying over their territory. Belgian anti-aircraft batteries also have fired at belligerent planes, driving them across the border, but no hits have been reported.

The Belgian government has repeatedly warned belligerent nations against violation of her neutrality. She has sent at least 11 protests to Berlin concerning the reported appearance of German aircraft over Belgian territory, and has sent at least four such protests to London.

EGYPTIAN TOMB YIELDS FORTUNE

will enable historians to fill gaps in their knowledge of this period in Egyptian civilization.

The inner sarcophagus is in the form of a statue of the king carved in silver. Adorned with the gold crowns of upper and lower Egypt the royal effigy lies with hands folded across the chest. One hand holds a golden sceptre, the other a flail. The royal face is that of a young man, leading archaeologists to believe that the likeness was cast before the Pharoah's death.

The second and third sarcophage are of black granite and gold. The outer sarcophagus which fills half the tomb—11 feet long, seven feet wide and four feet deep—is in the form of a carving showing the Pharoah lying on his back. Osiris watches over him and an unnamed goddess supports his head and protects him with outstretched arms.

The profusion of jewelry found in the tomb includes 21 golden bracelets, 10 found on the right arm and 11 on the left. These are most important, as inscriptions on the gold furnish a record of the king's family and genealogical tree. A Pharoah of the same name was one of Solomon's fathers-in-law. The marriage is recorded in the Bible.

A finely wrought gold necklace strung with rubies and scarabs adorns the neck of the silver sarcophagus statue. Laid out on a gold table and altar were 20 gold vases of simple taste, and in a perfect state of preservation. Some of these pieces compare favorably with modern metal and plate ware. Also found in the tomb was a large chalice in the form of a lotus bloom, a long necked bottle, jug and silver cups.

Egyptologists express belief that the tomb of Psou Sennes may reveal more of the history of the Egypt of 1100 B. C. than did the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen of the period of that Pharoah's time, some 200 years earlier.

The discovery of the Tut-Ankh-Amen tomb in 1922 by Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter did more than any other event to arouse popular interest in Egyptology.

COMMITTEE LETS GOVERNOR DOWN

the empty chairs of the streamlined chambers where once his brother, the "Kingfish," roared command and pushed feebly protesting senators back into their seats.

Among other suggestions Long had proposed that the lawmakers hamstring the criminal prosecution powers of Jones who had vowed to punish every person whose bankroll had illegally been fattened at public expense in the past four years.

One hour after Long abandoned the legislative call, the "old" Democratic central committee which a week ago had nominated him for secretary of state in the April 16 general election—the renominated incumbent E. A. Conway died February 19—scratched his name from the ballot.

Then the committee unanimously nominated James A. Gremillion, unsuccessful Jones candidate in the first primary, for the secretary's job.

The governor, back in his office, said he would fight the committee move in the courts and added:

"The crowd who was connected with me, who were placarded and advertised as objectionable by the opposition, have every one, to a man, gone over with the opposition. * * * My head is bloody but still unbowed."

Then the new Democratic committee met and voted to select presidential convention delegates by popular choice once again.

Since the rule of Huey Long, who rose to power in 1928, the committee has been picking its own candidates without holding a state convention.

Jones made his declaration of a "new era" in the jammed house of representatives chamber where the "new" committee met, using the seats the legislators would have occupied had they obeyed Long's summons.

Jones, who announced that after returning from a brief vacation he would begin plans for his administration and the regular legislative session in May, said:

"My election, I consider, signifies the end of dictatorship and the restoration of democracy in Louisiana. I interpret the will of the people as wanting a new era and not merely a change of administration.

"I believe that February 20 heralded a new day for the state of Louisiana and it constituted a new day of freedom and independence signifying the end of dictatorship and the enthronement of democracy.

"No one realizes more than I do the tremendous task that is before me. But I shall with all the determination and with all the resolution that is in my heart and soul and system, labor in an attempt to carry out the platform and principles of my campaign.

"The great and unbought masses of the people of this state do not understand Sam Jones if any of you believe that I am going to be controlled. I have my mandate from the people as a whole and I shall be responsible only to the people as a whole."

Jones said a "democratic spirit prevails" now in Louisiana and his opponents had pledged their efforts to make his new administration a success.

"By the grace of God," he concluded, "we will give the people the kind of government for which they voted February 20."

The central committee authorized a legal committee to propose revisions in the state elections laws to the legislature, particularly measures controlling election machinery.

But Governor Long in a lengthy statement charged that "the opposition, with promises of jobs, money, intimidation, blackguarding, skullduggery, prosecution and non-prosecution, etc., were successful in prevailing on enough people from attending (the legislative session) to prevent a quorum from being present."

In referring to the "crowd going over to the opposition," Long said he was grateful for having been relieved "of this burden" and added:

"Had I had four years in the governor's office and the people had given me the mandate, and thought I was the right man to clean up, things would have been brought to light and some of my so-called friends probably would have been scrutinized."

When roll call was taken at 8:45 a.m., forty-five minutes after the legislative bodies had been summoned to meet, only 13 of 39 senators appeared and only 48 of the 100 house members.

Twenty senators and 51 house members were necessary for a quorum.

Long walked into the empty chamber at 8 a.m. but after the roll call an hour later he announced he had abandoned the legislative summons and went into his private office.

But when the packed galleries realized that the absence of a quorum meant the first definite revolt against the administration in almost the twelve years since Huey became dictator of the state there was prolonged applause.

Long lost his second round of the day when the "old" Democratic committee replaced his name on the ballot with that of Gremillion. The same committee last Sunday voted to put Long's name on the ballot as candidate for secretary of state.

The committee, undisturbed by scattered objections which were met with lusty boos, voted amid applause to "rescind, annul, void and set aside" the Long nomination.

Norman Bauer of St. Mary parish, representative-designate and candidate for speaker of the house, introduced the recall resolution which was opposed by recently defeated Representative C. A. Riddle of Avoyelles parish.

He termed the committee action "irregular and illegal and inconsistent."

He said there was no guarantee the committee would not rescind any other nomination it might make.

"When will the matter stop?" he asked. "When will there be an end?"

Boos interrupted him, but he went on:

"Lo and behold. One of the first steps on the part of the incoming administration is to carry into action a proceeding that is entirely illegal. I am surprised and dumbfounded. This will go down in history as one of the most irregular and illegal proceedings ever seen in Louisiana."

Another defeated legislator, Senator Gove Davis, declared:

"This is a democratic body. Whatever this body does is okay. If it wants to jump in the river it's all right. That's democratic."

Besides Riddle, who held the proxy of Wilbur W. Voinche, those who objected to rescinding of Long's nomination and asked that their names be withdrawn because they considered the proceedings illegal were:

S. R. Oldstein, Winnsboro, holding the proxy of D. J. Anders; L. M. Hinton, Lincoln; Charles Schulze, Ouachita; T. J. Coenan, Richland; Sam Polmer, Terrebonne; Coleman Lindsey, Minden; I. W. Gajan, New Iberia; Curtis E. Bozeman, Natchitoches; and James Lindsey, holding the proxy of W. G. Parham, Orleans. They were recorded as absent.

The committee then certified Jones, Dr. Marc Mouton, Eugene Stanley and Gremillion as party nominees respectively for governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and secretary of state. Then it adjourned.

Gremillion's nomination by Bauer was seconded by Property Commissioner Joseph P. Skelly of New Orleans, Old Regular leader of the committee.

After learning of the committee action, Governor Long said:

"I'm going to fight this in the courts. I've got some of the finest lawyers in the state and I know I'm right. Everybody's known all along this thing would be decided in the supreme court."

The withdrawal of Long's name followed a week of political maneuvering. Jones, refusing to consider Long in the official family of his administration, had said "there is no place in my administration for the repudiated governor."

The governor-designate at a press conference said Roland Cocreham, former adjutant general of the Louisiana American Legion, would open an office for Jones in Lake Charles Monday in the capacity of private secretary.

Jones said he expected to open a Baton Rouge office about April 1 and explained that right now he was not ready to think of making any appointments.

cluded 105 tanks, 12 armored cars, six guns, five four-barreled anti-aircraft machine guns, 200 trucks, 28 automobiles, 25 truckloads of shells, much infantry ammunition and other supplies.

The victory was considered particularly important because it tended to consolidate Finnish defense lines east of Uomaa on the Uuksu river, in effect throwing the Russians in that area back to where they were in the opening days of the war.

On the Karelian isthmus front the situation remained essentially unchanged.

Heavy losses were inflicted on Red forces which were repulsed in the vicinity of Ayrapaa and Nuoraa, about 25 miles east and five miles south of the city, respectively.

At the eastern end of the Mannerheim line, at Taipale, the usual Russian attacks were repulsed.

The Finnish communique announced that among those killed in the bitter fighting northeast of Lake Ladoga were the Soviet commanders of the 34th brigade and 18th division.

While the bitter fighting continued on the front, Russian planes flew back and forth on bombing raids far behind the lines. Helsinki citizens were kept in bombproofs four and a quarter hours while war planes passed over at great altitude, heading for objectives to the north.

killed his fellow Oklahoman, Wiley Post.

Rogers' body lies in Forest Lawn Memorial park mausoleum at Glendale, Calif.

After his death, Mrs. Rogers gave the 20-acre hill site here to the state, the city of Claremore added five acres and the rugged native limestone memorial was built at a cost of nearly $300,000.

The governor said cost of the tomb had been underwritten privately.

or's executive counsel, and Shirley Wimberly, his former law partner.

Named as attorneys for Long were Wallace, Clem H. Sehrt, Long's city campaign manager during the recent campaign, and James A. Lindsay.

The suit contained excerpts from the proceedings of both the "old" central committee, which chose Long over Gremillion a week ago by 51-40 vote and then rescinded its action and named Gremillion at a meeting today, and the "new" committee which affirmed Gremillion's nomination at a subsequent meeting today.

Gremillion, former Acadia parish district attorney who lives at Crowley, was backed by Governor-Designate Sam Jones in the first party primary January 16.

He lost to E. A. Conway, Sr., who obtained nomination to a third successive term in office but who died February 19, thereby creating a vacancy which the central committee was authorized to fill.

The "old" committee in its resolution rescinding Long's nomination also ordered the secretary of state not to place Long's name on the general election ballots.

Long's court plea said the rescinding, ordering his own name off the ballot, and naming Gremillion all were "unlawful" proceedings.

"It is well settled in the law," Long's petition said, "that after a nomination has been duly made and certificate of nomination has been issued, a party committee cannot revoke the nomination or withdraw the candidate's name, there being no withdrawal known to the election law except by a candidate himself. . . .

"The state central committee is entirely without power or authority in the law to place before the electorate of Louisiana as a candidate for secretary of state the name of a man whom the electorate has already rejected as a candidate for the same office."

The petition alleged Gremillion's subsequent selection by the committee was not by viva voce vote, a mandatory provision of the state constitution, and Gremillion's name never had been "properly presented to the Democratic State Central committee by nomination."

For the first time, in Long's petition, came confirmation of reports that E. A. Conway Jr., named by Long as his father's successor until May, when the next four-year term in question will begin, had told Long he would recognize Gremillion as proper party nominee.

"The said secretary of state (young Conway) will recognize James A. Gremillion as the nominee of the Democratic party for the said office of secretary of state and will print his name upon the official ballots for the said general election . . . and your petitioner (Long) has so been told by Eugene A. Conway, secretary of state," the petition complained.

Martin accepted service of the court order on the spot but Long and Wallace were unable to have Conway, Comish or Gremillion appear for voluntary service. Gremillion left the city after the committee meetings earlier in the day.

MISSISSIPPI TO OPEN TAX DRIVE

Spring Campaign To Be Started After Winter Push Wears Self Out

JACKSON, Miss., March 2.—(AP)—The administration of Governor Paul Johnson will begin its "spring drive" in the legislature next week for new taxes to finance its program dedicated to the average man.

The winter campaign, begun successfully with passage of a bill to provide free textbooks for school children, spent itself in the senate Wednesday with defeat by one vote of a measure to raise the ad valorem tax from six to eight mills.

Administration lieutenants had two clear facts on which to plan their operations:

The first was that the governor's support in both house and senate was sufficient to pass individual sections of the "average man" proposals. The textbook bill was a clear-cut victory. A measure to raise the maximum old age benefit from $15 to $30 a month had passed both houses; scheduled conference committee changes will not affect its major provision.

But these and other successful administration bills required only a simple majority.

The second fact confronting the administration was the proven ability of an opposition senate bloc to kill money-raising measures to finance these bills, for taxing acts must be passed by a three-fifths majority.

The governor's simply-stated but hard-to-accomplish objective was this: to prevent the opposition from junking enough of the $44,000,000 revenue program to force abandonment of the "average man" proposals.

Following the senate's action, house members pledged in a resolution to hold the budget to $42,500,000. To finance this budget the house ways and means committee made taxing recommendations that did not jibe with those of the senate finance committee's.

If the state's revenue bills for the past two years were retained unchanged for the next two, Mississippi's income would total $37,002,952. To this sum, the senate finance committee would add $4,500,000 in new taxes, and $2,500,000 through the refunding of bonds, totaling $44,002,952.

The house ways and means committee proposes $5,510,000 in new taxes, but no refunding of bonds. This total would reach $42,512,952.

Each plan provides for an increase in the ad valorem tax rate from six to eight mills, which is expected to bring in $1,500,000 new revenues.

This seems to be one of the dozen new tax bills that the administration considers vital. It is not probable that the bill will be abandoned because of the senate's vote. Governor Johnson last week indicated the introduction of a "substitute" plan was possible.

But whether the spring campaign would begin in house or senate, administration leaders declined to say.

If the bill could be passed by the house this week, the senate might pass it on a second go-around. It failed Thursday by only one vote. Another possibility was the reintroduction of a similar bill in the senate. Identical legislation cannot again be considered by a chamber once it has been defeated, but veteran legislators were of an opinion the measure could be sufficiently changed to avoid this classification.

The fate of other taxing bills, proposing higher income taxes, lower exemption figures, new taxes on various businesses, privileges, natural resources and the borrowed capital of corporations, was muddled. And this indicated that a long and argumentative session would flower from the assembly which began nine weeks ago on a note of harmony and brevity.

Since it is to be a fight, the governor promised grimly to do his share.

"I've fought for everything I ever got," he said. "We've got a good long time to see this thing through."

A "corrupt" lobby is attempting to wreck a humanitarian program voted overwhelmingly by the electorate, he said. Another assertion was that the whisky interests were seeking to force him to accept a liquor legalizing bill for revenue.

"And this I will never do," he said.

Members of the opposition denied the influence of a lobby. They said they fought the tax program because they considered it unsound, and too great an added burden for the taxpayer.

Here is the status of other administration bills in progress:

The senate agriculture committee is scheduled to report this week an amended house bill liberalizing state regulations of farm cooperatives. The governor had charged that "selfish interests" were attempting to wreck it after it had passed the house.

A house committee is still holding the bill to reduce the privilege license on passenger automobiles to $3. The bill has met some opposition.

A bill to consolidate conservation units into one department occupies a similar status in the house conservation committee.

The administration's "master" land bill, to permit poor farm families to homestead on agricultural tracts which have passed to state ownership on tax forfeiture, has passed the house and may come up in the senate this week.

BRITISH SHIPPING AGAIN ATTACKED

English Fliers Draw Antiaircraft Fire In Flights Over Berlin

LONDON, March 2.—(AP)—German air raiders struck sporadically at North sea shipping today and the British air force reported its scouts had drawn antiaircraft fire by dropping flares and pamphlets over Berlin as the sixth month of the war ended with threats of wholesale aerial bombardments still unfulfilled.

Capping its announcement of the exploits of British reconnaissance planes, the air ministry declared that royal air force fighters had downed two German aircraft on the western front, one a Dornier bomber which fell in French territory and the other a Messerschmitt which dropped behind the Nazi lines.

The rattle of machine-gun fire and the thunder of antiaircraft batteries, echoing along Britain's coasts shortly after dawn, heralded the new forays by German bombers, but there were no immediate reports of new sinkings of merchant ships.

(In Berlin, DNB, official news agency, announced that Nazi planes had "sunk or extensively damaged" several British ships under convoy this morning, but the location of the raids was not disclosed.)

Fishing boats and trawlers reported fighting off German planes with machine guns, and at one point the offshore firing was so intense it was audible 12 miles inland.

The 2,277-ton Italian ship Mira, which put into an east coast port during the afternoon, reported she had been bombed without effect by a German plane which later raked her decks with machine-gun fire.

The royal air force balanced these attacks with a dramatic account of wide-ranging reconnaissance flights over Germany during the night, the seventh in as many days.

In addition to flying over Berlin, the British scouts also reconnoitered "important towns" in northwest Germany and "kept watch" on seaplane bases at Borkun, Nordany and Sylt, an air ministry communique declared.

The ministry said that the planes had scattered thousands of propaganda leaflets over the Berlin area and dropped parachute flares "to drive home the fact that our aircraft were once again over the capital of the Reich."

These operations drew the fire of anti-aircraft batteries, the communique declared, but added that "the fire was wide of the mark and no evasive action by the bombers was necessary."

(Dispatches from Berlin said that no anti-aircraft fire or flares had been observed, and officials characterized the London reports as "nonsense.")

CHAPTER VII

Ann pulled her blind that night before switching on the light. Doing so, she averted her eyes, refusing to glance across the alley. Of one thing she was sure. The next day, or Monday at the latest, she would find another room. She would not run the risk of meeting the young man on the street. He'd never get the chance to laugh at her again, or snub her. She got into the thin bed and cried herself to sleep.

She dared not leave her room on Sunday. She might run into the young man and he'd think she had tracked him down. She worked up quite a hate toward the young man before evening.

She was in low spirits Monday morning. She had followed her one little ray of light and it had led her to the most humiliating experience of her life.

She looked back on her conversation with the young man, the conversation in which she deliberately forced herself upon him, with horror. She ground her little white teeth, remembering how idiotically happy she had been upon recognizing him. For that moment, when she crossed the foyer, she had known the fates to be kind, something she had never before suspected. Well, the fates weren't kind. They were horrible.

Ann disciplined herself while eating breakfast. It was just as well that the incident in the library had turned into a fiasco. Just suppose the young man across the way had been K295. The outcome might have been disastrous to her plans. She even went so far as to reluctantly admit that he had appealed to her and she wanted none of that sort of thing.

Love. She might even have fallen in love with him. Love was not the answer, it was the greatest problem in life. Look what it had done to her mother, look what it did to all women. Blinded them, robbed them of individualism, that's what it did, put them at the mercy of another human being. No, sir—not for her.

A little of her sense of humor returned at this point. She certainly need not worry about an amorous entanglement with the young man across the alley. He had plainly demonstrated his unwillingness to make friends with her. However, to avoid any further embarrassment, she would move. That was settled.

She worked hard through the morning. Mrs. Pringle asked, "Did you see a show, Ann?" and she answered, "No, I wasn't in the mood for a show." She was half inclined to tell the kindly older woman of the ridiculous escapade of gardenias, but held her tongue. Ann had been holding her tongue for so long that her emotions had become encased in a hard shell. It was with difficulty that she voiced her thoughts.

At noon she went for a walk. Thinking about her prospective move, she decided to consult the 10-cent store girl. Perhaps she might know of a place. She went to the notion counter and her friend came to wait on her.

"Hello, kid," she said. "How did the dress turn out?" Always Ann's heart warmed to the girl. She had a gift of charm, a real and unfailing interest.

"It's all right," Ann told her. "I wore it Saturday night."

"Did you step out?"

"No, I went down to the library."

"That must have been exciting." The girl made a little face.

"You'll never know how exciting it was." Ann laughed. She could laugh at the absurd incident now.

"Look," her friend said, "I'm going back for a sandwich. Come with me—let's talk."

"I'll sit with you but I've had my lunch."

"All right, sit with me."

She started to leave her place, then turned back as a stock man rolled a loaded truck to the counter. Her expression became arched as she smiled invitingly. The stock man spoke and Ann whirled. That voice—

The voice said, "The long zippers won't be in until tomorrow." And as Ann whirled, "Well, it's Miss Gardenia."

This time it was a coincidence it had to be. Ann felt a little dazed. This kind of thing couldn't go on and on. You just didn't run into the same annoying person time and again. Ann felt herself blushing. She did not reply to the greeting.

He grinned at her, impudently she thought. "Did you find your friend?" he asked.

Ann flared. "You needn't take that tone. How and where I meet my friends is no concern of yours."

"It seemed to be more or less my concern Saturday night."

"I'm sure you have the intelligence to recognize a mistake when you see one." Sarcasm edged her tone. "If you had any tact you wouldn't embarrass me by referring to it."

"I guess a girl with your nerve can get along all right."

Ann was furiously angry. "I want you to understand that I don't go around picking up strange men in public places."

"No?"

"And if I did wish to start a flirtation you would be the last person in the world whom I'd choose." She drew a long, wrathful breath.

"All right," he said good naturedly. "Shall we skip it?"

"Gladly."

The girl behind the counter was listening, round eyed. Ann turned to her. "I'm afraid I can't stay today," she said hotly. "This person might feel that I was pursuing him."

"Don't mind me," he put in amiably. "I'm on my way back to the stock room where I belong."

The girl, obviously curious, insisted. "Don't be silly," she said. "I want to talk to you about something." She joined Ann in the aisle. The young man, without a backward glance, trundled his truck toward the back of the store. The girls found a booth in the cafe and sat down.

"What's your name?" the girl asked.

"Ann Brown." She bit her under lip. Angry tears threatened. "He makes me—so—mad," she muttered. "Of all the conceited, pig-headed, insulting—"

"Gee, kid—don't get sore. What's it all about?"

Ann told briefly of her meeting with the stock man. "He was wearing a white gardenia in his lapel—how did I know that half the men in Chicago were wearing gardenias?" she asked.

The 10-cent store girl giggled and, after a moment, Ann's face cleared. "I don't see what's so funny about it," she grumbled.

"Imagine it happening to Paul," the girl giggled. "It's simply a sc-ream. All the girls are crazy about him and he shows 'em the deadpan. Girl-shy—that's his trouble. Then you come along and [illegible] in the public library—Oh, it's a scream."

"Is that his name, Paul?"

"Uh-huh—Paul Hayden. He started to work here about a month ago. Isn't he the keenest looking thing?"

"Not to me," [illegible] makes me [illegible] I'm cheap. He [illegible] I said about it [illegible] Saturday night. He [illegible] in here."

"Don't be [illegible] think so now. You [illegible] good." She changed the subject. "My name is Clara Brooks. Funny how we got to be friends without knowing each other's names anyway. I'm telling you because I got a proposition for you."

Ann raised her eyebrows inquiringly. Her feathers were still ruffled by the second encounter with Paul Hayden.

Spring Campaign To Be Started After Winter Push Wears Self Out

JACKSON, Miss., March 2.—(AP)—The administration of Governor Paul Johnson will begin its "spring drive" in the legislature next week for new taxes to finance its program dedicated to the average man.

The winter campaign, begun successfully with passage of a bill to provide free textbooks for school children, spent itself in the senate Wednesday with defeat by one vote of a measure to raise the ad valorem tax from six to eight mills.

Administration lieutenants had two clear facts on which to plan their operations:

The first was that the governor's support in both house and senate was sufficient to pass individual sections of the "average man" proposals. The textbook bill was a clear-cut victory. A measure to raise the maximum old age benefit from $15 to $30 a month had passed both houses; scheduled conference committee changes will not affect its major provision.

But these and other successful administration bills required only a simple majority.

The second fact confronting the administration was the proven ability of an opposition senate bloc to kill money-raising measures to finance these bills, for taxing acts must be passed by a three-fifths majority.

The governor's simply-stated but hard-to-accomplish objective was this: to prevent the opposition from junking enough of the $44,000,000 revenue program to force abandonment of the "average man" proposals.

Following the senate's action, house members pledged in a resolution to hold the budget to $42,500,000. To finance this budget the house ways and means committee made taxing recommendations that did not jibe with those of the senate finance committee's.

If the state's revenue bills for the past two years were retained unchanged for the next two, Mississippi's income would total $37,002,952. To this sum, the senate finance committee would add $4,500,000 in new taxes, and $2,500,000 through the refunding of bonds, totaling $44,002,952.

The house ways and means committee proposes $5,510,000 in new taxes, but no refunding of bonds. This total would reach $42,512,952.

Each plan provides for an increase in the ad valorem tax rate from six to eight mills, which is expected to bring in $1,500,000 new revenues.

This seems to be one of the dozen new tax bills that the administration considers vital. It is not probable that the bill will be abandoned because of the senate's vote. Governor Johnson last week indicated the introduction of a "substitute" plan was possible.

But whether the spring campaign would begin in house or senate, administration leaders declined to say.

If the bill could be passed by the house this week, the senate might pass it on a second go-around. It failed Thursday by only one vote. Another possibility was the reintroduction of a similar bill in the senate. Identical legislation cannot again be considered by a chamber once it has been defeated, but veteran legislators were of an opinion the measure could be sufficiently changed to avoid this classification.

The fate of other taxing bills, proposing higher income taxes, lower exemption figures, new taxes on various businesses, privileges, natural resources and the borrowed capital of corporations, was muddled. And this indicated that a long and argumentative session would flower from the assembly which began nine weeks ago on a note of harmony and brevity.

Since it is to be a fight, the governor promised grimly to do his share.

"I've fought for everything I ever got," he said. "We've got a good long time to see this thing through."

A "corrupt" lobby is attempting to wreck a humanitarian program voted overwhelmingly by the electorate, he said. Another assertion was that the whisky interests were seeking to force him to accept a liquor legalizing bill for revenue.

"And this I will never do," he said.

Members of the opposition denied the influence of a lobby. They said they fought the tax program because they considered it unsound, and too great an added burden for the taxpayer.

Here is the status of other administration bills in progress:

The senate agriculture committee is scheduled to report this week an amended house bill liberalizing state regulations of farm cooperatives. The governor had charged that "selfish interests" were attempting to wreck it after it had passed the house.

A house committee is still holding the bill to reduce the privilege license on passenger automobiles to $3. The bill has met some opposition.

A bill to consolidate conservation units into one department occupies a similar status in the house conservation committee.

The administration's "master" land bill, to permit poor farm families to homestead on agricultural tracts which have passed to state ownership on tax forfeiture, has passed the house and may come up in the senate this week.

BRITISH SHIPPING AGAIN ATTACKED

English Fliers Draw Antiaircraft Fire In Flights Over Berlin

LONDON, March 2.—(AP)—German air raiders struck sporadically at North sea shipping today and the British air force reported its scouts had drawn antiaircraft fire by dropping flares and pamphlets over Berlin as the sixth month of the war ended with threats of wholesale aerial bombardments still unfulfilled.

Capping its announcement of the exploits of British reconnaissance planes, the air ministry declared that royal air force fighters had downed two German aircraft on the western front, one a Dornier bomber which fell in French territory and the other a Messerschmitt which dropped behind the Nazi lines.

The rattle of machine-gun fire and the thunder of antiaircraft batteries, echoing along Britain's coasts shortly after dawn, heralded the new forays by German bombers, but there were no immediate reports of new sinkings of merchant ships.

(In Berlin, DNB, official news agency, announced that Nazi planes had "sunk or extensively damaged" several British ships under convoy this morning, but the location of the raids was not disclosed.)

Fishing boats and trawlers reported fighting off German planes with machine guns, and at one point the offshore firing was so intense it was audible 12 miles inland.

The 2,277-ton Italian ship Mira, which put into an east coast port during the afternoon, reported she had been bombed without effect by a German plane which later raked her decks with machine-gun fire.

The royal air force balanced these attacks with a dramatic account of wide-ranging reconnaissance flights over Germany during the night, the seventh in as many days.

In addition to flying over Berlin, the British scouts also reconnoitered "important towns" in northwest Germany and "kept watch" on seaplane bases at Borkun, Nordany and Sylt, an air ministry communique declared.

The ministry said that the planes had scattered thousands of propaganda leaflets over the Berlin area and dropped parachute flares "to drive home the fact that our aircraft were once again over the capital of the Reich."

These operations drew the fire of anti-aircraft batteries, the communique declared, but added that "the fire was wide of the mark and no evasive action by the bombers was necessary."

(Dispatches from Berlin said that no anti-aircraft fire or flares had been observed, and officials characterized the London reports as "nonsense.")

CHAPTER VII

Ann pulled her blind that night before switching on the light. Doing so, she averted her eyes, refusing to glance acros the alley. Of one thing she was sure. The next day, or Monday at the latest, she would find another room. She would not run the risk of meeting the young man on the street. He'd never get the chance to laugh at her again, or snub her. She got into the thin bed and cried herself to sleep.

She dared not leave her room on Sunday. She might run into the young man and he'd think she had tracked him down. She worked up quite a hate toward the young man before evening.

She was in low spirits Monday morning. She had followed her one little ray of light and it had led her to the most humiliating experience of her life.

She looked back on her conversation with the young man, the conversation in which she deliberately forced herself upon him, with horror. She ground her little white teeth, remembering how idiotically happy she had been upon recognizing him. For that moment, when she crossed the foyer, she had known the fates to be kind, something she had never before suspected. Well, the fates weren't kind. They were horrible.

Ann disciplined herself while eating breakfast. It was just as well that the incident in the library had turned into a fiasco. Just suppose the young man across the way had been K295. The outcome might have been disastrous to her plans. She even went so far as to reluctantly admit that he had appealed to her and she wanted none of that sort of thing.

Love. She might even have fallen in love with him. Love was not the answer, it was the greatest problem in life. Look what it had done to her mother, look what it did to all women. Blinded them, robbed them of individualism, that's what it did, put them at the mercy of another human being. No, sir—not for her.

A little of her sense of humor returned at this point. She certainly need not worry about an amorous entanglement with the young man across the alley. He had plainly demonstrated his unwillingness to make friends with her. However, to avoid any further embarrassment, she would move. That was settled.

She worked hard through the morning. Mrs. Pringle asked, "Did you see a show, Ann?" and she answered, "No, I wasn't in the mood for a show." She was half inclined to tell the kindly older woman of the ridiculous escapade of gardenias, but held her tongue. Ann had been holding her tongue for so long that her emotions had become encased in a hard shell. It was with difficulty that she voiced her thoughts.

At noon she went for a walk. Thinking about her prospective move, she decided to consult the 10-cent store girl. Perhaps she might know of a place. She went to the notion counter and her friend came to wait on her.

"Hello, kid," she said. "How did the dress turn out?" Always Ann's heart warmed to the girl. She had a gift of charm, a real and unfailing interest.

"It's all right," Ann told her. "I wore it Saturday night."

"Did you step out?"

"No, I went down to the library."

"That must have been exciting." The girl made a little face.

"You'll never know how exciting it was," Ann laughed. She could laugh at the absurd incident now.

"Look," her friend said, "I'm going back for a sandwich. Come with me —let's talk."

"I'll sit with you but I've had my lunch."

"All right, sit with me."

She started to leave her place, then turned back as a stock man rolled a loaded truck to the counter. Her expression became arched as she smiled invitingly. The stock man spoke and Ann whirled. That voice—

The voice said, "The long zippers won't be in until tomorrow—" And, as Ann whirled, "Well, it's Miss Gardenia."

This time it was a coincidence—it had to be. Ann felt a little dazed. This kind of thing couldn't go on and on. You just didn't run into the same annoying person time and again. Ann felt herself blushing. She did not reply to the greeting.

He grinned at her, impudently, she thought. "Did you find your friend?" he asked.

Ann flared. "You needn't take that tone. How and where I meet my friends is no concern of yours."

"It seemed to be more or less my concern Saturday night."

"I'm sure you have the intelligence to recognize a mistake when you see one." Sarcasm edged her tone. "If you had any tact you wouldn't embarrass me by referring to it."

"I guess a girl with your nerve can get along all right."

Ann was furiously angry. "I want you to understand that I don't go around picking up strange men in public places."

"No?"

"And if I did wish to start a flirtation you would be the last person in the world whom I'd choose." She drew a long, wrathful breath.

"All right," he said good naturedly. "Shall we skip it?"

"Gladly."

The girl behind the counter was listening, round eyed. Ann turned to her. "I'm afraid I can't stay today," she said hotly. "This person might feel that I was pursuing him."

"Don't mind me," he put in amiably. "I'm on my way back to the stock room where I belong."

The girl, obviously curious, insisted. "Don't be silly," she said. "I want to talk to you about something." She joined Ann in the aisle. The young man, without a backward glance, trundled his truck toward the back of the store. The girls found a booth in the cafe and sat down.

"What's your name?" the girl asked.

"Ann Brown." She bit her under lip. Angry tears threatened. "He makes me—so—mad," she muttered. "Of all the conceited, pig-headed, insulting—"

"Gee, kid—don't get sore. What's it all about?"

Ann told briefly of her meeting with the stock man. "He was wearing a white gardenia in his lapel—how did I know that half the men in Chicago were wearing gardenias?" she asked.

The 10-cent store girl giggled and, after a moment, Ann's face cleared. "I don't see what's so funny about it," she grumbled.

"Imagine it happening to Paul," the girl giggled. "It's simply a sc-ream. All the girls are crazy about him and he shows 'em the deadpan. Girl-shy—that's his trouble. Then you come along and collar him in the public library—Oh, it's a sc-ream."

"Is that his name—Paul?"

"Uh-huh—Paul Hayden. He started to work here about a month ago. Isn't he the keenest looking thing?"

"Not to me, he isn't. The thing that makes me so furious is that he thinks I'm cheap. He didn't believe a word I said about it being a mistake Saturday night. He thinks I trailed him in here."

"Don't be burned up, Ann. He doesn't think so now. You cooled him good." She changed the subject. "My name is Clara Brooks—funny how we got to be friends without knowing each other's names—anyway, I'm telling you because I got a proposition for you."

Ann raised her eyebrows inquiringly. Her feathers were still ruffled by the second encounter with Paul Hayden.

"Look," Clara began. "My roommate got married last Saturday. She and Jim made up their minds all of a sudden and it sorta leaves me on a limb. I got a nice little joint but it costs too much for me to keep alone. I just thought maybe you'd like to come in with me if you ain't fixed too good."

Ann decided on the instant. "That's funny, Clara," she said. "I came in to aks you about a place. I want to move —I'm going to move."

Her brow darkened again. If Paul Hayden ever learned that she had been snooping at him from her window he'd have another score against her. Glancing across the store, she found his eyes upon her. He was grinning. The beast. She turned her back on him.

OUTSTANDING BASEBALL FIGURES TO BE HERE

Sports Chatter

By GEORGE V. LOFTON

SCRAPPY SKIPPERS

The Cotton States league race this summer is going to be plenty interesting, if colorful managers means anything.

There's a select crop of newcomers that bodes no good for the opposition and the umpires. If past performances mean anything, the old circuit will fairly ooze with color.

Guy Sturdy, the old slugging first sacker, will be at El Dorado, and Guy never was a shrinking violet. Andy Reese will handle the reins at Greenville. Bud Clancy, late of Birmingham and for ten years before that, with the Chicago Cubs, will have charge of managerial affairs at Helena. Bud's another first baseman. Cecil Coombs, recently a cog in the Cat machine at Fort Worth, will assume the responsibility of producing a team for playerless Hot Springs. And "Red" Rollings, the old Red Sox shortstop, will try to rejuvenate the Pine Bluff Judges. Add "Cowboy" Jones and Doug Taitt to that setup, and you have a right aggressive corps of commanders.

Not only are those gents capable of directing a ball club but each and every one of them should be a standout as a player in the Class C Cotton States loop. As players they're a little shy of form for Class A-1 competition because they're getting up in years, but they ought to be terrors in this territory. There's going to be some pretty fair country slugging from the pilots in this circuit.

All of which will make for more interest in the league and that will keep the customers entertained, no matter where the teams stand. All eight clubs have posted their forfeits and the season will start with the same setup as finished last year. The color added by the new skippers should insure a much better season than the dismal (for some) campaign in 1939.

BLOWOUT BREWING

The Chamber of Commerce is planning a big baseball party for this week, and at this writing the announcement of plans is awaiting word from several well known figures in the game that they will or will not attend the shindig.

Delegations have visited both Jackson and Hot Springs, where baseball schools are in progress, in an effort to get some "name" athletes to attend the meeting, but as this is written late Saturday, nothing definite has been announced. We're still waiting to hear from George Holland, who has been busy all week with his sports committee attempting to line up the talent.

If present plans materialize, it's going to be an interesting party, and just the thing to start the baseball preliminaries rolling. The booster banquet will be open to the public for a nominal fee and will be well worth

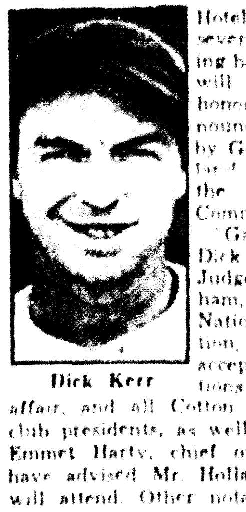
JUDGE BRAMHAM, STREET AMONG BANQUET GUESTS

Cotton States Presidents Also To Attend C. Of C. Affair

The second annual baseball banquet, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, will be held Thursday night at Hotel Frances, and several outstanding baseball figures will be guests of honor, it was announced last night by George D. Holland, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.



Dick Kerr

"Gabby" Street, Dick Kerr and Judge W. G. Bramham, head of the National Association, already have accepted invitations to attend the affair, and all Cotton States league club presidents, as well as President Emmet Harty, chief of the circuit, have advised Mr. Holland that they will attend. Other notables also are expected.

Street, who led the St. Louis Cardinals to the National league championship several seasons ago, and Kerr, pitching hero of the Chicago "Black Sox" back in 1919, are instructors in the Ray Doan baseball school at Jackson, Miss., and yesterday accepted invitations to attend the banquet. Judge Bramham is vacationing in Hot Springs and unless prevented by other engagements, will come here for the annual celebration. Manager Doug Taitt of the Monroe White Sox and Max Moses, president of the club, were in Hot Springs yesterday attempting to obtain other celebrities who are associated with the Rogers Hornsby-George Barr school there. They are expected to return here today.

Plans for the banquet have not been completed, Mr. Holland said, but the public will be invited and a number of unique features are planned for the affair. The program will be broadcast, he said. The time of the banquet and the price to be charged per plate will be announced later, it was announced.

Street, the "Old Sarge" of baseball, is a colorful figure of the national pastime. He has long been identified with the game and is a forceful speaker. A catcher in "the old days," Street later compiled an enviable record as a manager. It was Street who caught a ball thrown by Walter Johnson, his old batterymate at Washington, from the Washington monument.

Kerr was an outstanding hurler with the Chicago White Sox more than twenty years ago. Dickie pitched his heart out as a member of the club whose players "threw" the World

'GOLDS' WIN IN INTRASQUAD TILT

Sievers Back In Action For Center As Mates Beat 'Blacks,' 21-7

The Northeast Center of L. S. U. football squad finished two weeks of spring drills yesterday afternoon with an intrasquad game which the "Golds" won, 21 to 7, from the "Black" aggregation.

Guy Sievers, quarterback for the Golds, engineered his team to victory with much of the same old fighting spirit that he showed in 1937 with the Tribe. Despite two years of inactivity because of an oil field accident, he brought his team from behind to win.

The game was a strenuous regulation 60-minute battle in which not a single substitution was made.

After an exchange of quick kicks between Gerald White of the Blacks and Sievers, the Blacks advanced 60 yards to score in the first five minutes of play. The 60-yard march was topped by a 22-yard run by "Rowboat" Wroten for the Blacks' lone touchdown. Gerald White kicked the point.

The Golds struck back in the second quarter when Sievers, at top running speed, heaved a 50-yard pass to Cecil "Pete" Cosper, an end, who raced on for the touchdown. Cosper took the pass in the open behind the safety and was in no danger of being overhauled. Will Abraham, guard, kicked the point.

On the first play of the second half Cercy Frey intercepted one of White's aerials and returned it 50 yards for a touchdown behind good blocking. Abraham again kicked the point.

An 85-yard return of one of White's punts by Jo Jo Swanger, the Atlanta, Tex., addition to the local squad, gave the Golds their final touchdown, and Abraham kicked his third point.

The score was no indication of the closeness of the battle. The Blacks made 12 first downs against eight for the winners. The Blacks were in pay-off territory twice, only to be held for downs, and a fumble lost them another scoring opportunity.

The Blacks were held for downs inside the five yard line on two occasions, once on the one-yard stripe. On another occasion Wroten got loose on a 40-yard jaunt only to fumble on the five-yard line and the Golds recovered.

Coach James L. Malone expressed himself as well pleased with the game. Both lines performed commendably and the ball handling of White and Frey was promising.

The lineups:

WAITING FOR BARROW TO MAKE FIRST MOVE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—(AP)—Joe DiMaggio, the belting Yankee outfielder, still was in town today instead of being en route to Florida for spring training—and he doesn't mind being called a holdout.

"I don't call myself a holdout," Joe said, "but if that's what you wish to call it, it's all right. I won't leave San Francisco until I hear from him (Ed Barrow, Yankee president)."

Asked if Barrow had contacted him since he returned his first contract Joe replied:

"I can't say.

"There's no sense in my going to Florida until I reach an agreement," he added. "I'd have to pay living expenses for myself and wife once I go there and I couldn't work out unless I was signed."

It was believed DiMaggio was offered $30,000 for the season, an increase of $2,500 over his 1939 salary, but wants $35,000.

Lions Hope To Schedule Tune-Up Meet Here Before March 22 Event

The Ouachita Parish High School track and field squad, which has been going through conditioning drills for the past few weeks, will begin selective work this week in preparation for the second annual Ouachita Parish High School Relay Carnival and a hexangular meet here in the next two weeks.

The relay carnival is slated for March 22 at the Northeast Center of L. S. U. stadium, but the Lions hope to get in a six-sided test meet here March 16 before tackling the competition expected in the annual invitational meet.

Coach Woodrow W. Turner has invited more than 30 teams from throughout this section of the country to participate in the second annual relay carnival which was won last year by Greenville High School of Greenville, Miss. He has also invited Delhi, Columbia, Clarks, Rayville and Louisiana Training Institute to join his boys in the meet scheduled for March 16.

Seventeen events are slated for the relay carnival, which is developing into the largest high school invitational meet of its kind in this section of the state.

Unlike most tournaments, no entry fee is necessary and awards are plentiful. Gold, silver and bronze medals will go to winners of the first three places in the special events and fourth place winners will get blue ribbons. Trophies and plaques will be awarded the winning relay teams.

Sixteen teams participated in the inaugural meet last spring and more than 30 schools have been invited to enter teams this season.

The list of events in the order they will appear on the program has been announced as follows:

Pole vault, shot put, 70-yard high hurdles, two-mile relay, 100-yard dash, discus, high jump, medley relay, 440-yard relay, basketball shuttle relay, javelin, 880-yard relay, broad jump, football relay, 120-yard low hurdles and mile relay.

The deadline for entering the relay carnival has been fixed at March 16.

The Lions have been sticking almost entirely to conditioning drills, but Coach Turner will begin sorting his charges this week into sprinters, distance runners, jumpers and discus, shot put and javelin throwers.

Some of the most improved performers appear to be Doug Hinton, Bill Eason, and Richard Pate.

Hinton is a good choice for the shot and discus, but the 205-pound Eason is also getting good range with the discus. Pate is one of Ouachita's most improved speeders and may fit in several speed events.

The addition last week of Warren Sievers, Clayton Brown and C. H. Young, members of the squad last year, gave the Lions added strength. Sievers looms as a mile runner; Brown is handy with the javelin; and Young is another miler. Both Sievers and Young are relay timber.

Henry Hazlitt, who has been giving his time to basketball, is due out this week to get to work on the hurdles and high jump in which he performed last season.

H. P. Kimball, member of the mile relay team last year, is missing because of illness but is expected to join the squad in a few days.

SCHEDULE GIVEN

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 2.—(AP)—The University of Tennessee basketball team will play 11 Southeastern conference games next season, Coach Johnny Mauer said today in announcing a partial 1940-41 schedule. Home and home games were arranged with Alabama, Kentucky, Vanderbilt and Georgia. Newcomers to the Vol schedule are Auburn and Mississippi, who will be met in single games for the next two years.

John Wesley, founder of Methodism, made it a practice to rise at 4 o'clock in the morning. In late life he remarked that he had risen at that hour for 60 years.

FOUR-BALL GOLFING PLAY STARTS TODAY

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—Headed by the confident but cautious titleholders, Ralph Guldahl and Sammy Snead, 16 hand-picked teams will set out tomorrow in quest of the $5,000 international four-ball golf championship—one of the most colorful links fixtures in the country.

Seventeen years old, the tournament offers the teams of two players each 36 holes of gruelling match play each day, at the end of which the field will be reduced to half. The two semifinal teams will battle it out for the championship Thursday, the winner receiving top prize of $2,000.

While cognizant of the strong competition they face, Guldahl and Snead are the odds-on favorites to defend successfully the crown they won a year ago by beating Horton Smith and Paul Runyan, 7 and 6, in the finals.

Drawn as the champions' first-round opponents is the combination of Johnny Bulla and Frank Walsh, but tournament officials don't expect Guldahl and Snead will be extended far in disposing of them.

The team of Jimmy Demaret and Willie Goggin looms as one of the most serious contenders. They are paired against Vic Ghezzi and Jimmy Hines.

ARMSTRONG AND GARCIA IN DRAW

Deadlock Virtually Spells End To Negro's Hope Of Taking Title

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—(AP)—Welterweight Champion Henry Armstrong's quest of Ceferino Garcia's middleweight title is still a 50-50 wager and take your pick.

The two fought each other to a standstill in 10 rounds of bloody combat last night before a paid attendance of 16,228, and Referee George V. Blake called it a draw. The fight drew a gross gate of $65,953.

Brim-full of action from start to finish, the draw decision virtually spelled the end of Hammerin' Armstrong's hope of acquiring a fourth title in his career, although a rematch might be made some time later.

Garcia, the Filipino who is recognized as the middleweight champ in California and New York, weighed 153 1-2 and Armstrong 142.

Arguments raged on today over the outcome. George Parnassus, the Filipino's manager, openly charged that Armstrong waged a "dirty fight," and said illegal use of his shoulders and head robbed Garcia of a chance for a clear-cut victory.

Many ringers thought Garcia earned it with his clean, shocking uppercuts to the head that twice had the negro lad reeling backwards, but just as many gave the fight to Armstrong for his usual relentless, ever-punching aggressiveness.

Blood flowed from the third round on. Garcia suffered an eye cut—his corner claimed it was butted—and Armstrong's mouth was cut in the same round and his left eye was shut tight for the last three frames.

The two lost no time getting to work. They started in a few seconds after the first bell and 10 rounds later they were standing in Garcia's corner, toe to toe, still whaling away with all the power and punches they could muster.

Referee Blake said afterward that Armstrong's shoulder tactics counted heavily against him.

TAKES INDOOR TENNIS TITLE

Riggs Defeats McNeill To Add Championship To Outdoor Crown

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP)—Peerless Bobby Riggs became the first tennis ace since the halcyon days of Big Bill Tilden to win both the outdoor and the indoor national singles championship when he swept Don McNeill of Oklahoma City off the boards 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, 2-6, 6-2 in the indoor finals today.

Riggs, never overly popular here, beat today's gallery favorite in a match in which the smart tactician out-planned and out-gamed the blond Kenyon college student—scoring heavily on a series of perfectly timed advances to the net.

That was the margin of victory for the little man with the Charlie Chaplin walk, who forced McNeill into innumerable errors in the last set by his terrific placements off both his forehand and backhand—just when it began to look as though McNeill might win.

But this wasn't half as exciting as the women's singles in which Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, the Bostonian, defeated blonde Pauline Betz of Los Angeles in three sets, 6-4, 1-6, 7-5.

Miss Betz, the defending champion, was mowing Mrs. Fabyan down mercilessly when they took a 10 minute intermission between the second and third sets—and promptly lost four straight games. She courageously came back but the handicap was too much and Mrs. Fabyan ran the match out.

Mrs. Fabyan, like Riggs, was winning her first indoor title.

After Miss Betz came up to 5-all in games (Mrs. Fabyan once had an advantage of 5-1 in games and was at match point) the turning point of the uphill battle came. The Californian needed but one point to crack her rival's service and she had an easy overhead kill—but she almost knocked the ball out of the armory, and Mrs. Fabyan went on to win.

Norma Taubele of New York and Gracyn Wheeler of Los Angeles took the women's doubles championship by defeating Louise Raymond of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Patricia Cumming of Westfield, N. J., 7-5, 6-4.

Seabiscuit Takes Santa Anita Handicap

BECOMES BIGGEST MONEY WINNER IN RACING HISTORY

Great Horse Breaks Track Record As Stablemate Finishes Second

By Robert Myers

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—(AP)—Mighty Seabiscuit won the greatest race of a great racing career today.

Rounding out one of the most amazing chapters in the colorful annals of the American turf, he captured the sixth running of the $100,000 added Santa Anita handicap and reached the crown point of a goal of gold. He became the greatest money winner of all time, and one of the most beloved thoroughbreds in the game.

Rolling down to victory in his third crack at the top prize of this world's richest horse race, with the roar of a record crowd of 75,000 pulling him in, the 7-year-old warrior of the west outgained and outcharged his 12 rivals in a glorious performance that broke the track record.

It was a double triumph for the feared and odds-on favored combination of Charles S. Howard, for his Kayak II, winner of the 1939 Santa Anita handicap, ran second in a burst of speed that brought him in one length back of his famous stablemate.

Major Austin C. Taylor's Whichcee, pace setter in this mile and one quarter classic, ran third as the outcome seesawed back and forth in the big drive for the wire.

Victory for the mighty stake king, which came after a year's layoff and after the horse once was believed through with racing, brought $86,650 net and sent the Biscuit's all-time earnings soaring beyond the American turf record held by W. S. Kilmer's great Sun Beau. Seabiscuit's win brought his total to $437,730. Sun Beau's record was $376,744.

Jockey Basil James, aboard Whichcee, filed a complaint at Seabiscuit, charging Jockey Johnny (Red) Pollard cut in on him at the sixteenth pole. The protest was not allowed, however, and the entry of Seabiscuit and Kayak II paid off across the board at the price of $3.40, $2.80 and $2.60. Whichcee paid $3.60 to show.

The roar of the record throng swept behind Seabiscuit and his pal of the saddle as they thundered, one length back of the flying Whichcee, into the first turn and around the lightning fast track.

It was Whichcee three quarters of a length over the mighty 'Biscuit, with Wedding Call and Can't Wait pressing close behind as they entered the turn for the stretch.

The lead shifted back and forth a moment under the flying hoofs of Wedding Call, Whichcee and Seabiscuit, but suddenly the cry went up:

"Seabiscuit in front."

Jockey Leon Haas, on the other color bearer, suddenly boomed into the front ranks, and it was Seabiscuit and Kayak II running one two.

Wedding Call, owned by W. C. Gaffers and J. H. Sattler, of Los Angeles, ran a surprising fourth, with Apprentice Doug Dodson in the saddle.

The betting handle for the handicap was $382,700.

Seabiscuit ran the mile and a quarter in 2:01 1-5. The track record of 2:01 2-5 was set in the big 'cap a year ago by Kayak II.

Kayak's second brought more money to the Howard stable. The San Francisco sportsman won $20,000 for second, Whichcee $10,000 for third and Wedding Call $5,000 for fourth.

Finishing back of these in order were War Plumage, fifth; Heelfly, sixth; Viscounty, seventh; Can't Wait, eighth; Specify, ninth; Royal Crusader, tenth; Don Mike, eleventh; Ra II, twelfth, and Kantan, thirteenth and last.

Hysterical, an overnight entry, was declared out of the race. He is a stablemate of George W. Stratton's Heelfly.

NEGRO PRO STARS WILL PLAY HERE

Two games of professional negro baseball are slated for Casino park here early next month, it was announced here last night, and definite dates will be announced after the release of the Cotton States league schedule.

The Kansas City Monarchs, champions of the negro American league last year, and the Homestead Grays, negro National league champs of Pittsburgh, Pa., will meet here in one of the games, it was stated.

The other engagement will be between the colorful negro comedians, the Ethiopian Clowns, and the Crawfords of Toledo, O. The Toledo team was formerly known as the Pittsburgh Crawfords, a combination that played many games here in the past years.

Jesse Owens, negro track star, will accompany the Crawfords on the trip here and appear as an exhibitionist on the Crawfords-Clowns' program.

VIKINGS LOSE

FERRIDAY, La., March 2.—(Special)—The Vidalia High school Vikings lost their final game of the season to the St. Joseph Catholic High school Green Wave of Natchez, Miss., at the Vidalia High school court Thursday. The game, the second with the Natchezians won over the Concordia parish combination this season, was captured by the Greenies by a score of 18 to 10.

MILLSAPS WINNER OF DIXIE CHAMPIONSHIP

JACKSON, Miss., March 2.—(AP)—Millsaps' talented Majors completely out-classed their fighting local rivals from Mississippi college tonight to win the Dixie conference basketball championship. The score was 48-32.

The accuracy of Tynes, Ward and Jones on long shots was Millsaps' margin of superiority. The Majors jumped to an early lead, had little trouble holding it, and consequently played a smooth, relaxed game. Mississippi college made many misplays crowding to overcome the big lead.

Mercer and Howard were tournament semifinalists.

SCRAPPY SKIPPERS

The Cotton States league race this summer is going to be plenty interesting, if colorful managers means anything.

There's a select crop of newcomers that bodes no good for the opposition and the umpires. If past performances mean anything, the old circuit will fairly ooze with color.

Guy Sturdy, the old slugging first sacker, will be at El Dorado, and Guy never was a shrinking violet. Andy Reese will handle the reins at Greenville. Bud Clancy, late of Birmingham and for ten years before that, with the Chicago Cubs, will have charge of managerial affairs at Helena. Bud's another first baseman. Cecil Coombs, recently a cog in the Cat machine at Fort Worth, will assume the responsibility of producing a team for playerless Hot Springs. And "Red" Rollings, the old Red Sox shortstop, will try to rejuvenate the Pine Bluff Judges. Add "Cowboy" Jones and Doug Taitt to that setup, and you have a right aggressive corps of commanders.

Not only are those gents capable of directing a ball club but each and every one of them should be a standout as a player in the Class C Cotton States loop. As players they're a little shy of form for Class A-1 competition because they're getting up in years, but they ought to be terrors in this territory. There's going to be some pretty fair country slugging from the pilots in this circuit.

All of which will make for more interest in the league and that will keep the customers entertained, no matter where the teams stand. All eight clubs have posted their forfeits and the season will start with the same setup as finished last year. The color added by the new skippers should insure a much better season than the dismal (for some) campaign in 1939.

BLOWOUT BREWING

The Chamber of Commerce is planning a big baseball party for this week, and at this writing the announcement of plans is awaiting word from several well known figures in the game that they will or will not attend the shindig.

Delegations have visited both Jackson and Hot Springs, where baseball schools are in progress, in an effort to get some "name" athletes to attend the meeting, but as this is written late Saturday, nothing definite has been announced. We're still waiting to hear from George Holland, who has been busy all week with his sports committee attempting to line up the talent.

If present plans materialize, it's going to be an interesting party, and just the thing to start the baseball preliminaries rolling. The booster banquet will be open to the public for a nominal fee and will be well worth

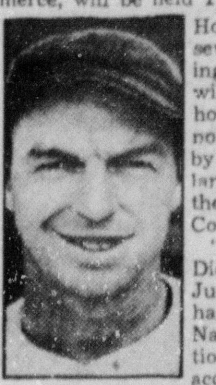
JUDGE BRAMHAM, STREET AMONG BANQUET GUESTS

Cotton States Presidents Also To Attend C. Of C. Affair

The second annual baseball banquet, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, will be held Thursday night at Hotel Frances, and several outstanding baseball figures will be guests of honor, it was announced last night by George D. Holland, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.



Dick Kerr

"Gabby" Street, Dick Kerr and Judge W. G. Bramham, head of the National Association, already have accepted invitations to attend the affair, and all Cotton States league club presidents, as well as President Emmet Harty, chief of the circuit, have advised Mr. Holland that they will attend. Other notables also are expected.

Street, who led the St. Louis Cardinals to the National league championship several seasons ago, and Kerr, pitching hero of the Chicago "Black Sox" back in 1919, are instructors in the Ray Doan baseball school at Jackson, Miss., and yesterday accepted invitations to attend the banquet. Judge Bramham is vacationing in Hot Springs and unless prevented by other engagements, will come here for the annual celebration. Manager Doug Taitt of the Monroe White Sox and Max Moses, president of the club, were in Hot Springs yesterday attempting to obtain other celebrities who are associated with the Rogers-Hornsby-George Barr school there. They are expected to return here today.

Plans for the banquet have not been completed, Mr. Holland said, but the public will be invited and a number of unique features are planned for the affair. The program will be broadcast, he said. The time of the banquet and the price to be charged per plate will be announced later, it was announced.

Street, the "Old Sarge" of baseball, is a colorful figure of the national pastime. He has long been identified with the game and is a forceful speaker. A catcher in "the old days," Street later compiled an enviable record as a manager. It was Street who caught a ball thrown by Walter Johnson, his old batterymate at Washington, from the Washington monument.

Kerr was an oustanding hurler with the Chicago White Sox more than twenty years ago. Dickie pitched his heart out as a member of the club whose players "threw" the World

'GOLDS' WIN IN INTRASQUAD TILT

Sievers Back In Action For Center As Mates Beat 'Blacks,' 21-7

The Northeast Center of L. S. U. football squad finished two weeks of spring drills yesterday afternoon with an intrasquad game which the "Golds" won, 21 to 7, from the "Black" aggregation.

Guy Sievers, quarterback for the Golds, engineered his team to victory with much of the same old fighting spirit that he showed in 1937 with the Tribe. Despite two years of inactivity because of an oil field accident, he brought his team from behind to win.

The game was a strenuous regulation 60-minute battle in which not a single substitution was made.

After an exchange of quick kicks between Gerald White of the Blacks and Sievers, the Blacks advanced 60 yards to score in the first five minutes of play. The 60-yard march was topped by a 22-yard run by "Rowboat" Wroten for the Blacks' lone touchdown. Gerald White kicked the point.

The Golds struck back in the second quarter when Sievers, at top running speed, heaved a 50-yard pass to Cecil "Pete" Cosper, an end, who raced on for the touchdown. Cosper took the pass in the open behind the safety and was in no danger of being overhauled. Will Abraham, guard, kicked the point.

On the first play of the second half Cercy Frey intercepted one of White's aerials and returned it 50 yards for a touchdown behind good blocking. Abraham again kicked the point.

An 85-yard return of one of White's punts by Jo Jo Swanger, the Atlanta, Tex., addition to the local squad, gave the Golds their final touchdown, and Abraham kicked his third point.

The score was no indication of the closeness of the battle. The Blacks made 12 first downs against eight for the winners. The Blacks were in pay-off territory twice, only to be held for downs, and a fumble lost them another scoring opportunity.

The Blacks were held for downs inside the five yard line on two occasions, once on the one-yard stripe. On another occasion Wroten got loose on a 40-yard jaunt only to fumble on the five-yard line and the Golds recovered.

Coach James L. Malone expressed himself as well pleased with the game. Both lines performed commendably and the ball handling of White and Frey was promising.

That was the margin of victory for the little man with the Charlie Chaplin walk, who forced McNeill into innumerable errors in the last set by his terrific placements off both his forehand and backhand—just when it began to look as though McNeill might win.

But this wasn't half as exciting as the women's singles in which Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, the Bostonian, defeated blonde Pauline Betz of Los Angeles in three sets, 6-4, 1-6, 7-5.

Miss Betz, the defending champion, was mowing Mrs. Fabyan down mercilessly when they took a 10 minute intermission between the second and third sets—and promptly lost four straight games. She courageously came back but the handicap was too much and Mrs. Fabyan ran the match out.

Mrs. Fabyan, like Riggs, was winning her first indoor title.

After Miss Betz came up to 5-all in games (Mrs. Fabyan once had an advantage of 5-1 in games and was at match point) the turning point of the uphill battle came. The Californian needed but one point to crack her rival's service and she had an easy overhead kill—but she almost knocked the ball out of the armory, and Mrs. Fabyan went on to win.

Norma Taubele of New York and Gracyn Wheeler of Los Angeles took the women's doubles championship by defeating Louise Raymond of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Patricia Cumming of Westfield, N. J., 7-5, 6-4.

Seabiscuit Takes Santa Anita Handicap

BECOMES BIGGEST MONEY WINNER IN RACING HISTORY

Great Horse Breaks Track Record As Stablemate Finishes Second

By Robert Myers

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—(AP)—Mighty Seabiscuit won the greatest race of a great racing career today.

Rounding out one of the most amazing chapters in the colorful annals of the American turf, he captured the sixth running of the $100,000 added Santa Anita handicap and reached the crown point of a goal of gold. He became the greatest money winner of all time, and one of the most beloved thoroughbreds in the game.

Rolling down to victory in his third crack at the top prize of this world's richest horse race, with the roar of a record crowd of 75,000 pulling him in, the 7-year-old warrior of the west outgained and outcharged his 12 rivals in a glorious performance that broke the track record.

It was a double triumph for the feared and odds-on favored combination of Charles S. Howard, for his Kayak II, winner of the 1939 Santa Anita handicap, ran second in a burst of speed that brought him in one length back of his famous stablemate.

Major Austin C. Taylor's Whichcee, pace setter in this mile and one quarter classic, ran third as the outcome seesawed back and forth in the big drive for the wire.

Victory for the mighty stake king, which came after a year's layoff and after the horse once was believed through with racing, brought $86,650 net and sent the Biscuit's all-time earnings soaring beyond the American turf record held by W. S. Kilmer's great Sun Beau. Seabiscuit's win brought his total to $437,730. Sun Beau's record was $376,744.

Jockey Basil James, aboard Whichcee, filed a complaint at Seabiscuit, charging Jockey Johnny (Red) Pollard cut in on him at the sixteenth pole. The protest was not allowed, however, and the entry of Seabiscuit and Kayak II paid off across the board at the price of $3.40, $2.80 and $2.60. Whichcee paid $3.60 to show.

The roar of the record throng swept behind Seabiscuit and his pal of the saddle as they thundered, one length back of the flying Whichcee, into the first turn and around the lightning fast track.

It was Whichcee three quarters of a length over the mighty 'Biscuit, with Wedding Call and Can't Wait pressing close behind as they entered the turn for the stretch.

The lead shifted back and forth a moment under the flying hoofs of Wedding Call, Whichcee and Seabiscuit, but suddenly the cry went up: "Seabiscuit in front."

Jockey Leon Haas, on the other color bearer, suddenly boomed into the front ranks, and it was Seabiscuit and Kayak II running one two.

Wedding Call, owned by W. C. Gaffers and J. H. Sattler, of Los Angeles, ran a surprising fourth, with Apprentice Doug Dodson in the saddle.

The betting handle for the handicap was $382,700.

Seabiscuit ran the mile and a quarter in 2:01 1-5. The track record of 2:01 2-5 was set in the big 'cap a year ago by Kayak II.

Kayak's second brought more money to the Howard stable. The San Francisco sportsman won $20,000 for second, Whichcee $10,000 for third and Wedding Call $5,000 for fourth.

Finishing back of these in order were War Plumage, fifth; Heelfly, sixth; Viscounty, seventh; Can't Wait, eighth; Specify, ninth; Royal Crusader, tenth; Don Mike, eleventh; Ra II, twelfth, and Kantan, thirteenth and last.

Hysterical, an overnight entry, was declared out of the race. He is a stablemate of George W. Stratton's Heelfly.

NEGRO PRO STARS WILL PLAY HERE

Two games of professional negro baseball are slated for Casino park here early next month, it was announced here last night, and definite dates will be announced after the release of the Cotton States league schedule.

The Kansas City Monarchs, champions of the negro American league last year, and the Homestead Grays, negro National league champs of Pittsburgh, Pa., will meet here in one of the games, it was stated.

The other engagement will be between the colorful negro comedians, the Ethiopian Clowns, and the Crawfords of Toledo, O. The Toledo team was formerly known as the Pittsburgh Crawfords, a combination that played many games here in the past years.

Jesse Owens, negro track star, will accompany the Crawfords on the trip here and appear as an exhibitionist on the Crawfords-Clowns' program.

VIKINGS LOSE

FERRIDAY, La., March 2.—(Special)—The Vidalia High school Vikings lost their final game of the season to the St. Joseph Catholic High school Green Wave of Natchez, Miss., at the Vidalia High school court Thursday. The game, the second with the Natchezians won over the Concordia parish combination this season, was captured by the Greenies by a score of 18 to 10.

MILLSAPS WINNER OF DIXIE CHAMPIONSHIP

JACKSON, Miss., March 2—(AP)—Millsaps' talented Majors completely out-classed their fighting local rivals from Mississippi college tonight to win the Dixie conference basketball championship. The score was 48-32.

The accuracy of Tynes, Ward and Jones on long shots was Millsaps' margin of superiority. The Majors jumped to an early lead, had little trouble holding it, and consequently played a smooth, relaxed game. Mississippi college made many misplays crowding to overcome the big lead.

Mercer and Howard were tournament semifinalists.

KENTUCKY TAKES SOUTHEASTERN CAGE TITLE

BEATS GEORGIA FIVE, 51 TO 43, FOR 4TH CROWN

Wildcats Achieve Victory In First-Half Offensive Burst

By Escar Thompson

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 2.—(AP)—A basket conscious band of Kentucky Wildcats roared to their second consecutive Southeastern conference basketball championship tonight by turning back a gallant Georgia team, 51 to 43, in the finals of the seventh annual event.

The victory, achieved in a first-half offensive burst that gave the Wildcats a 31-19 lead, marked the fourth title for the Bluegrass since the league was organized in 1933.

Forwards Keith Farnsley and Waller White hit a hot scoring spree to account for 10 points each before the intermission and give Kentucky a comfortable 12-point half time lead.

But the Bulldogs, who appeared flat and sluggish, came back with a ferocious rally that cut the Cats' margin to six points with five minutes to play, trailing 41-47.

Center Dan Kirkland member of the five "iron men" who had ousted Alabama, 30-28 last night to put Georgia into the finals, touched off the fuse to this offensive spree, looping in four field goals with his unorthodox one handed push shot.

The Bulldogs, seeded along with Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama, reached the finals on decisions over Auburn, 48-41, and Mississippi, 45-28, in addition to their semi-finals triumph over the Tidemen.

Kentucky, favored by a first round bye, had close calls in both its tilts, trimming Vanderbilt, 44-34, after a game that was much closer than the score indicates, and barely nudging Tennessee.

The score was knotted 27-all at the end of the regulation 'Cat-Vol game, but forward Keith Farnsley looped in a basket in the last 30 seconds to provide the winning margin for the Blue Grass boys after Tennessee's Bernie Mehen had put the Vols ahead with a long toss from the center of the court.

Team play featured the winning march of both finalists; however, the defensive performances turned in by Guard Alec McCaskill of Georgia and Guard Layton Rouse of Kentucky have been sensational. Both also have contributed heavily to the offensive burdens of their teams, McCaskill garnering seven points against Alabama and Rouse six against Tennessee.

BENGAL BOXERS WIN SOUTHEAST BOXING CROWN

L. S. U. Takes Five Individual Titles; Daniel Wins For Third Time

BATON ROUGE, La., March 2.—(AP)—Handsome Heston Daniel, Louisiana State University's brilliant junior middleweight, won his third straight Southeastern Conference boxing championship tonight as L. S. U. swept all but three of the eight individual titles. A crowd of more than 5,000 saw the bouts.

Fighting in the last tournament to be sponsored by the conference, Daniel became the second man in history to win three straight conference crowns by winning an easy decision over Dan Miller, of Georgia, J. L. Golsan, of Louisiana State, was the first to win three in a row.

In addition to Daniel's 155 pound title, Louisiana State won championships in the bantamweight, welterweight, middleweight and heavyweight division. Florida's 'Gators won the featherweight and lightweight titles and Tulane took the light-heavyweight crown.

Louisiana State, which cinched the team title in the semi-finals Friday night, scored a total of 28 points to 10 for Florida, which finished second in the team race. Tulane was third with eight points. Alabama and Georgia tied for fourth with six points each and Ole Miss and Mississippi State trailed with three points apiece.

L. S. U.'s Al Michael, rated as one of the cleverest little boxers ever to step into a college ring, won his second straight bantamweight title with a strong third round that gave him a

Parker And McGee Renew Old Mat Battle Tuesday

Will Meet On Card Also Featuring Bout Between Mobley And Keene

Allen Parker and Irish McGee renew an old feud at the Monroe Wrestling arena Tuesday night, meeting in one of two main-event bouts on a card that also will feature a match between Rex Mobley and Charlie Keene.

In announcing completion of the card last night, Promoter Gus Kallio said that the bouts would have a bearing on the title elimination contest under way at the arena, with Keene and Mobley getting a chance to knock each other out of competition and Parker, already eliminated, striving to put McGee in the also-ran ranks.

The personal feud between McGee and Parker, however, is expected to eclipse any interest the pair might have in getting a shot at Promoter Kallio's title of junior light-heavy mat champ of the United States through the elimination series. The boys are all even on the wrestling side of their war, each having taken one bout, and can be expected to let loose with everything Tuesday.

McGee has a little of the edge in all meetings with Parker, having taken a boxing bout billed as a "rubber" match between the pair. Parker, however, considers the boxing loss to McGee as having settled nothing and the hope of going one up on his foe in wrestling and at the same time knocking McGee out of the title picture should spur him on. The Tennessean, too, faces the task of erasing the stigma of his only win on the mat against McGee, a decision rendered in his favor while the tough little Tennessean was flat on his back—but legally in possession of the ring—while McGee was well and able but—unfortunately for him—outside the ring.

Under the rules, the referee had to give Parker the fall and the match, but McGee's supporters weren't satisfied the winner was the better wrestler.

Mobley and Keene, each with one loss in the title series, with records about even. A slight edge goes to Mobley, who has fought one more match here than Keene, drawing with Jack Curtis in this encounter. Wins, however, are even. Mobley has beaten Bo Castle twice while Keene, who has a stormy record here, has defeated McGee and Balderoma.

Keene lost his only match here to Castle on a disqualification, but Mobley can match that with a lone loss to Cyclone Burns, which cannot be considered much of a blot on his record in view of the fact that Burns has six wins and a draw in competition in Monroe.

Both bouts will be for the best two out of three falls with a one-hour time limit and will be held under the National Wrestling association rules governing the title series bouts.

As an added attraction, Cecil and Milton Martin, brothers from Columbia, will put on a sparring exhibition.

Admission will be 40 cents, with school students being admitted for 25 cents. The program will get under way at 8:15 o'clock at the arena, 506 Walnut street.

MANY STINGS IN WIN AT HIALEAH

Favorite Turns On Speed To Take Widener Challenge Cup Race

MIAMI, March 2.—(AP)—Stout-hearted as his supporters thought he was, Many Stings came up with a burning turn of speed in the final run to the wire at Hialeah Park today to win the colorful Widener challenge cup race by a half length from a field of 13 other stake horses.

Far behind the flying leader, Maxwell Howard's The Chief, when the big cavalcade hit the final bend, Many Stings, the favorite, flashed ahead as they went into the closing run and held it stubbornly against the challenge of Big Pebble, which finished four lengths ahead of Supreme Sir and Day Off, dead-heated for third.

A crowd of 16,093 paid to watch the fifth running of Florida's greatest horse race in fine, sunny weather, and bet a record $149,339 through the mutuel machines. Many Stings repaid $9.10 on each $2 winning ticket, and won $52,000 for his owner, Leo J. Marks, of Columbus, O.

For several minutes after the race the result board was splattered with red lights, denoting a claim of foul, and the backers of Many Stings were held in suspense. But in the end they collected and the favorite was led into the winner's circle. Owner Marks heard the result from his hotel in the city, too ill to visit the track.

Many Stings bore wide as he went around the field entering the stretch, and continued to steer wide as they came down toward the wire. Big Pebble, outstanding surprise of the race, first tried to go past the leader on the outside but found his way partially blocked. Only a furlong from home his rider, George Seabo, suddenly cut across behind Many Stings and then tried it from that side, but it was too late.

The objection was based on the claim that Ruperto Donoso, little Chilean rider atop Many Stings, had deliberately borne out to hold off Big Pebble, but the officials wouldn't agree. Donoso said he knew he could win all the way, and that he never was worried by The Chief's early pace.

LION NETTERS TO SEE ACTION

Ouachita Tennis Team Will Open Season Against Bolton Saturday

The tennis team of Ouachita Parish High School, which has been drilling for the past week, goes into action here next Saturday against the Bolton High School netters of Alexandria, it was announced last night by Coach George Riser.

The Lions are expected to have a good boys' combination this year and a fair girls' team is expected. Coach Riser has every mebmer of his boys' division back from last year and all girls except his No. 1 and No. 2 performers.

Mary Lavinia Lnabnet and Carolyn Royce, the doubles combination that placed third in the state last year, is missing. Miss Inabnet was the No. 1 singles performer also last spring, placing second in the Ruston rally, and there will be plenty of competition for her place on the team.

Nelson Abell and Hugh Hackley, top ranking boys at Ouachita, will seek additional laurels this season. Abell was runnerup for the state singles crown last spring, finishing second to Earl Bartlett, the Fortier ace of New Orleans. Abell and Hackley were also in the state doubles final but lost to the strong Fortier combination that went on to win the southern championship.

Hackley and Abell won the north Louisiana doubles title at Ruston and Abell was runnerup for the singles championship.

Seeking the top spots in the girls' division are Charlotte Padgett, Nell Rainbolt, Nan Drew, Opal Cummings, and Helen Wink.

In addition to Abell and Hackley, Coach Riser also has Robert Woods, Wharton Brown, Ragan DeFreese, Oron Dowdey and George Dent. Bill McDowell, No. 3 last year, is expected to join the squad this week.

In addition to the matches next Saturday with Bolton on the Northeast Center of L. S. U. courts, Coach Riser announced several other dates for his aggregation.

A meet with Fair Park in Shreveport is pending for March 17. Waterproof will be here March 16, and a Homer date is pending for March 23. Fair Park is expected here for a return engagement, provided they get together the first time, on March 29.

On March 30 Coach Riser will enter his charges in the annual Northeast Center of L. S. U. tournament. They will participate in the north Louisiana rally at Ruston on April 5 and 6 and also in the state tourney at Baton Rouge on May 3 and 4. Efforts are being made to schedule several other dual meets to splice in between the various tournaments.

All-Star Nines For Finnish Relief Game Are Named

YANKEES PLACE EIGHT MEN ON AMERICAN TEAM

Seven Junior League And Two National Loop Men Unanimous Picks

TAMPA, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—As one might expect, those bombarding Yankees from the Bronx dominate the scene in the spring's All-Star baseball classic to be played here on St. Patrick's day for the benefit of the Finnish relief fund.

Selected in a poll of baseball writers covering the major league clubs now training in Florida, the American league entry will go to the post with a squad of 25, eight of them Yankees. Of the remainder, the Boston Red Sox contributed five and Washington, Detroit and Boston four each.

Except for first base and one outfield spot, Manager Joe McCarthy of the Americans could use his World's Series starting lineup with either Gomez or Ruffing in the box. Only Dahlgren and Selkirk are missing. At first base he has a choice of either Foxx of the Red Sox or Trosky of the Cleveland Indians and in the outfield he could arrange a brother act with Joe and Dominic DiMaggio, the latter of Boston.

The pennant winning Cincinnati Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals, each contributed six big names to the National league All Stars, to be directed by Bill McKechnie. The Giants and Dodgers each added four, the Phillies three and the Boston Bees two.

The squads were chosen by 46 writers. Seven American league players and two from the National league were unanimous choices. In the junior circuit they were Fellow (Cleveland); Leonard (Washington); Foxx and Williams (Boston); DiMaggio, Gordon and Dickey (New York). The National league acclamations were Joe Medwick (St. Louis) and Morrie Arnovich (Philadelphia).

Other players selected are:

BEAGLE CLUB WILL HOLD TRIALS HERE

The Southern Beagle club will hold its annual American Kennel club sanction trials in the Monroe area March 16 and 17 according to information received here by W. E. Lawson, local beagle fancier, from Dr. Rene Caillett of Dallas, Tex., secretary of the organization.

Monroe will be headquarters for the field trials, it was stated, and the races will be run in this vicinity.

Dr. Caillett informed Lawson that between 25 and 30 hounds would be brought here from the Dallas area. Dr. Robbin Harris, Jackson, Miss., one of Mississippi's best known beagle enthusiasts, is also planning to enter hounds in the meet.

Several Louisiana beagle owners are expected to enter their dogs in the events. Any beagle owner can enter his dog in the meet provided the hound is registered, it was stated.

TECH GRIDDERS MAKE PROGRESS

Coaches 'Beginning To Become Impressed' With Spring Drills

RUSTON, La., March 2.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's football coaches say they are "beginning to become impressed" with the progress of the 40 varsity Bulldog candidates who have been in spring practice for several days.

During the past week, scrimmages of from 30 to 45 minutes were held each afternoon.

"The blocking has become more effective and although ground-gaining is still less than we are asking for, we are pretty well pleased with the showing of the squad in general," Head Coach Joe Aillet said.

There have been no major changes in previous playing positions of the Techmen. Coach Aillet added James Zoeller, who played halfback last year, has been shifted to fullback with satisfactory results, but the rest of the varsity men are filling their usual jobs.

Since the close of the basketball season, the football aspirants have been joined by John Laughlin, end, Tim Tyler, end; Ora Merritt, quarterback, and Zoeller.

Two of last fall's sophomores who have been ill with influenza, also have returned for drills with the gridders. They are James Barnett, halfback, and Bill Ferguson, end.

NEVILLE BOXERS FACE BULLDOGS HERE THURSDAY

Baton Rouge Mittmen Out To Shatter Locals' Undefeated Record

The Baton Rouge High school Bulldogs will attempt to shatter the record of the undefeated Neville High school boxing team here Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the Neville arena.

The Tigers, undefeated in their last 19 dual meets, are striving to complete the season without a blemish, other than a few ties on their record, and several outstanding battles are expected.

The present Neville record rivals that of two years ago when they totaled 11 consecutive victories without a defeat or tie. The present victory march includes five ties.

Several of those tie meets, however, were not representative of the Neville strength as only their less experienced boys were matched. Such was the case Thursday night at Mansfield when the Wolverines tied Coach Percy Brown's charges on a six bout card, 3 and 3. Neville had previously beaten Mansfield on an 11-bout program this year 9 to 2.

The meet with Baton Rouge will be Neville's last until after the district championship tournament which will be held here within two weeks, March 15 and 16.

Among outstanding bouts on the Thursday card will probably be the 165-pound engagement between Louis Lafart, Neville, and Ike Thompson. The Bulldog was runnerup for the state 165-pound crown last year, but he had plenty of trouble winning the decision over Lafart at Baton Rouge nearly two months ago.

The Buck Brantley-Lloyd Rockhold scrap in the 135-pound class should also be good. Rockhold, Baton Rouge ace, has been chalking up victory after victory since losing to Brantley earlier in the season and will be out to avenge his defeat. Brantley failed to look very impressive in beating Burton LaHaye, Lafayette, here last Tuesday, and may have more trouble than he expects from Rockhold.

Guy Miller, Neville, and Bolea Monsour, tough Baton Rouge 118-pounder, will take up where they left off in their previous engagement. After a tough three rounds, their battle at Baton Rouge was judged a draw. They will be out to settle their feud, one way or another.

SEEKS QUALITY IN QUANTITY OF TECH HOPEFULS

Coach Hogg Has 27 Candidates Out For Bulldog Baseball Nine

RUSTON, La., March 2.—(Special)—There's quantity in what Louisiana Tech has for baseball prospects but the matter of quality is still a question for Coach George (Hiker) Hogg, after a few workouts by the [illegible].

The roster includes 27 candidates, four of whom are freshman pitchers.

Fighting in the last tournament to be sponsored by the conference, Daniel became the second man in history to win three straight conference crowns by winning an easy decision over Dan Miller, of Georgia, J. L. Golsan, of Louisiana State, was the first to win three in a row.

In addition to Daniel's 155 pound title, Louisiana State won championships in the bantamweight, welterweight, middleweight and heavyweight division. Florida's 'Gators won the featherweight and lightweight titles and Tulane took the light-heavyweight crown.

Louisiana State, which cinched the team title in the semi-finals Friday night, scored a total of 28 points to 10 for Florida, which finished second in the team race. Tulane was third with eight points. Alabama and Georgia tied for fourth with six points each and Ole Miss and Mississippi State trailed with three points apiece.

Parker And McGee Renew Old Mat Battle Tuesday

Will Meet On Card Also Featuring Bout Between Mobley And Keene

Allen Parker and Irish McGee renew an old feud at the Monroe Wrestling arena Tuesday night, meeting in one of two main-event bouts on a card that also will feature a match between Rex Mobley and Charlie Keene.

In announcing completion of the card last night, Promoter Gus Kallio said that the bouts would have a bearing on the title elimination contest under way at the arena, with Keene and Mobley getting a chance to knock each other out of competition and Parker, already eliminated, striving to put McGee in the also-ran ranks.

The personal feud between McGee and Parker, however, is expected to eclipse any interest the pair might have in getting a shot at Promoter Kallio's title of junior light-heavy mat champ of the United States through the elimination series. The boys are all even on the wrestling side of their war, each having taken one bout, and can be expected to let loose with everything Tuesday.

McGee has a little of the edge in all meetings with Parker, having taken a boxing bout billed as a "rubber" match between the pair. Parker, however, considers the boxing loss to McGee as having settled nothing and the hope of going one up on his foe in wrestling and at the same time knocking McGee out of the title picture should spur him on. The Tennessean, too, faces the task of erasing the stigma of his only win on the mat against McGee, a decision rendered in his favor while the tough little Tennessean was flat on his back—but legally in possession of the ring—while McGee was well and able but—unfortunately for him—outside the ring.

Under the rules, the referee had to give Parker the fall and the match, but McGee's supporters weren't satisfied the winner was the better wrestler.

Mobley and Keene, each with one loss in the title series, with records about even. A slight edge goes to Mobley, who has fought one more match here than Keene, drawing with Jack Curtis in this encounter. Wins, however, are even. Mobley has beaten Bo Castle twice while Keene, who has a stormy record here, has defeated McGee and Balderoma.

Keene lost his only match here to Castle on a disqualification, but Mobley can match that with a lone loss to Cyclone Burns, which cannot be considered much of a blot on his record in view of the fact that Burns has six wins and a draw in competition in Monroe.

Both bouts will be for the best two out of three falls with a one-hour time limit and will be held under the National Wrestling association rules governing the title series bouts.

As an added attraction, Cecil and Milton Martin, brothers from Columbia, will put on a sparring exhibition.

Admission will be 40 cents, with school students being admitted for 25 cents. The program will get under way at 8:15 o'clock at the arena, 506 Walnut street.

MANY STINGS IN WIN AT HIALEAH

Favorite Turns On Speed To Take Widener Challenge Cup Race

MIAMI, March 2.—(AP)—Stout-hearted as his supporters thought he was, Many Stings came up with a burning turn of speed in the final run to the wire at Hialeah Park today to win the colorful Widener challenge cup race by a half length from a field of 13 other stake horses.

Far behind the flying leader, Maxwell Howard's The Chief, when the big cavalcade hit the final bend, Many Stings, the favorite, flashed ahead as they went into the closing run and held it stubbornly against the challenge of Big Pebble, which finished four lengths ahead of Supreme Sir and Day Off, dead-heated for third.

A crowd of 16,093 paid to watch the fifth running of Florida's greatest horse race in fine, sunny weather, and bet a record $149,339 through the mutuel machines. Many Stings repaid $9.10 on each $2 winning ticket, and won $52,000 for his owner, Leo J. Marks, of Columbus, O.

For several minutes after the race the result board was splattered with red lights, denoting a claim of foul, and the backers of Many Stings were held in suspense. But in the end they collected and the favorite was led into the winner's circle. Owner Marks heard the result from his hotel in the city, too ill to visit the track.

Many Stings bore wide as he went around the field entering the stretch, and continued to steer wide as they came down toward the wire. Big Pebble, outstanding surprise of the race, first tried to go past the leader on the outside but found his way partially blocked. Only a furlong from home his rider, George Seabo, suddenly cut across behind Many Stings and then tried it from that side, but it was too late.

The objection was based on the claim that Ruperto Donoso, little Chilean rider atop Many Stings, had deliberately borne out to hold off Big Pebble, but the officials wouldn't agree. Donoso said he knew he could win all the way, and that he never was worried by The Chief's early pace.

LION NETTERS TO SEE ACTION

Ouachita Tennis Team Will Open Season Against Bolton Saturday

The tennis team of Ouachita Parish High School, which has been drilling for the past week, goes into action here next Saturday against the Bolton High School netters of Alexandria, it was announced last night by Coach George Riser.

The Lions are expected to have a good boys' combination this year and a fair girls' team is expected. Coach Riser has every mebmer of his boys' division back from last year and all girls except his No. 1 and No. 2 performers.

Mary Lavinia Lnabnet and Carolyn Royce, the doubles combination that placed third in the state last year, is missing. Miss Inabnet was the No. 1 singles performer also last spring, placing second in the Ruston rally, and there will be plenty of competition for her place on the team.

Nelson Abell and Hugh Hackley, top ranking boys at Ouachita, will seek additional laurels this season. Abell was runnerup for the state singles crown last spring, finishing second to Earl Bartlett, the Fortier ace of New Orleans. Abell and Hackley were also in the state doubles final but lost to the strong Fortier combination that went on to win the southern championship.

Hackley and Abell won the north Louisiana doubles title at Ruston and Abell was runnerup for the singles championship.

Seeking the top spots in the girls' division are Charlotte Padgett, Nell Rainbolt, Nan Drew, Opal Cummings, and Helen Wink.

In addition to Abell and Hackley, Coach Riser also has Robert Woods, Wharton Brown, Ragan DeFreese, Oron Dowdey and George Dent. Bill McDowell, No. 3 last year, is expected to join the squad this week.

In addition to the matches next Saturday with Bolton on the Northeast Center of L. S. U. courts, Coach Riser announced several other dates for his aggregation.

A meet with Fair Park in Shreveport is pending for March 1?. Waterproof will be here March 16, and a Homer date is pending for March 23. Fair Park is expected here for a return engagement, provided they get together the first time, on March 29.

On March 30 Coach Riser will enter his charges in the annual Northeast Center of L. S. U. tournament. They will participate in the north Louisiana rally at Ruston on April 5 and 6 and also in the state tourney at Baton Rouge on May 3 and 4. Efforts are being made to schedule several other dual meets to splice in between the various tournaments.

All-Star Nines For Finnish Relief Game Are Named

YANKEES PLACE EIGHT MEN ON AMERICAN TEAM

Seven Junior League And Two National Loop Men Unanimous Picks

TAMPA, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—As one might expect, those bombarding Yankees from the Bronx dominate the scene in the spring's All-Star baseball classic to be played here on St. Patrick's day for the benefit of the Finnish relief fund.

Selected in a poll of baseball writers covering the major league clubs now training in Florida, the American league entry will go to the post with a squad of 25, eight of them Yankees. Of the remainder, the Boston Red Sox contributed five and Washington, Detroit and Boston four each.

Except for first base and one outfield spot, Manager Joe McCarthy of the Americans could use his World's Series starting lineup with either Gomez or Ruffing in the box. Only Dahlgren and Selkirk are missing. At first base he has a choice of either Foxx of the Red Sox or Trosky of the Cleveland Indians and in the outfield he could arrange a brother act with Joe and Dominic DiMaggio, the latter of Boston.

The pennant winning Cincinnati Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals, each contributed six big names to the National league All Stars, to be directed by Bill McKechnie. The Giants and Dodgers each added four, the Phillies three and the Boston Bees two.

The squads were chosen by 46 writers. Seven American league players and two from the National league were unanimous choices. In the junior circuit they were Fellow (Cleveland); Leonard (Washington); Foxx and Williams (Boston); DiMaggio, Gordon and Dickey (New York). The National league acclamations were Joe Medwick (St. Louis) and Morrie Arnovich (Philadelphia).

Other players selected are:

BEAGLE CLUB WILL HOLD TRIALS HERE

The Southern Beagle club will hold its annual American Kennel club sanction trials in the Monroe area March 16 and 17, according to information received here by W. E. Lawson, local beagle fancier, from Dr. Rene Caillett of Dallas, Tex., secretary of the organization.

Monroe will be headquarters for the field trials, it was stated, and the races will be run in this vicinity.

Dr. Caillett informed Lawson that between 25 and 30 hounds would be brought here from the Dallas area. Dr. Robbin Harris, Jackson, Miss., one of Mississippi's best known beagle enthusiasts, is also planning to enter hounds in the meet.

Several Louisiana beagle owners are expected to enter their dogs in the events. Any beagle owner can enter his dog in the meet provided the hound is registered, it was stated.

TECH GRIDDERS MAKE PROGRESS

Coaches 'Beginning To Become Impressed' With Spring Drills

RUSTON, La., March 2.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's football coaches say they are "beginning to become impressed" with the progress of the 40 varsity Bulldog candidates, who have been in spring practice for several days.

During the past week, scrimmages of from 30 to 43 minutes were held each afternoon.

"The blocking has become more effective and although ground-gaining is still less than we are asking for, we are pretty well pleased with the showing of the squad in general," Head Coach Joe Aillet said.

There have been no major changes in previous playing positions of the Techmen, Coach Aillet added. James Zoeller, who played halfback last year, has been shifted to fullback with satisfactory results, but the rest of the varsity men are filling their usual jobs.

Since the close of the basketball season, the football aspirants have been joined by John Laughlin, end; Tim Tyler, end; Ora Merriott, quarterback, and Zoeller.

Two of last fall's sophomores who have been ill with influenza, also have returned for drills with the gridders. They are James Barnett, halfback, and Bill Ferguson, end.

NEVILLE BOXERS FACE BULLDOGS HERE THURSDAY

Baton Rouge Mittmen Out To Shatter Locals' Undefeated Record

The Baton Rouge High school Bulldogs will attempt to shatter the record of the undefeated Neville High school boxing team here Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the Neville arena.

The Tigers, undefeated in their last 19 dual meets, are striving to complete the season without a blemish, other than a few ties, on their record, and several outstanding battles are expected.

The present Neville record rivals that of two years ago when they totaled 18 consecutive victories without a defeat or tie. The present victory march includes five ties.

Several of those tie meets, however, were not representative of the Neville strength as only their less experienced boys were matched. Such was the case Thursday night at Mansfield when the Wolverines tied Coach Percy Brown's charges on a six-bout card, 3 and 3. Neville had previously beaten Mansfield on an 11-bout program this year, 9 to 2.

The meet with Baton Rouge will be Neville's last until after the district championship tournament which will be held here within two weeks, March 15 and 16.

Among outstanding bouts on the Thursday card will probably be the 165-pound engagement between Louis Ladart, Neville, and Ivy Thompson. The Bulldog was runnerup for the state 165-pound crown last year, but he had plenty of trouble winning the decision over Ladart at Baton Rouge nearly two months ago.

The Buck Brantley-Lloyd Rockhold scrap in the 126-pound class should also be good. Rockhold, Baton Rouge ace, has been chalking up victory after victory since losing to Brantley earlier in the season and will be out to avenge his defeat. Brantley failed to look very impressive in beating Burton LaHaye, Lafayette, here last Tuesday, and may have more trouble than he expects from Rockhold.

Guy Miller, Neville, and Boles Monsour, tough Baton Rouge 118-pounder, will take up where they left off in their previous engagement. After a rough three rounds, their battle at Baton Rouge was judged a draw. They will be out to settle their feud, one way or another.

SEEKS QUALITY IN QUANTITY OF TECH HOPEFULS

Coach Hogg Has 27 Candidates Out For Bulldog Baseball Nine

RUSTON, La., March 2.—(Special)—There's quantity in what Louisiana Tech has for baseball prospects but the matter of quality is still a question for Coach George (Blue) Hogg, after several days of workouts by the diamondmen.

The roster includes 27 candidates, four of whom are freshman pitchers.

Athletic Director Joe Aillet has completed a schedule of 21 games, 13 of which will be played here on the college's new diamond. The card is as follows:

The baseball candidates as announced by Coach Hogg are as follows:

Tom Henderson, Haynesville, pitcher; Othel Payne, Hilly, third base; Ray Miller, Taylor, pitcher; Fred Michael, Homer, outfield; Pat Meeks, Rayville, catcher and outfielder; Ruel Colvin, Dubach, (freshman) pitcher; Ronald Shelby, Simsboro, pitcher; Earle Baker, Birmingham, Ala., pitcher; Arthur Thigpen, Ruston, first base; LeRoy Hewett, Mer Rouge, (freshman) pitcher.

clear cut decision over George Wallace, of Alabama.

Two defending champions lost their crowns. H. H. Graham, of Florida, featherweight titlist as a sophomore in 1938, reannexed his old title by a rally in the third round to dethrone Bart Miro, of Alabama.

John Joca, of Florida, took Henry "Punchy" Davis' crown from him in a close decision. The Mississippi State star and Joca put up a great battle for the big crowd.

Snyder Parham, Louisiana State's veteran welterweight, staved off a third round rally by Bob McArthur of Ole Miss to win the 145 pound title easily. Rodney Belaire, middleweight, won the Tigers their fourth straight title by decisioning Joe Woodruff of Georgia. Belaire was the master all the way.

Cy Hickey, of Tulane, stopped the Tigers' streak by decisioning Gus Elfer in the light-heavyweight division. Hickey was the aggressor but Elfer scored repeatedly only to lose a close decision.

Herbert (Peg) Kendrick, the Bayou Bengals' hard hitting sophomore, scored the only technical knockout of the night to win over Warren Jaubert of Tulane. The referee stopped the fight in the third round after Kendrick had won the fight all the way.

TWO FORMER SOX GO UP

Two mainstays of the 1938-39 Monroe club left here last week for trials with clubs of higher classification. Johnny Conway, who wintered here, left early in the week for Tampa, where he will train with the Cincinnati Reds before reporting to Birmingham, and Hank Taylor came up from New Orleans to spend a few days here before leaving for Fort Worth, where he will report Monday in an effort to land a catching berth with the Panthers.

Taylor, as usual, gave his hearers a laugh. Frank Kennedy reports that Taylor was the center of a gathering in a downtown emporium. Somebody asked Hank who he voted for.

"I voted for Landis and Lincoln," was the Tayloresque comeback. "They freed the slaves."

Taylor is given a good chance to cop the second string receiving assignment with the Cats, while the Reds, who own the Birmingham club, thought enough of Conway to invite him to train with the parent club, an honor not wasted on players who aren't expected to go any place in particular.

The Reds sent Johnny a brand new jacket with a note attached. It read: "When you make the Cincinnati club we'll send you the 'C' to go on this jacket."

And Johnny says it won't be long.

Western Teachers Defeat Normal For S. I. A. A. Cage Crown

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., March 2—(AP)—The Western Kentucky Teachers rolled to their fourth successive Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament title tonight by upsetting the favored Louisiana Normal Demons, 39 to 33.

The triumph marked another clean sweep of basketball championships for Coach Ed Diddle's Hilltoppers. A week ago they scored their ninth straight conquest in the annual Kentucky Intercollegiate conference tournament at Richmond.

Although still limping because of a foot injury suffered in the K. I. C. tournament, Carlyle Towery, Western's brilliant center, led the 'Toppers both offensively and defensively.

He piled up a total of 17 points and held "Jumbo Josh" Briley, six-foot nine-inch Louisiana Normal pivot man, to six points.

Western was off to an early lead but the sharp-shooting Demons whittled the margin in the final minutes of the first half and went ahead, 23 to 21, at the half-time intermission. At one point in the first half, Western held a 20-11 advantage.

With five minutes of the game left, Western was ahead, 32 to 28, and increased the margin to 36-31 with two minutes to go.

Satisfied with their lead, the Hilltoppers employed a delayed offense for the rest of the contest.

An all-tournament team selected by coaches and officials comprises Herb Ball and Howard Downing of Western, C. L. Starnes and Tandy Jackson of Louisiana Normal, Bill Carneal and Walter Murray of Murray and Thermon Blackledge and Luther Marlar of Delta (Miss.) State.

Both semifinal games were close.

Western, tournament champions for the past three years, was pushed to the limit in beating its arch-rival, Murray (Ky.) Teachers' college, 25 to 23. Louisiana Normal turned back a spirited Delta (Miss.) Teachers' college team, 41 to 37.

Refined remained quiet with eastern firms reporting small business at 4.50 cents.

CATERPILLARS FARMED OUT

In India, silkworm caterpillars are farmed out by their owners to be fed. When they transform themselves into silk-covered cocoons, they are returned and weighed, and the feeder is paid according to the weight of his offering.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, March 2—(AP)—Buyers renewed their interest in aviation stocks today and the resulting lift, joined by a few other issues, steadied the stock market.

Trends were irregular as the close approached, but an early downward tendency seemed to be definitely halted. Transfers were about 300,000 shares.

Bonds moved forward a bit. Stocks at Amsterdam, only foreign market operating, were lower.

One of the financial district's leading commentators asserted the February banking figures showed "that despite the vast reservoirs of credit existing in our banking structure actually the use of credit and currency is at an extremely low level."

Continuing, he said: "Both in 1929 and in 1937 this sort of relationship proved a forerunner of future industrial stagnation. On each of these occasions the market enjoyed a substantial rally thereafter, but later experienced a sharp decline."

From the commodities angle, the market situation was viewed as depending to a large degree on war orders. Metals, cocoa and sugar were regarded by many authorities as likely to receive even more active attention than in the recent past.

Some sources professed to see an overstock of gasoline in the United States, a few estimating 20,000,000 barrels more in storage than the industry requires. Again possible war orders were the unknown denominator in the economic equation.

FARMERS TAKE RING TOURNEY WITH 32 POINTS

Barely Beat Neville Second Team For First Win In Five Years

FARMERVILLE, La., March 2.—(Special)—The Farmerville High school Farmers won their annual invitational boxing tournament here tonight for the first time since 1935 by nosing out the Neville High school second team, which had been sent here to defend the title won by the Bengal regulars for the past four years.

Farmerville totalled 32 points, and Neville trailed only five points with a score of 27. Farmerville also won the lightweight division trophy with 15 points. Bossier City was runnerup in the lightweight division with 12 points.

Neville won the heavyweight division trophy with 17 points with Farmerville following close behind with 16 points.

Jimmie Brantley, Neville 90-pounder, won the sportsmanship award, becoming the first Neville battler ever to win the coveted trophy.

Results of the fights were:

90 pounds: Brantley, Neville, beat J. Lee, Farmerville. Consolation, McKenzie, Bossier City, beat Wicks, Neville.

98 pounds: Simpson, Farmerville, defeated Rhodes, Bossier City. Consolation, Kennedy, Farmerville, beat Bond, Bossier City.

clear cut decision over George Wallace, of Alabama.

Two defending champions lost their crowns. H. H. Graham, of Florida, featherweight titlist as a sophomore in 1938, reannexed his old title by a rally in the third round to dethrone Bart Miro, of Alabama.

John Joca, of Florida, took Henry "Punchy" Davis' crown from him in a close decision. The Mississippi State star and Joca put up a great battle for the big crowd.

Snyder Parham, Louisiana State's veteran welterweight, staved off a third round rally by Bob McArthur of Ole Miss to win the 145 pound title easily. Rodney Belaire, middleweight, won the Tigers their fourth straight title by decisioning Joe Woodruff of Georgia. Belaire was the master all the way.

Cy Hickey, of Tulane, stopped the Tigers' streak by decisioning Gus Elfer in the light-heavyweight division. Hickey was the aggressor but Elfer scored repeatedly only to lose a close decision.

Herbert (Peg) Kendrick, the Bayou Bengals' hard hitting sophomore, scored the only technical knockout of the night to win over Warren Jaubert of Tulane. The referee stopped the fight in the third round after Kendrick had won the fight all the way.

TWO FORMER SOX GO UP

Two mainstays of the 1938-39 Monroe club left here last week for trials with clubs of higher classification. Johnny Conway, who wintered here, left early in the week for Tampa, where he will train with the Cincinnati Reds before reporting to Birmingham, and Hank Taylor came up from New Orleans to spend a few days here before leaving for Fort Worth, where he will report Monday in an effort to land a catching berth with the Panthers.

Taylor, as usual, gave his hearers a laugh. Frank Kennedy reports that Taylor was the center of a gathering in a downtown emporium. Somebody asked Hank who he voted for.

"I voted for Landis and Lincoln," was the Tayloresque comeback. "They freed the slaves."

Taylor is given a good chance to cop the second string receiving assignment with the Cats, while the Reds, who own the Birmingham club, thought enough of Conway to invite him to train with the parent club, an honor not wasted on players who aren't expected to go any place in particular.

The Reds sent Johnny a brand new jacket with a note attached. It read: "When you make the Cincinnati club we'll send you the 'C' to go on this jacket."

And Johnny says it won't be long.

Western Teachers Defeat Normal For S. I. A. A. Cage Crown

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., March 2.—(AP)—The Western Kentucky Teachers rolled to their fourth successive Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament title tonight by upsetting the favored Louisiana Normal Demons, 39 to 33.

The triumph marked another clean sweep of basketball championships for Coach Ed Diddle's Hilltoppers. A week ago they scored their ninth straight conquest in the annual Kentucky Intercollegiate conference tournament at Richmond.

Although still limping because of a foot injury suffered in the K. I. C. tournament, Carlyle Towery, Western's brilliant center, led the 'Toppers both offensively and defensively.

He piled up a total of 17 points and held "Jumbo Josh" Briley, six-foot nine-inch Louisiana Normal pivot man, to six points.

Western was off to an early lead but the sharp-shooting Demons whittled the margin in the final minutes of the first half and went ahead, 23 to 21, at the half-time intermission. At one point in the first half, Western held a 20-11 advantage.

With five minutes of the game left, Western was ahead, 32 to 28, and increased the margin to 36-31 with two minutes to go.

Satisfied with their lead, the Hilltoppers employed a delayed offense for the rest of the contest.

An all-tournament team selected by coaches and officials comprises Herb Ball and Howard Downing of Western, C. L. Starnes and Tandy Jackson of Louisiana Normal, Bill Carneal and Walter Murray of Murray and Thernion Blackledge and Luther Marlar of Delta (Miss.) State.

Both semifinal games were close.

Western, tournament champions for the past three years, was pushed to the limit in beating its arch-rival, Murray (Ky.) Teachers' college, 25 to 23. Louisiana Normal turned back a spirited Delta (Miss.) Teachers' college team, 41 to 37.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP)—You should have seen Colonel John Reed Kilpatrick (president of Madison Square Garden) personally giving two gamblers the bum's rush from the hockey game Thursday night. . . . Here's old Jim Londos starting another farewell tour. . . . And what's this about that nice young fellow, Al Davis, balking at meeting Henry Armstrong? . . . The Maemere farm stable horses will resume running after the funeral tomorrow of DeWitt Page, the late owner. (But they'll run under a different name for a time.) . . . Ernie Lombardi is answering the Florida hecklers by bouncing line drives off the palings right back in the hecklers' kissers, almost.

Hazing Dept.:

The Yanks just can't resist taking digs at the National league. . . . When Lefty Grissom reported at St. Pete, Gomez said: "Be nice and quiet now, bimple head . . . remember this is your first year in the major leagues."

Jack Kearns, who'll be through in Detroit after the Pastor-Burman bout (if it goes on), is considering an offer to move into St. Louis. . . . The national indoor tennis championships which have taken lickings at the gate for years, will cut prices next season. . . . Sixty football prospects turned out to greet Jess Neely at Rice and most of 'em were so big they had to stoop to get in the door. . . . Andy K., one of the best of the three-year-olds, is galloping like nobody's business at Belmont Park these early mornings. . . . Ho hum, it took Charlie Retzlaff, the old heavyweight, four heats to stop a wrestler the other night.

Today's guest star:

Henry Vance, Birmingham Age-Herald: "Elaine Barrymore has asked waivers on John three times. . . . And each time he was waived out of the league she has reclaimed him."

New York

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP)—Bombay selling and commission house liquidation, induced by weakness in the Bombay market, extended by 8 to 9 points recent declines in cotton futures today.

Although a fair trade demand followed improved textile sales, pressure of March liquidation and hedging found buying insufficient to rally prices.

CATERPILLARS FARMED OUT

In India, silkworm caterpillars are farmed out by their owners to be fed. When they transform themselves into silk-covered cocoons, they are returned and weighed, and the feeder is paid according to the weight of his offering.

It is estimated that motorists use about 20,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline each year.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP)—Buyers renewed their interest in aviation stocks today and the resulting lift, joined by a few other issues, steadied the stock market.

Trends were irregular as the close approached, but an early downward tendency seemed to be definitely halted. Transfers were about 300,000 shares.

Bonds moved forward a bit. Stocks at Amsterdam, only foreign market operating, were lower.

One of the financial district's leading commentators asserted the February banking figures showed "that despite the vast reservoirs of credit existing in our banking structure actually the use of credit and currency is at an extremely low level."

Continuing, he said: "Both in 1929 and in 1937 this sort of relationship proved a forerunner of future industrial stagnation. On each of these occasions the market enjoyed a substantial rally thereafter, but later experienced a sharp decline."

From the commodities angle, the market situation was viewed as depending to a large degree on war orders. Metals, cocoa and sugar were regarded by many authorities as likely to receive even more active attention than in the recent past.

Some sources professed to see an overstock of gasoline in the United States, a few estimating 20,000,000 barrels more in storage than the industry requires. Again possible war orders were the unknown denominator in the economic equation.

TOMATO GROWERS SELECT FARRIER

Texas Man Will Act As Selling Agent For Tri-Parish Association

SIKES, La., March 2.—(Special)—W. G. Farrier, commission merchant of Jacksonville and Omaha, Tex., was selected to act as selling agent for the coming season's tomato crop grown by members of the Jackson-Winn-Caldwell Tomato Growers Associations at a meeting held here March 1. Included among other matters taken up at the meeting were a bid for the manufacturing of lugs and field crates by a Chatham lumber concern and the selecting of suitable labels and tomato wrapping paper.

The meeting, which was well attended by representatives from all sections of the tri-parish tomato growing area, lasted throughout the biggest portion of the day and was marked by an unusually large amount of debate by various members on all matters discussed. Each person seemed to realize that the future of the associations was virtually at stake and it was only after considerable debating that the selection of W. G. Farrier as the associations' commission merchant for the coming year was confirmed.

Mr. Farrier, who motored from his home at Omaha, Tex., in acceptance of an invitation to attend the meeting, greatly impressed the committeemen by showing a 4X rating in Dun and Bradstreet's catalogue and by proving that his banking credit was virtually the best. He also explained how various sizes of tomatoes would bring the farmers the same prices if sold in certain sections of the United States and Canada. Going into detail, Mr. Farrier said that the areas in and around New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh demand a large tomato while Boston, Hartford and the Dominion of Canada demand a medium size tomato.

The agreement as accepted by the associations was that for the consideration of thirty dollars per car W. G. Farrier will furnish all marketing information, principally price quotations, to the associations. Each car will be salable to anyone making a suitable bid, but if no acceptable bid is made, W. G. Farrier will sell the car according to price quotations.

Due to excellent cooperative agreements entered into by farmers of the Jackson-Winn-Caldwell parish area and the outlook for favorable marketing facilities, the coming tomato growing season is expected to give the growers one of the most profitable years since the growing of tomatoes was introduced in north Louisiana.

GAME WARDEN REPLIES

Mangham, La.
March 2, 1940.

To the Editor:

After reading the letters written to your Public Forum during the past three or four weeks, in none of which I took part, I wish to take this opportunity to answer the rap taken at the game wardens by Mr. Davis.

Now, Mr. Davis, if you are a real sportsman as you say you are, why don't you report the selling of game fish to the sheriff, his deputies or the conservation department? It is the mandatory duty of any of these departments to enforce these laws.

Mr. Davis is the first sportsman I ever heard of complaining because a license is required for those who fish with rod and reel—a license costing only $1.

I come in contact with many a sportsman from Monroe and other areas who are not only willing, but who are glad to and willing also to aid in any legitimate way to make our fishing streams a paradise for sportsmen. No doubt you are right when you say undersized fish are caught on the banks of the lakes and streams, but it would take a game warden to each fisherman to stop them from taking undersized fish that never get any bigger than a pumpkin seed when at their full growth. I will agree that commercial fishermen are accused of a lot they are not guilty of, but I have tried to cooperate with them in my parish and have found a majority of them are law-abiding. But I have found some who are fish law violators and in some cases using illegal nets.

Now if Mr. Davis or any other sportsman will walk the streams day and night, among the mosquitoes and snakes, as I have, in an effort to keep down violations, he will see what a difficult task it is to prevent shooting and striking fish by some of our citizens.

If you are referring to deadhead game wardens, I do not blame you, but I challenge you to check my record as game warden in Richland, Ouachita, Madison, Franklin, Catahoula and Morehouse parishes. You will find that I have enforced the law.

A NEW DAY DAWNS

Delhi, La.,
Feb. 29, 1940.

To the Editor:

Once again history repeats itself and Louisiana has proven that tyrants are wrong in their belief that "might makes right."

Even though absolute monarchs are supposed to belong to an era long past, our recent struggle under despotism and final victory on February 20 will be written into the history of the state with as much gusto as was the American Declaration of Independence that gave to the world the greatest lesson of liberty and democracy ever received.

For the past 12 years all attempts to free ourselves from the rule of dictators failed because of weakness and corruption in the minds of those who would begin a new revolution in the name of liberty but only that they themselves might become officeholders, thus leaving the honest people in as bad condition as ever.

Few in number, at first, but pure and strong in purpose, some brave men, including Mr. James A. Noe, pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor in defense of principle, and, when the test came to actually fight for it, they did not fail there.

They, with increasing numbers, have at long last dealt a fatal blow to a dictatorship whose examples of policy are the elimination of thousands of honest job holders and the upholding of hordes of dishonest characters who would sacrifice anything for the possession of money.

The power of the press must not be overlooked in this wonderful victory against heavy odds. These same newspapers that have brought the city to the country and the country to the city by sustaining communication between them, have made it possible for even the Arcadian citizen to appreciate the difference between a government based on the spoils system and one whose belief is that all men are created equal and endowed by the Creator with certain unalienable rights among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

So it remains with the new regime to contribute proof to posterity, that because of past mistakes, this generation is creating anew a decent government that will stand the test.

Let us, then, look forward to the inauguration of a new executive who, we hope, will mete out justice in a new deal that cannot be emulated, thereby making Louisiana the hope of the oppressed and the despair of the oppressor.

JANIE GREEN DETRO.

SOME ADVICE

Bastrop, La.,
February 28, 1940.

To the Editor:

It seems that Mr. Long doesn't realize that his playhouse in this state has been torn down. We understand that he made the promise that if he was defeated for governor, he would move to Arkansas. If he intends to keep that promise, and has made a thorough cleaning around his back door, we are keen to bid him ta, ta, because we've told him in as plain words as we knew how that we don't need him here. But, if there is any stench that he can't wipe away, we would advise him to go to Russia and join the Reds, because we think Mr. Stanley is going to really look him over when the time comes.

We are told that the editor of the American Progress is soliciting subscriptions to his paper. We did not read the paper when it was thrust upon us without our consent. He states that his head is bloody, but unbowed. We suspect that a close examination will show that it's some of the red ink he was slinging on the American Progress prior to the election, instead of blood.

We suggest that he use his talents and energy toward entertaining the feeble-minded at Pineville, for the next few years, provided his skirts are clean. To the lesser would-be parisites, we hope that you have come to the conclusion that there are still enough honest and God-fearing people in Louisiana to take care of the situation when we have to, and that you will face about and help us to eradicate the political stench that has been heaped upon us.

V. B. MORGAN.

For the past 12 years all attempts to free ourselves from the rule of dictators failed because of weakness and corruption in the minds of those who would begin a new revolution in the name of liberty but only that they themselves might become officeholders, thus leaving the honest people in as bad condition as ever.

Few in number, at first, but pure and strong in purpose, some brave men, including Mr. James A. Noe, pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor in defense of principle, and, when the test came to actually fight for it, they did not fail there.

They, with increasing numbers, have at long last dealt a fatal blow to a dictatorship whose examples of policy are the elimination of thousands of honest job holders and the upholding of hordes of dishonest characters who would sacrifice anything for the possession of money.

The power of the press must not be overlooked in this wonderful victory against heavy odds. These same newspapers that have brought the city to the country and the country to the city by sustaining communication between them, have made it possible for even the Arcadian citizen to appreciate the difference between a government based on the spoils system and one whose belief is that all men are created equal and endowed by the Creator with certain unalienable rights among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

So it remains with the new regime to contribute proof to posterity, that because of past mistakes, this generation is creating anew a decent government that will stand the test.

Let us, then, look forward to the inauguration of a new executive who, we hope, will mete out justice in a new deal that cannot be emulated, thereby making Louisiana the hope of the oppressed and the despair of the oppressor.

SOME ADVICE

Bastrop, La.,

To the Editor:

It seems that Mr. Long doesn't realize that his playhouse in this state has been torn down. We understand that he made the promise that if he was defeated for governor, he would move to Arkansas. If he intends to keep that promise, and has made a thorough cleaning around his back door, we are keen to bid him ta, ta, because we've told him in as plain words as we knew how that we don't need him here. But, if there is any stench that he can't wipe away, we would advise him to go to Russia and join the Reds, because we think Mr. Stanley is going to really look him over when the time comes.

We are told that the editor of the American Progress is soliciting subscriptions to his paper. We did not read the paper when it was thrust upon us without our consent. He states that his head is bloody, but unbowed. We suspect that a close examination will show that it's some of the red ink he was slinging on the American Progress prior to the election, instead of blood.

We suggest that he use his talents and energy toward entertaining the feeble-minded at Pineville, for the next few years, provided his skirts are clean. To the lesser would-be parisites, we hope that you have come to the conclusion that there are still enough honest and God-fearing people in Louisiana to take care of the situation when we have to, and that you will face about and help us to eradicate the political stench that has been heaped upon us.

Natchez Events Will Draw Big Attendance

Melba Liner Gaston Writes Of Plans For Brilliant Spring Fiesta At New Orleans

By Eve Bradford

THE sun is shining, the birds are singing, the flowers are blooming. It is spring!

All the gay gadders who have been marking time, waiting for the warm days to come, are now off on their annual giros into the land of yesterday. It is spring in Natchez, where the quaint little city billows out over the edges of the river bluff and hostesses for the annual Garden Pilgrimage are polishing the traditional hospitality to brightness befitting the indications of an ever-widening influx of visitors.

It is the signal for Monroe folks to hop in their cars and spend one of those unforgettable days in the antebellum homes. Even though one has visited them time and again, one is intrigued anew, year after year.

It is quite the nicest way we know of to spend Sunday and especially this year as it has most certainly been "the winter of our discontent."

We will be given beauty in large doses for the next month with the deep south extending alluring invitations to spring fiestas, Azalea trails, garden tours and whatnot.

Melba Liner Gaston, formerly of this city, is concerning herself with this year's Spring Fiesta in New Orleans, it seems. She writes in enthusiastic manner of the program, stressing the social side of life in the old homes to be opened this year.

Alluring circulars published by the tourist bureau department of commerce and industry, Baton Rouge, have been received. They tell, as follows, of the Spring Fiesta:

"On the home tours of the Spring Fiesta, five of which will be conducted during the week, guests will see charming mansions which have become landmarks of New Orleans in the century and more they have stood. Among the houses are the two oldest residences yet standing in the Mississippi valley—Madame John's Legacy, made famous by the Creole stories of George W. Cable, and the old Spanish customhouse, where Andrew Jackson and the buccaneer Jean Lafitte planned the defense of the city in 1812.

"Three tours will be held during the week to take Fiesta guests into the many beautiful gardens of New Orleans at a time when they are in most colorful bloom. About twenty gardens, seven on each of the tours, will be shown, including bright sunlit patios of the Vieux Carre with their stone paved walks, potted plants and sparkling fountains—formal gardens of town houses with costly, rare plants—and the rambling gardens of estates, where lush tropical growth gives a matchless charm. Garden tours will be conducted by the members of the New Orleans Garden club.

"Into Louisiana's famous 'Sugar Bowl' section Fiesta visitors will go for a full day's visit to the stately old plantation homes which still grace the broad acres from where comes the nation's sugar. They will be received at Rienzi, built in 1796 as a refuge for Queen Maria Luisa of Spain; Magnolia, built in 1856, whose staircase is one of the most beautiful in the state; Glenwood, with its beautiful grounds, and others.

"Through the romantic Vieux Carre, the hundred squares which Bienville laid out in 1718 as La Nouvelle Orleans, guests of the Fiesta will be conducted by guides on a leisurely walking tour that will take them to such famous old buildings as the Napoleon House, the Old Absinthe House, the Judah P. Benjamin home, the Patio Royale, once the Bank of Louisiana, the Brulatour residence, the 'Haunted House,' the Ursuline Convent, and many other buildings whose patios, iron work balconies, fan windows and spiral staircases give the French Quarter much of its old world atmosphere."

From Shreveport comes an invitation to attend the Garden Tour, March 16, 17. Visitors will be special guests at tea at the lovely Country club. Enchanting circulars inform one that the redbud trees of Shreveport, while especially beautiful in the spring, are a year 'round attraction. Thousands of them are neatly planted and landscaped not only along the city streets, but also along the beautiful country drive which leads to and around Cross lake, a recreation center known throughout the south.

Redbud blossoms, however, have a fleeting beauty. Within a few days all the trees pop into bloom, and their blossoming is awaited in the south as the blooming of the cherry trees in Washington is awaited by the nation. In 1939 blooms began opening about March 15.

Off the streets, in secluded small city plots, in large town estates, are beautiful gardens, well arranged and well cared for. Garden tour guests will be shown eight of these, each a splendid example of its type, from the cutting garden to that of large-scale terracing and landscaping.

The Audubon Pilgrimage starts March 9 and continues on through April 8. The visitor is taken through the rolling hills of West Feliciana parish, along the Audubon Pilgrimage, leading to fine ante bellum homes and historic buildings which bear the closest association with the American naturalist, John James Audubon.

Tech Fraternity To Dedicate Lodge

Open house, a banquet and a dance will mark the formal opening of the new Alpha Lambda Tau Lodge on Hergot street at Ruston March 9, according to Maurice Tatum, regent of the Louisiana Tech organization.

The program for the day will consist of open house in the afternoon, the banquet beginning at 6 o'clock for all A. L. T. members and their "dates," and the dance lasting through the usual hours of 8 to 12 o'clock.

Invitations have been mailed to all the chapter's alumni who live within a radius of several hundred miles. Many of these old A. L. T.'s have already given assurance that they will be present. Harry Maugans, traveling secretary, will head a delegation from Atlanta, Ga., for the occasion, according to a letter received from the national A. L. T. central office.

Chet Stedman and his orchestra have been obtained for the dance.

Several inquiries concerning the new lodge have been received within the last few days from fraternities at other colleges, it is said, since the lodge is something new in the fraternity housing field.

Active members who are responsible for the building program are as follows:

M. O. Barker, Stephens, Ark.; E. W. Carswell, Ringgold; W. T. Corley, Ruston; Lorry Hamner, Bossier City; Ray Sheppard, Sunset; Bruce Purcell, Plain Dealing; Maurice Tatum, Shreveport; Murry Snider, Shreveport; Gordon Partridge, Shreveport; R. M. Tannehill, Trout; Dennis Shell, Winnfield; Tom Watson, Arizona; J. W. Rabb, Grand Cane, and Barrie Pearce, Seattle, Wash.

INTRODUCING . . . .

Miss Peggy McCrary, Miss Margaret Butler, Miss Jo Ann Guerriero and Miss Ada Ellis Girault, lovely members of the younger set who were recently elected Delta Sigma sponsors.

Orleans To Hold Spring Fiesta

La Nouvelle Orleans of the French and Spanish regimes and the early American period will live again for a night during the New Orleans spring fiesta, according to Melba Liner Gaston, vice chairman of the fiesta publicity committee. Fiesta guests will roam through Vieux Carre whose streets are lighted by quaint lanterns of bygone years and whose banquettes are dotted with outdoor cafes. LaFitte will walk through the streets again, Patti will sing, the city will for a night raise the curtain which hangs across two centuries of history.

Tours will be made of New Orleans beautiful gardens, of the famous "Sugar Bowl" plantations, the Vieux Carre and along the New Orleans Floral trail. There will be exhibits of New Orleans artists in Pirates' alley, spirituals by the famed Dillard university choir and opera by the school of music of Louisiana State university.

An elaborate costume ball will be given on Tuesday night, which will probably excel in pageantry any costume ball given in New Orleans recently.

One day will be devoted to a tour of plantations, which will include visits to Rienzi, built in 1796 as a refuge for Queen Maria Luisa of Spain; Magnolia, built in 1856, whose staircase is one of the most beautiful in the state; Glenwood with its beautiful grounds and others.

The general program for the fiesta is as follows:

Sunday, March 3—Home tour in afternoon, visit to the Cabildo, St. Louis cathedral, and tea at Delgado art museum.

Monday March 4—Walking tour—New Orleans Garden society tour in morning. Home tour, tea at Le Petit salon, 3-5 in afternoon. Negro spirituals, Jerusalem temple in evening.

Tuesday, March 5—Home tour in afternoon. Costume ball and pageant in Municipal auditorium in evening.

Wednesday, March 6—Home tour, New Orleans Garden society tour. Open house at Tulane university with tea on campus 4-5 in afternoon. Tulane-Newcomb program in university auditorium in evening.

Saturday, March 9—Industrial tour under supervision of the Y. M. B. C. in morning. Artists' exhibit in Vieux Carre in afternoon.

Sunday, March 10—Plantation tour.

The New Orleans spring fiesta is sponsored by the New Orleans Spring Fiesta association, with the cooperation of the New Orleans Garden society, the Young Men's Business club, and other organizations, and individuals interested in civic achievement.

Mrs. Newman Fetes Music Guild Group

Music Guild members enjoyed cordial hospitality in the home of Mrs. Paul Newman, on Wednesday, when they met for their last February program.

The president, Mrs. P. A. Poag, conducted the business session, during which various committee heads reported on matters of timely interest, and the committee to compile the year books for next year was announced as follows: Mrs. Paul Newman, Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. Dallas Goss and Mrs. E. Everett Lawson.

With the eyes of the world turned towards Finland during present wartime conditions in Europe, considerable interest was manifested by members in the afternoon's topic concerning "Representative Musicians of Denmark and Finland." The latter country being the home of Jean Sibelius, that great syphonic poet who is probably best known for his beautiful tone-poem "Finlandia." Interest was manifested in Mrs. B. B. Martin's comprehensive paper on "Danish Composers and Finland's Noted Musicians."

She especially mentioned that worthy member of the school that culminated in Bach—the famous organist Buxtehude—and discussed the real father of Danish music, John Hartmann. The latter was must successful in his writing of operas, symphonies, overtures, concertos and larger works, but has not yet met with the recognition in other countries than Denmark, that is deserved.

Representative compositions by Danish and Finnish composers were rendered by members as follows:

Voice—"Rose Marie," (Collan) by Mrs. Paul Newman.

Piano—"Humoristische Marsch," Op. 97, (Sibelius) by Mrs. E. Everett Lawson.

Voice—"Twilight," (Jarnefelt) by Mrs. J. Norman Coon.

During the conversational hour the hostess served delicious refreshments to: Mrs. R. W. Cretney, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. Dallas Goss, Mrs. Willys Hopkins, Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. E. Everett Lawson, Mrs. P. A. Poag, Mrs. P. A. Colvin, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. Clyde Pedigo, Mrs. Reynolds McWilliams, Mrs. Raymond Spence and Mrs. Robert Christian, of Baton Rouge.

Miss Nelson And Wells Harrell Wed

The Trinity Methodist church of Ruston was the scene of a beautiful and impressive wedding on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock when Miss Marietta Nelson and Mr. Wells Harrell were united in marriage with Rev. Guy M. Hicks officiating.

The exquisite altar arrangement which formed an appropriate setting for the ceremony, accentuated in every detail the beautiful Gothic simplicity of design. Southern smilax and feathery fern formed the background where myriad Cathedral tapers burned.

While the guests were assembling a pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Mr. Harvey Nelson, violinist, Mrs. Harvey Nelson, pianist, and Mrs. S. L. White, organist. Included among the numbers were: "O Promise Me." "The Bells of Saint Mary," "Venetian Love Song," and "Ave Maria." Mr. Rex Nelson sang "Loves Old Sweet Song."

The bridal party entered to the strains of Wagner's Bridal Chorus, chiming from Trinity's tower.

Mendelssohn's Wedding March was used for the processional. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Vallie Nelson, who wore an early spring model of azure blue crepe with dusty rose accessories, and a shoulder corsage of sweet peas.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Charles Nelson. She wore a spring model of navy triple sheer with corsage of sweetheart roses and sweet peas.

Mr. Malcom Seab of Bonita, La., served as best man. The ushers were Mr. Harold Nelson, Mr. Jack Nelson and Mr. Harper Willis.

Immediately following the ceremony there was an informal reception for relatives and close friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nelson and Miss Vallie Nelson.

After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Harrell will make their home in Farmerville, where Mr. Harrell is an insurance representative, and Mrs. Harrell is home demonstration agent for Union parish.

Avis Bowman And John Maddox Wed

Ceremony Performed In Home Of Mrs. J. L. Griggs With Rev. Hastings Officiating

A wedding of interest was solemnized last week when Miss Avis Bowman and Mr. John Maddox were married in the home of Mrs. J. L. Griggs on South Grand street, with Rev. L. T. Hastings performing the ceremony.

The living room was banked with ferns and palms, intermingled with pink roses and gladioli. Baskets overflowing with white carnations and candelabra supporting cathedral tapers flanked the French doors, where the marriage vows were spoken.

The bride wore a smart, early spring model of American crepe with dusty pink accessories and a corsage of pink Souvenir roses. Before the ceremony, the candles were lighted by Miss Bobbie Rogers and Miss Ella May Smith. Miss Rogers wore a model of stone blue wool with a corsage of pink carnations. Miss Smith wore black crepe with white lace trimming and pink carnations.

Before the ceremony "Love's Old Sweet Song" was played by Miss Nellie Kincaid on the accordion. Miss Kincaid wore an azure blue frock with a corsage of pink carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held with Mr. and Mrs. Forest Seaman and Mrs. Grgigs, co-hosts. Mrs. Seaman wore flame crepe with white carnations and Mrs. Griggs wore a burgundy crepe model with carnations.

The wedding cake, a beautiful confection, centered the table in the dining room. Glowing candles and sprays of fern added a decorative note to the table and a bowl of gladioli centered the buffet. Miss Eva Hendricks cut the wedding cake and Miss Jane Moore served iced frappe.

About fifty guests attended the reception. The young couple left for Hot Springs, Springfield, Mo., and points in Texas on a honeymoon trip.

Mr. Maddox is associated with the Louisiana Paper company.

Review Club Meets In Hatchell Home

Members of the Review club enjoyed the hospitality extended in the home of Mrs. W. R. Hatchell when they met for the regular semi-monthly program with the president, Mrs. C. B. Braun, presiding.

After a short business session Mrs. C. V. McGimsey announced the subject for the afternoon's program, "The Altered Sky." Mrs. Allen Givens reviewed an airman's novel of the war in Spain, "Man's Hope," by Andre Malraux. Archibald MacLeish's poem "Air Raid," was read by Mrs. W. J. Veazey as a corollary to Malreaux' pictures of air fights in Spain.

"Fiction or Reality" was also an interesting subject for discussion.

Mrs. McGimsey reviewed "Dr. Bradley Remembers," by Francis Brett Young. The author is also a doctor but in his novel about a doctor he is more novelist than doctor. Throughout the novel the mellow and gentle mood of an old man's reminiscences is maintained.

Mrs. Fred Fudickar concluded the afternoon's program with a discussion of "The Horse and Buggy Doctor," by A. E. Hertzler. Dr. Hertzler is a successful physician, the founder and head of the Hertzler clinic in Halstead, Kans., and author of many books on medicine. His reminiscences, set down without literary pretensions furnish an absorbing history of the progress of American medicine in the last fifty years; but more than that, they reveal the struggle of an ambitious, courageous human being, and they suggest a stimulating commentary on the practice of medicine as it is today.

Members privileged to enjoy the interesting program were Mesdames C. B. Braun, Henry Colbert, W. T. Davis, Fred Fudickar, Allen Givens, Lealis Hale, W. R. Hatchell, R. E. Major, Sr., C. V. McGimsey, D. M. Moore, Walter Rhodes and W. J. Veazey.

Club Women Hold Oak Grove Meeting

The eyes of club women in Northeast Louisiana were turned toward Oak Grove yesterday when the second semi-annual club institute met, with the Women's Department club and the Cosmopolitan club serving as hostseses.

Subjects of vital interest to all club women were discussed in full under the supervision of Mrs. J. Norman Coon of Monroe, chairman of the state club institute.

Speakers during the all-day session were Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president of the Fifth district Federated clubs, and Mrs. J. R. White, Fifth district publicity chairman. Mrs. D. W. Cotton of Rayville, state junior chairman, was also featured on the program.

The principal speaker was Mrs. C. E. Hester of Tallaulah, state president of the Louisiana Federated Women's clubs.

The Women's Department club of Oak Grove and the Cosmopolitan club have been outstanding clubs in the Fifth district since their organization. The Women's Department club has won the honor this year of having its name entered on the rolls of the hall of fame of the General Federation of Women's clubs, Washington, D. C. Mrs. E. O. Burnham, president of the Oak Grove Women's club, and Mrs. E. C. Hudson, president of the Cosmopolitan club, assisted in serving refreshments during the social period.

Natchez Events Will Draw Big Attendance

Melba Liner Gaston Writes Of Plans For Brilliant Spring Fiesta At New Orleans

By Eve Bradford

THE sun is shining, the birds are singing, the flowers are blooming. It is spring!

All the gay gadders who have been marking time, waiting for the warm days to come, are now off on their annual giros into the land of yesterday. It is spring in Natchez, where the quaint little city billows out over the edges of the river bluff and hostesses for the annual Garden Pilgrimage are polishing the traditional hospitality to brightness befitting the indications of an ever-widening influx of visitors.

It is the signal for Monroe folks to hop in their cars and spend one of those unforgettable days in the antebellum homes. Even though one has visited them time and again, one is intrigued anew, year after year.

It is quite the nicest way we know of to spend Sunday and especially this year as it has most certainly been "the winter of our discontent."

We will be given beauty in large doses for the next month with the deep south extending alluring invitations to spring fiestas, Azalea trails, garden tours and whatnot.

Melba Liner Gaston, formerly of this city, is concerning herself with this year's Spring Fiesta in New Orleans, it seems. She writes in enthusiastic manner of the program, stressing the social side of life in the old homes to be opened this year.

Alluring circulars published by the tourist bureau department of commerce and industry, Baton Rouge, have been received. They tell, as follows, of the Spring Fiesta:

"On the home tours of the Spring Fiesta, five of which will be conducted during the week, guests will see charming mansions which have become landmarks of New Orleans in the century and more they have stood. Among the houses are the two oldest residences yet standing in the Mississippi valley—Madame John's Legacy, made famous by the Creole stories of George W. Cable, and the old Spanish customhouse, where Andrew Jackson and the buccaneer Jean Lafitte planned the defense of the city in 1812.

"Three tours will be held during the week to take Fiesta guests into the many beautiful gardens of New Orleans at a time when they are in most colorful bloom. About twenty gardens, seven on each of the tours, will be shown, including bright sunlit patios of the Vieux Carre with their stone paved walks, potted plants and sparkling fountains—formal gardens of town houses with costly, rare plants—and the rambling gardens of estates, where lush tropical growth gives a matchless charm. Garden tours will be conducted by the members of the New Orleans Garden club.

"Into Louisiana's famous 'Sugar Bowl' section Fiesta visitors will go for a full day's visit to the stately old plantation homes which still grace the broad acres from where comes the nation's sugar. They will be received at Rienzi, built in 1796 as a refuge for Queen Maria Luisa of Spain; Magnolia, built in 1856, whose staircase is one of the most beautiful in the state; Glenwood, with its beautiful grounds, and others.

"Through the romantic Vieux Carre, the hundred squares which Bienville laid out in 1718 as La Nouvelle Orleans, guests of the Fiesta will be conducted by guides on a leisurely walking tour that will take them to such famous old buildings as the Napoleon House, the Old Absinthe House, the Judah P. Benjamin home, the Patio Royale, once the Bank of Louisiana, the Brulatour residence, the 'Haunted House,' the Ursuline Convent, and many other buildings whose patios, iron work balconies, fan windows and spiral staircases give the French Quarter much of its old world atmosphere."

From Shreveport comes an invitation to attend the Garden Tour, March 16, 17. Visitors will be special guests at tea at the lovely Country club. Enchanting circulars inform one that the redbud trees of Shreveport, while especially beautiful in the spring, are a year 'round attraction. Thousands of them are neatly planted and landscaped not only along the city streets, but also along the beautiful country drive which leads to and around Cross lake, a recreation center known throughout the south.

Redbud blossoms, however, have a fleeting beauty. Within a few days all the trees pop into bloom, and their blossoming is awaited in the south as the blooming of the cherry trees in Washington is awaited by the nation. In 1939 blooms began opening about March 15.

Off the streets, in secluded small city plots, in large town estates, are beautiful gardens, well arranged and well cared for. Garden tour guests will be shown eight of these, each a splendid example of its type, from the cutting garden to that of large-scale terracing and landscaping.

The Audubon Pilgrimage starts March 9 and continues on through April 8. The visitor is taken through the rolling hills of West Feliciana parish, along the Audubon Pilgrimage, leading to fine ante bellum homes and historic buildings which bear the closest association with the American naturalist, John James Audubon.

Tech Fraternity To Dedicate Lodge

Open house, a banquet and a dance will mark the formal opening of the new Alpha Lambda Tau lodge on Hergot street at Ruston March 9, according to Maurice Tatum, regent of the Louisiana Tech organization.

The program for the day will consist of open house in the afternoon, the banquet beginning at 6 o'clock for all A. L. T. members and their "dates," and the dance lasting through the usual hours of 8 to 12 o'clock.

Invitations have been mailed to all the chapter's alumni who live within a radius of several hundred miles. Many of these old A. L. T.'s have already given assurance that they will be present. Harry Maugans, traveling secretary, will head a delegation from Atlanta, Ga., for the occasion, according to a letter received from the national A. L. T. central office.

Chet Stedman and his orchestra have been obtained for the dance.

Several inquiries concerning the new lodge have been received within the last few days from fraternities at other colleges, it is said, since the lodge is something new in the fraternity housing field.

Active members who are responsible for the building program are as follows:

M. O. Barker, Stephens, Ark.; E. W. Carswell, Ringgold; W. T. Corley, Ruston; Lorry Hamner, Bossier City; Ray Sheppard, Sunset; Bruce Purcell, Plain Dealing; Maurice Tatum,-Shreveport; Murry Snider, Shreveport; Gordon Partridge, Shreveport; R. M. Tannehill, Trout; Dennis Shell, Winnfield; Tom Watson, Arizona; J. W. Rabb, Grand Cane, and Barrie Pearce, Seattle, Wash.

Orleans To Hold Spring Fiesta

La Nouvelle Orleans of the French and Spanish regimes and the early American period will live again for a night during the New Orleans spring fiesta, according to Melba Liner Gaston, vice chairman of the fiesta publicity committee. Fiesta guests will roam through Vieux Carre whose streets are lighted by quaint lanterns of bygone years and whose banquettes are dotted with outdoor cafes. LaFitte will walk through the streets again, Patti will sing, the city will for a night raise the curtain which hangs across two centuries of history.

Tours will be made of New Orleans beautiful gardens, of the famous "Sugar Bowl" plantations, the Vieux Carre and along the New Orleans Floral trail. There will be exhibits of New Orleans artists in Pirates' alley, spirituals by the famed Dillard university choir and opera by the school of music of Louisiana State university.

An elaborate costume ball will be given on Tuesday night, which will probably excel in pageantry any costume ball given in New Orleans recently.

One day will be devoted to a tour of plantations, which will include visits to Rienzi, built in 1796 as a refuge for Queen Maria Luisa of Spain; Magnolia, built in 1856, whose staircase is one of the most beautiful in the state; Glenwood with its beautiful grounds and others.

Mrs. Newman Fetes Music Guild Group

Music Guild members enjoyed cordial hospitality in the home of Mrs. Paul Newman, on Wednesday, when they met for their last February program.

The president, Mrs. P. A. Poag, conducted the business session, during which various committee heads reported on matters of timely interest, and the committee to compile the year books for next year was announced as follows: Mrs. Paul Newman, Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. Dallas Goss and Mrs. E. Everett Lawson.

With the eyes of the world turned towards Finland during present wartime conditions in Europe, considerable interest was manifested by members in the afternoon's topic concerning "Representative Musicians of Denmark and Finland." The latter country being the home of Jean Sibelius, that great syphonic poet who is probably best known for his beautiful tone-poem "Finlandia." Interest was manifested in Mrs. B. B. Martin's comprehensive paper on "Danish Composers and Finland's Noted Musicians."

She especially mentioned that worthy member of the school that culminated in Bach—the famous organist Buxtehude—and discussed the real father of Danish music, John Hartmann. The latter was must successful in his writing of operas, symphonies, overtures, concertos and larger works, but has not yet met with the recognition in other countries than Denmark, that is deserved.

Representative compositions by Danish and Finnish composers were rendered by members as follows:

Voice—"Rose Marie," (Collan) by Mrs. Paul Newman.

Piano—"Humoristische Marsch," Op. 97, (Sibelius) by Mrs. E. Everett Lawson.

Voice—"Twilight," (Jarnefelt) by Mrs. J. Norman Coon.

During the conversational hour the hostess served delicious refreshments to: Mrs. R. W. Cretney, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. Dallas Goss, Mrs. Willys Hopkins, Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. E. Everett Lawson, Mrs. P. A. Poag, Mrs. P. A. Colvin, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. Clyde Pedigo, Mrs. Reynolds McWilliams, Mrs. Raymond Spence and Mrs. Robert Christian, of Baton Rouge.

Miss Nelson And Wells Harrell Wed

The Trinity Methodist church of Ruston was the scene of a beautiful and impressive wedding on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock when Miss Marietta Nelson and Mr. Wells Harrell were united in marriage with Rev. Guy M. Hicks officiating.

The exquisite altar arrangement which formed an appropriate setting for the ceremony, accentuated in every detail the beautiful Gothic simplicity of design. Southern smilax and feathery fern formed the background where myriad Cathedral tapers burned.

While the guests were assembling a pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Mr. Harvey Nelson, violinist, Mrs. Harvey Nelson, pianist, and Mrs. S. L. White, organist. Included among the numbers were: "O Promise Me," "The Bells of Saint Mary," "Venetian Love Song," and "Ave Maria." Mr. Rex Nelson sang "Loves Old Sweet Song."

The bridal party entered to the strains of Wagner's Bridal Chorus, chiming from Trinity's tower.

Mendelssohn's Wedding March was used for the processional. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Vallie Nelson, who wore an early spring model of azure blue crepe with dusty rose accessories, and a shoulder corsage of sweet peas.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Charles Nelson. She wore a spring model of navy triple sheer with corsage of sweetheart roses and sweet peas.

Mr. Malcom Seab of Bonita, La., served as best man. The ushers were Mr. Harold Nelson, Mr. Jack Nelson and Mr. Harper Willis.

Immediately following the ceremony there was an informal reception for relatives and close friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nelson and Miss Vallie Nelson.

After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Harrell will make their home in Farmerville, where Mr. Harrell is an insurance representative, and Mrs. Harrell is home demonstration agent for Union parish.

Avis Bowman And John Maddox Wed

Ceremony Performed In Home Of Mrs. J. L. Griggs With Rev. Hastings Officiating

A wedding of interest was solemnized last week when Miss Avis Bowman and Mr. John Maddox were married in the home of Mrs. J. L. Griggs on South Grand street, with Rev. L. T. Hastings performing the ceremony.

The living room was banked with ferns and palms, intermingled with pink roses and gladioli. Baskets overflowing with white carnations and candelabra supporting cathedral tapers flanked the French doors, where the marriage vows were spoken.

The bride wore a smart, early spring model of American crepe with dusty pink accessories and a corsage of pink Souvenir roses. Before the ceremony, the candles were lighted by Miss Bobbie Rogers and Miss Ella May Smith. Miss Rogers wore a model of stone blue wool with a corsage of pink carnations. Miss Smith wore black crepe with white lace trimming and pink carnations.

Before the ceremony "Love's Old Sweet Song" was played by Miss Nellie Kincaid on the accordion. Miss Kincaid wore an azure blue frock with a corsage of pink carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held with Mr. and Mrs. Forest Seaman and Mrs. Grgigs, co-hosts. Mrs. Seaman wore flame crepe with white carnations and Mrs. Griggs wore a burgundy crepe model with carnations.

The wedding cake, a beautiful confection, centered the table in the dining room. Glowing candles and sprays of fern added a decorative note to the table and a bowl of gladioli centered the buffet. Miss Eva Hendricks cut the wedding cake and Miss Jane Moore served iced frappe.

About fifty guests attended the reception. The young couple left for Hot Springs, Springfield, Mo., and points in Texas on a honeymoon trip.

Mr. Maddox is associated with the Louisiana Paper company.

Review Club Meets In Hatchell Home

Members of the Review club enjoyed the hospitality extended in the home of Mrs. W. R. Hatchell when they met for the regular semi-monthly program with the president, Mrs. C. B. Braun, presiding.

After a short business session Mrs. C. V. McGimsey announced the subject for the afternoon's program, "The Altered Sky." Mrs. Allen Givens reviewed an airman's novel of the war in Spain, "Man's Hope," by Andre Malraux. Archibald MacLeish's poem "Air Raid," was read by Mrs. W. J. Veazey as a corollary to Malreaux' pictures of air fights in Spain.

"Fiction or Reality" was also an interesting subject for discussion.

Mrs. McGimsey reviewed "Dr. Bradley Remembers," by Francis Brett Young. The author is also a doctor but in his novel about a doctor he is more novelist than doctor. Throughout the novel the mellow and gentle mood of an old man's reminiscences is maintained.

Mrs. Fred Fudickar concluded the afternoon's program with a discussion of "The Horse and Buggy Doctor," by A. E. Hertzler. Dr. Hertzler is a successful physician, the founder and head of the Hertzler clinic in Halstead, Kans., and author of many books on medicine. His reminiscences, set down without literary pretensions furnish an absorbing history of the progress of American medicine in the last fifty years; but more than that, they reveal the struggle of an ambitious, courageous human being, and they suggest a stimulating commentary on the practice of medicine as it is today.

Members privileged to enjoy the interesting program were Mesdames C. B. Braun, Henry Colbert, W. T. Davis, Fred Fudickar, Allen Givens, Lealis Hale, W. R. Hatchell, R. E. Major, Sr., C. V. McGimsey, D. M. Moore, Walter Rhodes and W. J. Veazey.

"Be it resolved that the state board of managers of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association endorses the projected survey of the state school system as proposed by Governor-Elect Sam Houston Jones, and Superintendent of Education-Elect John E. Coxe.

"To the Hon. Sam Houston Jones, governor-elect of Louisiana;

'Outward Bound' To Be Next Play

The Monroe Little Theater announces its next production, 'Outward Bound' by Sutton Vane. Continuing its policy of presenting a variety of plays, the Little Theater is proud to offer 'Outward Bound' because of its unusual theme. It is a significant event in the history of the modern theater. Its universal dramatic appeal and its beautifully depicted, though controversial, philosophy makes it a play of great importance for every lover of the theater.

In response to the demands of many members who desire roles in Little Theater productions, try-outs will be held on two nights in order that everyone might attend. All members who would like parts in this and forthcoming productions are urged to come to the try-outs either on Thursday or Friday night at 8 o'clock in Judge Harper's office in the city hall. As 'Outward Bound' has a large number of male characters, the men are especially invited to the try-outs. Louis Guerriero, director, is anxious that every-one who has a desire to act be given an opportunity and reminds the public that casting is handled strictly on the try-out basis.

Final Plans Made For P.-T. A. Meet

'Community Planning For Youth' Will Be Theme Of Lake Charles Convention

Final plans for the state Parent-Teacher convention, which will be held in Lake Charles, April 18, 19, 20, were discussed at the meeting of the state board of managers held in Alexandria at the Bentley hotel last week.

"Community Planning for Youth" will be the theme of the convention and Dr. Joseph Artman, Chicago, will represent the National Congress of Parents and Teachers during the session.

A resolutions committee for the session was appointed by Mrs. Paul Blanchard, state president, including Mrs. G. N. Harrison, Clarks; Mrs. A. N. Boucher, Lafayette; Mrs. E. J. Stebbins, New Orleans.

A nominating committee was elected to name candidates for secretary, third vice-president and seventh vice-president. Members of this committee are Mrs. Fagan Cox, Monroe; Mrs. G. N. Harrison, Clarks; Mrs. W. L. Gilmer, Stonewall; Girard Davidson, Lafayette; Jess W. Hair, Baton Rouge.

Members of the committee appointed by Mrs. Blanchard, to pass on the minutes, were Mrs. W. O. Martin, Alexandria; Mrs. S. R. Emmons, Minden; Mrs. Aylmer Montgomery, Monroe.

Reports were made by Mrs. Fagan Cox, Mrs. E. Faye Walter, Mr. Alvin Good, Mr. Girard Davidson, L. P. Terrebonne, Mrs. Cecil Brown, Mrs. Thomas Becnel and Mrs. Erick Gebsen who reported on the plans being made by Lake Charles for the entertainment of the convention.

Resolutions approving the projected survey of the state school system and recommending a department of research in the state department of education were passed at the meeting. The resolutions drawn and approved by the state board of managers at the meeting are as follows:

"Be it resolved that the state board of managers of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association endorses the projected survey of the state school system as proposed by Governor-Elect Sam Houston Jones, and Superintendent of Education-Elect John E. Coxe.

"To the Hon. Sam Houston Jones, governor-elect of Louisiana;

"Whereas the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association, in its study of the 12 year school plan for Louisiana, has become increasingly aware of the need of constant adjustment of a school system in the light of social, educational and scientific advancement,

"Be it therefore resolved that the Louisiana P.-T. A. petition the governor-elect and the superintendent-elect for a department of research in the state department of education, this department of research to direct such studies as the projected state survey and to be responsible for a continuous program of adjustment in the educational system as such need arises.

"Be it resolved that the board of managers of the Louisiana P.-T. A. express to the newly-elected state superintendent, its desire to cooperate with him in every way for the betterment of the educational system in our state."

'Outward Bound' To Be Next Play

The Monroe Little Theater announces its next production, "Outward Bound," by Sutton Vane. Continuing its policy of presenting a variety of plays, the Little Theater is proud to offer "Outward Bound," because of its unusual theme. It is a significant event in the history of the modern theater. Its universal dramatic appeal and its beautifully depicted, though controversial, philosophy makes it a play of great importance for every lover of the theater.

In response to the demands of many members who desire roles in Little Theater productions, try-outs will be held on two nights in order that everyone might attend. All members who would like parts in this and forthcoming productions are urged to come to the try-outs either on Thursday or Friday night at 8 o'clock in Judge Harper's office in the city hall. As "Outward Bound" has a large number of male characters, the men are especially invited to the try-outs. Louis Guerriero, director, is anxious that everyone who has a desire to act be given an opportunity and reminds the public that casting is handled strictly on the try-out basis.

Art Association Elects Officers

The Monroe Art association held its regular meeting on Thursday at Miss Mary Bergevin's art studio, 520 South Grand street. Mrs. H. R. Saenger was the speaker for the afternoon.

Mrs. J. A. Winkler, Jr., president, presided at the annual business meeting, at which time there was a report given by Mrs. D. F. Dennis, chairman of the nominating committee. The following officers for the coming club year were elected: president, Mrs. H. R. Saenger; vice-president, Miss Mary Bergevin; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Rene McCord, Jr.; reporter, Mrs. J. A. Winkler, Jr.; parliamentarian, Mrs. M. R. Hausherr; historian, Mrs. G. F. Tyner.

Mrs. S. E. Pipes, chairman of the new constitution committee, presented the constitution, which was adopted. The following gift committee was appointed by the president: Mrs. W. J. Veazey chairman; Mrs D. N. Barron and Mrs. Carey Holmes.

An interesting talk was given by Mrs. Saenger entitled "How to Look at Pictures." She said in part:

"Armed with what knowledge we can acquire of the principals of art we must next try to catch the mood or feeling of the artist and be receptive to what he is trying to portray. The beauty of a picture depends less upon its subject than upon the artist's conception and treatment of it.

A grand subejct will not of itself make a grand picture while a homely one by the way it has been handled may impress us profoundly. The degree of beauty in a picture depends on the feeling for beauty of the artist, and upon his ability and power to express it.

"Let us not look at pictures to acquire a veneer of culture, for pictures were painted first of all to arouse our power of enjoyment, of abandonment to beauty and to help cleanse our minds and keep us ready for the best things of life.

"Good drawing is the structural framework of a picture. Perspective is the mathematical scheme by which every object in a picture is assigned its proper space and position. In drawing, a good line is simply one that has a great deal to say and says it intelligently, while a bad line has nothing in particular to say and it says it clumsily."

Fraternity Gives Penthouse Party

The Sigma Phi Omega fraternity entertained with a penthouse party atop the Monroe hotel Friday night.

During an intermission iced drinks and cakes embossed in the fraternity emblem, were served.

Later in the evening the entire assemblage motored to a night club for supper.

Fraternity members and their "dates" present at this time were: Max Kulcke and Miss Sara Regan, Clarence Martin and Miss Frances Smith, Garland Moore and Miss Gloria Hodge, Scott Hood and Miss Beverly Peevy, Roger Larsen and Miss Mary Eleanor Coverdale, Julius Bennett and Miss Louise Gail McDonald, Spencer Lee and Miss Mary Belle Rogers, Thomas Agnew and Miss Zola De Rossett, Raymond Thompson and Miss Nell Renwick, Lloyd Lenard and Miss Juanita Lippmin, George Hayes and Miss Melba Stevenson, Ardis Ponder and Miss Nell Rainbolt, Billy Register and Miss Helen Tippit, Howard Faulke and Miss Ruth Ann Nolan.

Stags were: H. L. Cavaness, Jasper Haddad, Jack O'Donnell, Louis Pecastaing, Buddy Tolson, H. A. Brownlee, Bobby Keller, Carroll Entrican, Alfred Ware and Phillip Embanato.

Mrs. Robert Layton's Annual Carnival Big Event For Monroe's Youngsters

Grand March One Of Features Of Affair

Owen Johnson And Betty Hale Serve As King And Queen Of Brilliant Occasion

Although Mrs. Robert Layton's annual carnival ball on terrace of the Frances hotel was postponed for three weeks, none of the brilliancy, enthusiasm or beauty of detail was sacrificed.

The ball was presented as originally planned with beauty of costuming, fantastic decorations and outpouring of society the outstanding features.

The festivities were inaugurated with members of Mrs. Layton's dancing class walking in grand march formation down the full length of the terrace where they awaited the approach of the king and queen, Owen Johnson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson, and Betty Hale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hale, and members of their court.

Trumpters announced their arrival and with much pomp and ceremony they were escorted to the throne, occupied by the king and queen of last year's ball, Harry Frazer and Bunny Zeigin.

The king wore a gorgeous white satin costume with cape heavily embroidered in scintillating jewels. He carried a jeweled sceptre which he waved over his subjects, commanding them to make merry.

The queen wore a shimmering gown of white brocaded satin with rhinestone clips at the neckline. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies and lilies of the valley. The long court train was carried by two beautiful little pages, Leila Doyle Stevens and Little Sister Frazer, in white tulle ballet costumes and rhinestone Juliet caps.

Members of the king's court wore dwarf woodmen costumes of shimmering, irredescent satin with jaunty silver caps and feathers. The queen's court, lovely members of the younger set, wore irredescent gauze models in all the pastel shades. They were fashioned with tight-fitting bodices and long, full skirts. In the guise of fairies, they wore silver gauze wings and carried fairy wands of silver.

Court members were Ann Brown, Gail Stewart, June Griffin, Joy Harper, Sally Foster, Rhoda Kellogg, Patsy Snelling, Louise Tisdale, John Kelso, Malcolm Steen, Wilfred Ellis, Dean Selig, Jr., George Tippit, James Brown, Billy Morris Inabnet and Billy Sykes.

Following the coronation the king and queen and members of the court were entertained by several talented danseuses including the two pages, Little Sister Frazer and Leila Doyle Stevens, who gave a remarkable interpretation of the ballet.

Others who entertained with charming numbers were: Mary Lou Young, tap dancer; Louise Jackie Voorhies, Spanish toe dancer; Carol Layton, ballet; Rita Church and Jimmy Le Blanc, jitter-bug dancers; Louise Tisdale and Marvin Gleason, soloists.

Several group dances were also included in the program.

Later in the evening the king and queen descended the throne and joined the merrymakers.

The highlight of the evening's program was the balloon number. Myriad multi-colored balloons caught in a net high overhead were unleashed and came fluttering down. All hands were outstretched to capture these favors.

A seven-piece orchestra supplied entrancing music for the occasion. Mrs. Charles Bennett, pianist, accompanied the performers featured on the evening's program.

As customary each year an invitation was extended by Mrs. Layton to parents and friends of her pupils, who watched the festivities from the sidelines. A greater number of spectators than ever before were noted this year and more interest displayed over the costuming than ever before.

Mrs. Layton's annual ball is now a tradition in Monroe. Inaugurated nine years ago on rather a small scale in the ballroom of the Layton castle, it has now grown to such proportions the ballroom does not afford sufficient room for dancers and spectators.

The dancers were: Patsy Zeigin, Angeline Swift, Gail Stewart, Gwen Walker, June Griffin, Ann Brown, June Lewis, Carol Layton, Sue Armstrong, Barbara Ellis, Mary Enta Lennon, Nora Marie Lennon, Helen Steen, Emily Cunningham, Betty Jane Tucker, John Reardon, Brooks Dawkins, Robert Layton, Patsy Snelling, Joy Harper, Sally Foster, Luther Stewart, Esther Ewing, Aylmer Montgomery, Tommy Wright, Alma Jean Linquist, Sue Atkinson, Sophie Davidson, Ned Wilson, Monty Frazier, Henry Guerriero, Tommy Sandridge, Billy Pedigo, Mimi Madden, Tommy Merrill, Betty Merrill, Clarence Halcombe, Jene Hodges, Malcolm Steen, Rosalie Riley, Ann Buckley, Mary Jo Wolfe, Leo Miles, Ray Braswell, William Whitfield, James McElveen, Gladden Walters, Robert Vaughan, Clayton Bennett, Sam Brothers, Jo Ann McVay, Phanor Perot, C. D. Oakley, Jr., Katherine Enochs, Bill and Joe Durrett, Mary Carolyn Swain, Emmet Carmina, Jane Shea, George Tippit, Donald Wadley, Dorothy Carmina, Martha Lena John, Jack Easterling, Edith McWilliams, Margaret Gamble, Helen Aycock, Harry Bell, Herbert Land, Harry Frazer, Jr., Bunny Zeigin, Merilyn Bush and Rhoda Kellogg.

Mrs. S. W. Brown and Mr. Thomas Gilhula, now in charge of the Monroe Public library, find an ever increasing patronage now that spring is on the way.

The turn of the season's never fail to revive an interest in books and especially during the spring season when a certain restlessness is appeased by reading.

For the restless ones who are looking for something interesting to read at this time, the librarians suggest the following, recently received and placed on the shelves for patrons: "Kitty Foyle," by Christopher Morley, which tops the best-seller list; "The Nazarene," by Sholem Arch which is a good book to read during Lent, being a new version of the gospels; "No Arms, No Armour," by Robert Henriques which is the fifteen thousand dollar all nations prize novel.

Besides these, "Portrait of Jennie" by Robert Nathan; "An Old Captivity" by Nevil Shute, and "How Green Was My Valley" by Richard Llewellyn, are most favorably reviewed by the critics.

The library also has John Gunthers' new edition of "Inside Europe"; "Through Embassey Eyes" by Martha Dodd; "Letters to Mary," by Catherine Hayes Brown (this being the story of Helen Hayes.); "Country Lawyer" by Bellamy Partridge and "Revolution of Nihilism" by Herman Rauschning.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bell and Mrs. L. V. Tarver spent a few days last week in El Dorado, where they attended "Gone With the Wind."

Miss Sara Smith of Tyler, Tex., is the guest for the wek-end of Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Calvert of West Monroe.

Mrs. Louis Landry spent several days in Baton Rouge last week with her daughter, Miss Jane Landy, student at the state university.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sherrouse and Mrs. Charles Wallace are enjoying a two week's motor tour of Florida, including a visit in Palm Beach and Miami.

An eight-pound son was born at 2:43 Friday afternoon to Mr. and Mrs. Underwood Fourmy at St. Francis sanitarium. He has been named James Carroll Fourmy.

Mrs. N. W. Reed of Lake Charles, state president of the Federation Garden clubs, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the local garden club at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. Allan Sholars, 1006 Riverside drive, Mrs. Fred Fudickar, president, has announced.

All members are urged to attend the meeting and meet the state president on a tour of northern clubs.

Mrs. Ben A. Heidenreich and grand daughter, Dorothy, of Macomb, Miss., is the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Heidenreich in the Sherrouse addition.

Mrs. J. B. Thornhill is spending a few weeks in Baton Rouge.

INFORMAL POSE . . . .

Three attractive members of the younger set, Ann Burgess, Evelyn Jane Smith and Helen Fernandez, pose for their pictures during a pause in the day's occupations. They formed a happy trio motoring to El Dorado last Saturday to see "Gone With the Wind."

Parent-Teacher News

Georgia Tucker

"The Georgia Tucker Parent-Teacher association met in regular session February 17, the president, Mrs. W. R. Hatchell, presiding. Minutes of the last meeting and several letters of interest to P.-T. A. members were read by the secretary, Mrs. Aylmer Montgomery.

Mrs. Elmer Richards urged members to attend the book review given by Mrs. Elizabeth McCranie the following Friday.

A report was given of the one day institute held in Ruston February 3 by Mrs. Hatchell.

The main project of the Georgia Tucker school this year is to make a documentary film of school activities, the first of which was made Thursday afternoon of P.-T. A. members by Messrs. W. R. Hatchell and Johnson.

"Founder's Day," was the theme of the talks following. Mrs. W. E. Leigh, whose subject was "History of Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association," reviewed the P.-T. A. since the founding of this organization 43 years ago.

An article on "Founder's Day Acrostic" was then most interestingly read by Mrs. W. M. Harper, during which the 43 candles on a beautifully embossed birthday cake were lighted by Mrs. John Atkinson and Mrs. Birdsong.

A contribution was taken for extension work in child welfare.

After the room count was taken, a social hour was enjoyed; the hostesses for this occasion were Mesdames Atkinson, Bornman and Cruthirds.

St. Matthew's

The Better Citizenship committee of the St. Matthew's P.-T. A., under the direction of Mrs. Stanley Hodges and including able welfare workers of St. Matthew's, is putting into action the plans of the program adopted by the committee. This program embraces all the activities of the health, welfare and summer round-up of the school. A direct line of action is the clean-up program among the students. Already little Willie and Mary Sue have brought home to their mothers gaily colored charts to hang in the bathroom. Each time hands and faces are washed a check appears on the proper date. Other instructions include brushing of teeth, cleaning nails, brushing of hair.

The committee will make personal visits into the homes of the underprivileged in order to assist and advise with the mothers in matters pertaining to health and welfare.

This better citizenship committee has a great responsibility and the members of the committee are active and well trained by previous work of this kind. This program of making better citizens is a program which covers each individual student of the school. Not only must the workers of the committee be active and well trained, but must be able to give of their time unstintingly. In the cafeteria of the school, the underprivileged are fed hot lunches. Clothing is also supplied the needy. Assisting Mrs. Hodges are Mrs. Paul Keller, Mrs. M. P. Kutz, Mrs. E. L. Ritter, Mrs. T. L. Morris, Mrs. William Zinsmeister and Mrs. Pat Curtin.

A. L. Smith

The A. L. Smith Parent-Teacher association of Sterlington celebrated Founders' day at the February meeting. The meeting was held in the school auditorium and was at night, so as to permit the fathers to attend.

Mrs. A. B. Billings, president, presided. Mrs. John King prepared an interesting program. She gave the history of P.-T. A., then directed a pageant which was presented by several sixth and seventh grade girls.

Following the Founders' day program, the Sterlington girls club gave a play entitled "Alice Blue Gown," which was also directed by Mrs. John King.

The roll call resulted in Mr. O. K. Bailey's seventh grade having the highest percentage of parents present.

The fund festival, which was to be held in February, was put off until March, due to so much influenza in the community.

At the conclusion of the program, a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served, using Washington birthday favors. Hostesses were the faculty and several ladies of the community.

Clarks

"Founders' Day" was commemorated by the Clarks P.-T. A. unit on Tuesday afternoon, at a meeting held at the Clarks school gymnasium. Mrs. G. N. Harrison of Clarks, 10 district chairman, presided.

A Founders' Day pageant was presented under the direction of Mrs. U. N. Bradford of the local school faculty. The pageant was presented in two parts, and gave an interesting history of the national council, state and local units; and also portrayed the child wellfare projects sponsored by the P.-T. A. units. Taking part in this number were: Mrs. W. C. Crowell, Mrs. D. W. Pettijohn, Miss Clovis Fuller, Mrs. C. D. Farrow, Miss Vivian Jones, Mrs. Elsie Parker, Mrs. G. N. Harrison, the Little Misses Hazel Dean Gilbert, Gloria Anne Bradford, Billy Mae Meeks, Mary Jane Farrow, Burna Dean Waldrop, Etta Lee Emmons, and Lois McCrea Steeley.

The candle-lighting service was an impressive program feature.

The fifth grade pupils and their teacher, Miss Vivian Jones, were presented with a cake, baked by Mrs. V. E. Lewis, for having the largest number of mothers in attendance.

Mrs. W. R. Broadway of Grayson was a special guest at this meeting, and made a talk.

Mrs. Katie Harris, recently appointed Clarks school matron, requested that second hand clothing be sent to her to be conditioned for use by applicants for this apparel.

Mrs. Harrison announced that the Caldwell parish P.-T. A. council would hold a public meeting at the Grayson High school on Thursday night, with Judge Crabites as the guest speaker. She urged all members to attend this meeting as Judge Crabites who is a member of the Louisiana State University Law School, is an internationally known speaker.

Immediately following the program a tea and social hour were held. Miss Audrey Price, home economics teacher, was assisted by members of the Homemakers club in serving a refreshment course.

Later in the afternoon the guests were invited to visit the school's new cafeteria and lunch room, which was opened last week in the school's gymnasium, with Miss Lenora May, manager.

Marion

The Marion P.-T. A., according to Mrs. D. H. Phillips, publicity chairman, observed Founder's day last week with an acrobatic program. After the business session, during which Mrs. T. H. Gibson presided, the members attended a silver tea at the home economics cottage. A feature of the tea was a tiered birthday cake embossed in blue and gold, P.-T. A. colors, centering a beautifully decorated dining table. Miss Elaine Smith and Miss Alice Bird, home economics students, poured tea.

Luncheon Held By Opera Club

Luncheon in the Blueroom of the Frances hotel on Thursday was a bright spot on the calendar of events in Opera club circles.

It was the annual luncheon with Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. R. O. Ware, Mrs. Charles Bennett and Mrs. L. V. Tarver, serving as hostesses.

The table was most attractive with mirrors down the full length encircled with tapers reflecting the luncheon theme "Gone With the Wind." The place cards, unusually unique, were miniature dolls, dressed in gowns similar to those worn by the characters in Margaret Mitchell's novel.

The program, presented during the afternoon, embraced character sketches and scenes from this popular novel.

A delicious four-course luncheon was served interspersed with musical numbers and dramatic readings.

Miss Clara Friberg gave a beautiful rendition of Nocturne by Chopin and Impromptu by Schubert. Mrs. C. R. Pedigo's lovely mezzo soprano voice was heard in Teresa Del Piego's "The Greatest Wish in the World." Mrs. Hortense Vaughn gave a reading in characteristic manner.

The program was bought to a close with a musical quiz given by Mrs. V. S. Garnett. Mrs. C. R. Pedigo won an attractive gift for high score.

At this time Mrs. J. Norman Coon the outgoing president was presented with a handsome pin by Mrs. L. V. Tarver.

The long court train was carried by two beautiful little pages, Leila Doyle Stevens and Little Sister Frazer, in white tulle ballet costumes and rhinestone Juliet caps.

Members of the king's court wore dwarf woodmen costumes of shimmering, irredescent satin with jaunty silver caps and feathers. The queen's court, lovely members of the younger set, wore irredescent gauze models in all the pastel shades. They were fashioned with tight-fitting bodices and long, full skirts. In the guise of fairies, they wore silver gauze wings and carried fairy wands of silver.

Court members were Ann Brown, Gail Stewart, June Griffin, Joy Harper, Sally Foster, Rhoda Kellogg, Patsy Snelling, Louise Tisdale, John Kelso, Malcolm Steen, Wilfred Ellis, Dean Selig, Jr., George Tippit, James Brown, Billy Morris Inabnet and Billy Sykes.

Following the coronation the king and queen and members of the court were entertained by several talented danseuses including the two pages, Little Sister Frazer and Leila Doyle Stevens, who gave a remarkable interpretation of the ballet.

Others who entertained with charming numbers were: Mary Lou Young, tap dancer; Louise Jackie Voorhies, Spanish toe dancer; Carol Layton, ballet; Rita Church and Jimmy Le Blanc, jitter-bug dancers; Louise Tisdale and Marvin Gleason, soloists.

Several group dances were also included in the program.

Later in the evening the king and queen descended the throne and joined the merrymakers.

The highlight of the evening's program was the balloon number. Myriad multi-colored balloons caught in a net high overhead were unleashed and came fluttering down. All hands were outstretched to capture these favors.

A seven-piece orchestra supplied entrancing music for the occasion. Mrs. Charles Bennett, pianist, accompanied the performers featured on the evening's program.

As customary each year an invitation was extended by Mrs. Layton to parents and friends of her pupils, who watched the festivities from the sidelines. A greater number of spectators than ever before were noted this year and more interest displayed over the costuming than ever before.

Mrs. Layton's annual ball is now a tradition in Monroe. Inaugurated nine years ago on rather a small scale in the ballroom of the Layton castle, it has now grown to such proportions the ballroom does not afford sufficient room for dancers and spectators.

The dancers were: Patsy Zeigin, Angeline Swift, Gail Stewart, Gwen Walker, June Griffin, Ann Brown, June Lewis, Carol Layton, Sue Armstrong, Barbara Ellis, Mary Enta Lennon, Nora Marie Lennon, Helen Steen, Emily Cunningham, Betty Jane Tucker, John Reardon, Brooks Dawkins, Robert Layton, Patsy Snelling, Joy Harper, Sally Foster, Luther Stewart, Esther Ewing, Aylmer Montgomery, Tommy Wright, Alma Jean Linquist, Sue Atkinson, Sophie Davidson, Ned Wilson, Monty Frazier, Henry Guerriero, Tommy Sandridge, Billy Pedigo, Mimi Madden, Tommy Merrill, Betty Merrill, Clarence Halcombe, Jene Hodges, Malcolm Steen, Rosalie Riley, Ann Buckley, Mary Jo Wolfe, Leo Miles, Ray Braswell, William Whitfield, James McElveen, Gladden Walters, Robert Vaughan, Clayton Bennett, Sam Brothers, Jo Ann McVay, Phanor Perot, C. D. Oakley, Jr., Katherine Enochs, Bill and Joe Durrett, Mary Carolyn Swain, Emmet Carmina, Jane Shea, George Tippit, Donald Wadley, Dorothy Carmina, Martha Lena John, Jack Easterling, Edith McWilliams, Margaret Gamble, Helen Aycock, Harry Bell, Herbert Land, Harry Frazer, Jr., Bunny Zeigin, Merilyn Bush and Rhoda Kellogg.

Mrs. S. W. Brown and Mr. Thomas Gilhula, now in charge of the Monroe Public library, find an ever increasing patronage now that spring is on the way.

The turn of the season's never fail to revive an interest in books and especially during the spring season when a certain restlessness is appeased by reading.

For the restless ones who are looking for something interesting to read at this time, the librarians suggest the following, recently received and placed on the shelves for patrons: "Kitty Foyle," by Christopher Morley, which tops the best-seller list; "The Nazarene," by Sholem Arch which is a good book to read during Lent, being a new version of the gospels; "No Arms, No Armour," by Robert Henriques which is the fifteen thousand dollar all nations prize novel.

Besides these, "Portrait of Jennie" by Robert Nathan; "An Old Captivity" by Nevil Shute, and "How Green Was My Valley" by Richard Llewellyn, are most favorably reviewed by the critics.

The library also has John Gunthers' new edition of "Inside Europe"; "Through Embassey Eyes" by Martha Dodd; "Letters to Mary," by Catherine Hayes Brown (this being the story of Helen Hayes.); "Country Lawyer" by Bellamy Partridge and "Revolution of Nihilism" by Herman Rauschning.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bell and Mrs. L. V. Tarver spent a few days last week in El Dorado, where they attended "Gone With the Wind."

Parent-Teacher News

Georgia Tucker

The Georgia Tucker Parent-Teacher association met in regular session February 17, the president, Mrs. W. R. Hatchell, presiding. Minutes of the last meeting and several letters of interest to P.-T. A. members were read by the secretary, Mrs. Aylmer Montgomery.

Mrs. Elmer Richards urged members to attend the book review given by Mrs. Elizabeth McCranie the following Friday.

A report was given of the one day institute held in Ruston February 3 by Mrs. Hatchell.

The main project of the Georgia Tucker school this year is to make a documentary film of school activities, the first of which was made Thursday afternoon of P.-T. A. members by Messrs. W. R. Hatchell and Johnson.

"Founder's Day," was the theme of the talks following. Mrs. W. E. Leigh, whose subject was "History of Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association," reviewed the P.-T. A. since the founding of this organization 43 years ago.

An article on "Founder's Day Acrostic" was then most interestingly read by Mrs. W. M. Harper, during which the 43 candles on a beautifully embossed birthday cake were lighted by Mrs. John Atkinson and Mrs. Birdsong.

A contribution was taken for extension work in child welfare.

After the room count was taken, a social hour was enjoyed; the hostesses for this occasion were Mesdames Atkinson, Bornman and Cruthirds.

St. Matthew's

The Better Citizenship committee of the St. Matthew's P.-T. A., under the direction of Mrs. Stanley Hodges and including able welfare workers of St. Matthew's, is putting into action the plans of the program adopted by the committee. This program embraces all the activities of the health, welfare and summer round-up of the school. A direct line of action is the clean-up program among the students. Already little Willie and Mary Sue have brought home to their mothers gaily colored charts to hang in the bathroom. Each time hands and faces are washed a check appears on the proper date. Other instructions include brushing of teeth, cleaning nails, brushing of hair.

The committee will make personal visits into the homes of the underprivileged in order to assist and advise with the mothers in matters pertaining to health and welfare.

This better citizenship committee has a great responsibility and the members of the committee are active and well trained by previous work of this kind. This program of making better citizens is a program which covers each individual student of the school. Not only must the workers of the committee be active and well trained, but must be able to give of their time unstintingly. In the cafeteria of the school, the underprivileged are fed hot lunches. Clothing is also supplied the needy. Assisting Mrs. Hodges are Mrs. Paul Keller, Mrs. M. P. Kutz, Mrs. E. L. Ritter, Mrs. T. L. Morris, Mrs. William Zinsmeister and Mrs. Pat Curtin.

A. L. Smith

The A. L. Smith Parent-Teacher association of Sterlington celebrated Founders' day at the February meeting. The meeting was held in the school auditorium and was at night, so as to permit the fathers to attend.

Mrs. A. B. Billings, president, presided. Mrs. John King prepared an interesting program. She gave the history of P.-T. A., then directed a pageant which was presented by several sixth and seventh grade girls.

Following the Founders' day program, the Sterlington girls club gave a play entitled "Alice Blue Gown," which was also directed by Mrs. John King.

The roll call resulted in Mr. O. K. Bailey's seventh grade having the highest percentage of parents present.

The fund festival, which was to be held in February, was put off until March, due to so much influenza in the community.

At the conclusion of the program, a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served, using Washington birthday favors. Hostesses were the faculty and several ladies of the community.

Luncheon Held By Opera Club

Luncheon in the Blueroom of the Frances hotel on Thursday was a bright spot on the calendar of events in Opera club circles.

It was the annual luncheon with Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. R. O. Ware, Mrs. Charles Bennett and Mrs. L. V. Tarver, serving as hostesses.

The table was most attractive with mirrors down the full length encircled with tapers reflecting the luncheon theme "Gone With the Wind." The place cards, unusually unique, were miniature dolls, dressed in gowns similar to those worn by the characters in Margaret Mitchell's novel.

The program, presented during the afternoon, embraced character sketches and scenes from this popular novel.

A delicious four-course luncheon was served interspersed with musical numbers and dramatic readings.

Miss Clara Friberg gave a beautiful rendition of Nocturne by Chopin and Impromptu by Schubert. Mrs. C. R. Pedigo's lovely mezzo soprano voice was heard in Teresa Del Piego's "The Greatest Wish in the World." Mrs. Hortense Vaughn gave a reading in characteristic manner.

The program was bought to a close with a musical quiz given by Mrs. V. S. Garnett. Mrs. C. R. Pedigo won an attractive gift for high score.

Miss Addie Gilbert Is Guest Of Honor

Mrs. Tom Gilbert, Mrs. R. L. Segrest And Mrs. Edgar E. Ewing Hostesses At Wisner

Mrs. Tom Gilbert, Mrs. R. L. Segrest and Mrs. Edgar E. Ewing were hosts at a morning coffee at Wisner Friday honoring Miss Addie Gilbert, bride-elect, at the home of Mrs. Tom Gilbert.

Miss Gilbert was charming in a black taffeta princess model with touches of white lingerie. She and her mother, Mrs. Harry W. Gilbert, and Mrs. Edgar E. Ewing stood in the receiving line.

In the dining room the long table was covered with a hand-painted white linen cloth. In the center of the table was a beautifully embossed three-tiered bride's cake topped with two red hearts on which was inscribed "Addie and Bobby." On either side of the cake stood heavy silver candelabra holding tall red tapers. Mrs. Lannie Calhoun, Jr., and Miss Dorothy Mae Sherrouse sat at either end of the table pouring coffee. Delicious canapes were served. A butler served sandwiches and tiny hot buttered biscuits on a silver salver. Cookies in twos with an "A" on one and a "B" on the other intrigued the fancy as did mints and nuts.

Mrs. Calhoun, who is a talented musician, rendered appropriate music on the piano throughout the morning. Mrs. E. Asa Kiper announced the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Gilbert to Robert Mitchell Hammons and wished the honoree all kinds of happiness in the name of the guests assembled.

The wedding will take place on March 9 in the Methodist church at Wisner with Rev. Howard Hammons, a young Baptist minister and brother of the groom, officiating.

Current Literature Club Holds Meeting

The members of the Current Literature club were cordially welcomed by Mrs. Philip C. Benedict at her home on Wednesday.

Following the short business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. G. M. Heidenreich, the members and guest were treated to a most enjoyable program devoted to two of our greatest Americans whose births are celebrated in the month of February—George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. Mrs. J. M. Menefee, in the absence of Mrs. R. G. John, gave an informative short biography of George Washington, reminding those present of the legacies he left to the American nation. Mrs. Leon Dennis delivered a short paper on the life of Abraham Lincoln, brought to such an untimely end by a zealous southern patriot.

The "piece de resistance" of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Earl Stovall in her review of Philip Van Doren Stern's "The Man Who Killed Lincoln." In this fictional account, we find not only a story of one of the most dramatic episodes in American history but also a study of the mind of the assassinator, John Wilkes Booth.

Written by a man who nourishes an inspired fondness for books, this great dramatic tragedy gives us action, suspense, terror, mystery and sudden death. Throughout the dramatic account, we find Booth's point of view, his reactions—from the night of April 11, 1865, when he listens to Lincoln's speech hailing Lee's surrender, the last preparations made with his conspirators on April 14, 1865, the firing of the fatal shot in Ford's theater, his escape, his treatment at the home of Doctor Mudd on April 15, up to his death in the barn in Virginia, burned by the Federal troops. Mr. Stern's intensive research and his scrupulous attention to facts and details gives us, without a doubt, the truest and most complete account of the assassination and of Wilkes Booth's flight and capture ever presented to the public.

Refreshments were served during the social interlude to Mesdames J. E. Bryan, Leon Dennis, Mike John, Jr., G. M. Heidenreich, J. C. Kramer, Jr., J. M. Menefee, Louis Peters, R. F. Seiler, William Whitfield, Earl Stovall, G. B. Watkins, Jordon Barton, M. J. Carbone, R. L. Conway, Jr., Philip C. Benedict and Miss Mary Cearley, an out-of-town visitor.

Readers Clique Holds Meeting

An inspirational meeting of the Reader's Clique was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mike John, Jr. The meeting was opened with the reading of the collect, which contains in concise form the aims and ideals embodied in the club. The collect is, in part:

"Help us, O God, to rebuild the world for more splendid lives than ours. Accustom us to work not for the snatched profit but for the common good and for the planned destiny of mankind. Free us from the triple course of greed, intolerance and vainglory. Help us to establish comradeship and to exemplify in our lives the spirit of good will and understanding. Let us attribute to those who differ from us the same degree of sincerity that we claim for ourselves. May we do more than live and let live; may we live and help live."

A report was made by the program committee and true and false statements were given by the club to be entered in a national contest.

During the social hour, the hostess presided over several games of bingo and a lovely pot plant was presented Mrs. S. L. Morgan. Members present were Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. Cecil Blanchard, Mrs. E. Miss Addie Gilbert Is Guest Of Honor

Mrs. Tom Gilbert, Mrs. R. L. Segrest And Mrs. Edgar E. Ewing Hostesses At Wisner

Mrs. Tom Gilbert, Mrs. R. L. Segrest and Mrs. Edgar E. Ewing were hosts at a morning coffee at Wisner Friday honoring Miss Addie Gilbert, bride-elect, at the home of Mrs. Tom Gilbert.

The spacious and flower-decked home of Mrs. Gilbert was thrown open to a number of guests.

Miss Gilbert was charming in a black taffeta princess model with touches of white lingerie. She and her mother, Mrs. Harry W. Gilbert, and Mrs. Edgar E. Ewing stood in the receiving line.

In the dining room the long table was covered with a hand-painted white linen cloth. In the center of the table was a beautifully embossed three-tiered bride's cake topped with two red hearts on which was inscribed "Addie and Bobby." On either side of the cake stood heavy silver candelabra holding tall red tapers. Mrs. Lannie Calhoun, Jr., and Miss Dorothy Mae Sherrouse sat at either end of the table pouring coffee. Delicious canapes were served. A butler served sandwiches and tiny hot buttered biscuits on a silver salver. Cookies in twos with an "A" on one and a "B" on the other intrigued the fancy as did mints and nuts.

Mrs. Calhoun, who is a talented musician, rendered appropriate music on the piano throughout the morning. Mrs. E. Asa Kiper announced the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Gilbert to Robert Mitchell Hammons and wished the honoree all kinds of happiness in the name of the guests assembled.

The wedding will take place on March 9 in the Methodist church at Wisner with Rev. Howard Hammons, a young Baptist minister and brother of the groom, officiating.

Current Literature Club Holds Meeting

The members of the Current Literature club were cordially welcomed by Mrs. Philip C. Benedict at her home on Wednesday.

Following the short business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. G. M. Heidenreich, the members and guest were treated to a most enjoyable program devoted to two of our greatest Americans whose births are celebrated in the month of February—George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. Mrs. J. M. Menefee, in the absence of Mrs. E. G. John, gave an informative short biography of George Washington, reminding those present of the legacies he left to the American nation. Mrs. Leon Dennis delivered a short paper on the life of Abraham Lincoln, brought to such an untimely end by a zealous southern patriot.

The "piece de resistance" of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Earl Stovall in her review of Philip Van Doren Stern's "The Man Who Killed Lincoln." In this fictional account, we find not only a story of one of the most dramatic episodes in American history but also a study of the mind of the assassinator, John Wilkes Booth.

Written by a man who nourishes an inspired fondness for books, this great dramatic tragedy gives us action, suspense, terror, mystery and sudden death. Throughout the dramatic account, we find Booth's point of view, his reactions—from the night of April 11, 1865, when he listens to Lincoln's speech hailing Lee's surrender, the last preparations made with his conspirators on April 14, 1865, the firing of the fatal shot in Ford's theater, his escape, his treatment at the home of Doctor Mudd on April 15, up to his death in the barn in Virginia, burned by the Federal troops. Mr. Stern's intensive research and his scrupulous attention to facts and details gives us, without a doubt, the truest and most complete account of the assassination and of Wilkes Booth's flight and capture ever presented to the public.

Refreshments were served during the social interlude to Mesdames J. E. Bryan, Leon Dennis, Mike John, Jr., G. M. Heidenreich, J. C. Kramer, Jr., J. M. Menefee, Louis Peters, R. F. Seiler, William Whitfield, Earl Stovall, G. B. Watkins, Jordon Barton, M. J. Carbone, R. L. Conway, Jr., Philip C. Benedict and Miss Mary Cearley, an out-of-town visitor.

Readers Clique Holds Meeting

An inspirational meeting of the Reader's Clique was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mike John, Jr. The meeting was opened with the reading of the collect, which contains in concise form the aims and ideals embodied in the club. The collect is, in part:

"Help us, O God, to rebuild the world for more splendid lives than ours. Accustom us to work not for the snatched profit but for the common good and for the planned destiny of mankind. Free us from the triple course of greed, intolerance and vainglory. Help us to establish comradeship and to exemplify in our lives the spirit of good will and understanding. Let us attribute to those who differ from us the same degree of sincerity that we claim for ourselves. May we do more than live and let live; may we live and help live."

A report was made by the program committee and true and false statements were given by the club to be entered in a national contest.

During the social hour, the hostess presided over several games of bingo and a lovely pot plant was presented Mrs. S. L. Morgan. Members present were Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. Cecil Blanchard, Mrs. E. L. Marchman, Mrs. J. L. Whitfield, Mrs. Raymond John, Mrs. Merrill Williams, Mrs. Clay Olson, Mrs. X. Holt and Mrs. J. Leon Dennis.

'Remember The Night' Opens Engagement At Paramount

Stanwyck, MacMurray Star In Hit

Perfect Blend Of Author, Director And Cast Reported In New Film

THE motion picture described by its studio as a perfect blend of author, director and cast, "Remember the Night," comes to the Paramount theater today after an intensive critical fanfare which seems to list the new production with such light-hearted romances as "It Happened One Night," "Honeymoon in Bali" and "Midnight." The picture co-stars Barbara Stanwyck and Fred MacMurray.

"Remember the Night," according to advance releases, is a gay story which gets serious at times but which maintains its comedy pitch throughout. It concerns a young assistant district attorney who is used by his chief in prosecutions involving women mostly because he has a way with them.

He has an unbroken record for convictions until he bumps up against a beautiful gem thief. Imbued with Christmas spirit, he goes bail for her so that she won't have to spend the holiday in jail, and then finds that she has no place to go. So he takes her back with him to his Indiana home for the holidays, meaning to resume the prosecution when they return. But he falls in love with her and thereby the complications arise.

Mitchell Leisen, who proved his light touch in such comedy-romances as "Easy Living," "Artists and Models Abroad" and the Claudette Colbert success, "Midnight," directed this new hit.

For the role of the young, ambitious, district attorney, Leisen chose Fred MacMurray, who played similar roles in "Champagne Waltz," "Swing High, Swing Low," "Cafe Society" and the recent hit, "Honeymoon in Bali."

The casting for the feminine lead was a little more difficult. The girl had to be fairly hard-boiled, beautiful, and despite her profession, a sympathetic character. So the job went to Barbara Stanwyck, who proved she could handle just such roles in "Internes Can't Take Money," the Cecil B. De Mille epic, "Union Pacific," and, later, "Golden Boy."

For the homey folk back in Indiana, Beulah Bondi was chosen to play the role of MacMurray's mother; Elizabeth Patterson to play his persnippety aunt; Sterling Holloway for the boy-of-all work, and "Fuzzy" Knight as leader of the farm-boy band which goes to town at a New Year's eve barn dance.

The author is also famous in his own as a source of light, right comedy. He's Preston Sturges, best remembered for his "Strictly Dishonorable," "One Rainy Afternoon," "Easy Living and "The Good Fairy."

All in all, says Hollywood, "Remember the Night" presents a perfect blend of author, director, and cast.

A movement to procure a permanent home for the Thompson Wood Lee camp No. 9, United Spanish War Veterans, and its auxiliary was launched at a meeting Friday night of local veterans. Dr. P. M. Gayle, camp commander, presided.

Members also voted to revive the activities of the veterans' council, an organization composed of camp and post commanders and two appointed delegates from each of the various units of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled Veterans of the World War, and the United Spanish War Veterans. Inactive for the past two years, the group functioned efficiently in this area for several years. It carries no executive authority, but acts in an advisory capacity, meeting at intervals to discuss matters of general interest to all veterans and make recommendations to the various member units.

An invitation was received by the camp from Thompson Wood Lee auxiliary No. 10 to attend a "birthday party" to be given at camp headquarters Thursday.

Attending the meeting were Commander Gayle, Sargent P. Ogden, senior vice-commander; J. F. Black, quartermaster; R. W. Germany, adjutant; W. B. Mangham, W. J. Vinson, C. A. Hunt, Alonzo Carter, R. D. Brooks, C. A. Womack, Frank B. Chase and Elmer Webb.

SIDNEY MARIE LOEB MAKES HIGH RECORD AT STATE UNIVERSITY

A letter advising him that Miss Sydney Marie Loeb, a 1939 graduate of Neville High school, had distinguished herself in her scholastic work at Louisiana State university in Baton Rouge during the first semester of the current session was received here by Paul Neal, principal of the high school. It was from Joyce Jones, assistant to the dean of the junior division of the university.

The letter, in part, follows:

"The junior division of the university takes pride in calling your attention to the splendid scholastic record made by Miss Sydney Marie Loeb, a graduate of your high school.

"During the first semester of the current session Miss Loeb earned an average of at least half 'A' grades and half 'B' grades. This is an achievement which was attained by only thirty-three freshman women.

"Let me take this means of congratulating you and your school for preparing students who are able to do this type of college work."

'The Saint' In New Film At Capitol

Latest Of Thrilling Crime-Adventure Melodramas Starts Today

LEAPING from the action-drenched pages of fiction's most amazing series of crime-adventure melodramas, The Saint, a dashing debonaire but deadly killer, returns to the local screen soon in the most exciting chapter of his colorful career —"The Saint's Double Trouble." A movement to procure a permanent home for the Thompson Wood Lee camp No. 9, United Spanish War Veterans, and its auxiliary was launched at a meeting Friday night of local veterans. Dr. P. M. Gayle, camp commander, presided.

Members also voted to revive the activities of the veterans' council, an organization composed of camp and post commanders and two appointed delegates from each of the various units of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled Veterans of the World War, and the United Spanish War Veterans. Inactive for the past two years, the group functioned efficiently in this area for several years. It carries no executive authority, but acts in an advisory capacity, meeting at intervals to discuss matters of general interest to all veterans and make recommendations to the various member units.

An invitation was received by the camp from Thompson Wood Lee auxiliary No. 10 to attend a "birthday party" to be given at camp headquarters Thursday.

Attending the meeting were Commander Gayle, Sargent P. Ogden, senior vice-commander; J. F. Black, quartermaster; R. W. Germany, adjutant; W. B. Mangham, W. J. Vinson, C. A. Hunt, Alonzo Carter, R. D. Brooks, C. A. Womack, Frank B. Chase and Elmer Webb.

The next regular meeting will be on Friday, April 5.

SIDNEY MARIE LOEB MAKES HIGH RECORD AT STATE UNIVERSITY

A letter advising him that Miss Sydney Marie Loeb, a 1939 graduate of Neville High school, had distinguished herself in her scholastic work at Louisiana State university in Baton Rouge during the first semester of the current session was received here by Paul Neal, principal of the high school. It was from Joyce Jones, assistant to the dean of the junior division of the university.

The letter, in part, follows:

"The junior division of the university takes pride in calling your attention to the splendid scholastic record made by Miss Sydney Marie Loeb, a graduate of your high school.

"During the first semester of the current session Miss Loeb earned an average of at least half 'A' grades and half 'B' grades. This is an achievement which was attained by only thirty-three freshman women.

"Let me take this means of congratulating you and your school for preparing students who are able to do this type of college work."

LOCAL POULTRY FLOCKS TESTED

Ouachita Parish Now Has 52 Units Approved By Government Body

Ouachita parish now boasts 52 United States approved pullorum-tested flocks and hatcheries, according to Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent.

Members of the Louisiana Poultry Improvement association, the owners of these chickens put into practice the association's program to aid farm people and poultrymen in building better poultry flocks and increase their profits, the agent explained. In Louisiana, the program is carried on as a joint project between the United States department of agriculture, bureau of animal industry, Louisiana State university livestock sanitary board and the L. S. U. college of agriculture.

Each bird in approved tested flocks is selected for breed characteristics, size, vigor, freedom from blindness and paralysis, production qualities, and is tested for pullorum disease by authorized selecting agents, according to Mrs. McQuiller. Only standard breeds and varieties are qualified as breeding stock, she said, and all cull birds are removed from the breeding flocks.

No eggs weighing less than 1 11/12 ounces are used to produce United States approved chicks, the agent stated. Eggs must be sound in shell and reasonably free from tints in the case of eggs of the white shell breeds, she said. All approved hatcheries are inspected at least once during the hatching season and at least one-third of the flocks supplying eggs to each approved hatchery are officially inspected; flocks not meeting the rigid requirement of the plan are rejected, thus insuring buyers of getting chicks of high quality, Mrs. McQuiller pointed out.

Following is a list of owners of Ouachita's approved flocks and hatcheries: Mrs. John McClusky of Swartz, Mr. W. A. Singleton of West Monroe, John H. Dumas of West Monroe, Mrs. Fabe Ingram of West Monroe, Mrs. M. R. Coon of West Monroe, R. C. Mahaffey of West Monroe, Mrs. J. R. Frantom of West Monroe, Edwin Johnson of West Monroe, Mrs. J. S. S.S.S. TONIC must be good
So many people take it
—to increase appetite
—to boost energy

COUNTLESS thousands of men and women can testify to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought them.

The facts are simple because of all conditions effecting the human body a low blood count is most deceptive. If you feel rundown . . . lack a keen appetite . . . have lost weight . . . don't give up until you restore those precious red-blood-cells back to normal.

S.S.S. Tonic may be just what you need to get you on the right road to health and happiness again.

In S.S.S. Tonic you go after the trouble in two ways . . . first you increase the appetite and better your stomach digestion—thus making better use of the food you eat—secondly, thin, weak, watery blood is made rich and red again thus giving you a boost in energy.

Try S.S.S. which any drug store can supply and no ethical dealer will suggest a substitute. The big 20 oz. size is a two week's treatment and represents a saving in the purchase price. ©S.S.S. Co.

ASSEMBLY OF GOD
Cypress And Crosley Streets
West Monroe
E. L. Tanner, Pastor

We had fine attendance in all services last Sunday. Weather being favorable, we are expecting a much larger attendance today. Our services will begin with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m., S. W. Hamilton, superintendent. Preaching hours are 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The pastor will preach at both services. Christ Ambassador class meets at 6:30 p.m. All plans are complete for the revival that begins March 10. We are looking forward to a great revival at this time. We invite you to meet with us in all our services, especially if you are a stranger or visitor in the city.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
St. John And Gramment Streets
L. T. Hastings, Pastor
D. C. Black, Pastor's Associate

Special recognition will be given to various people who attend our services Sunday night to hear the pastor deliver his second sermon on "Marriage and the Home," the fourth sermon of the ten feature Sunday night services during the ten weeks of loyalty campaign. Appropriate gifts will be presented to the couple that has been married the longest, the couple that has the most children present, to the couple most recently married, and to the youngest grandmother. Seats will be reserved for the couples that have been united in marriage by the pastor during his more than fourteen years of ministry in Monroe. This ought to be the most impressive and most helpful service in this series. Everybody is invited. "The Why of Suffering" will be the subject of the pastor's message Sunday morning—a subject that has caused the average Christian more doubt and difficulty than any other. Why does God permit suffering and sorrow? Superintendent Miller and his corps of Sunday school officers and teachers are pulling hard for 1,000 in attendance Sunday morning. The Baptist Training union and the Brotherhood hold their meetings at 6:15. Old members are expected to be present; new members and visitors are always welcome.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
West Monroe
Dr. A. E. Prince, Pastor
Professor Dallas Goss, Music Director
Miss Beulah Doerr, Educational Director

The pastor was called to Illinois last Sunday for a funeral and the pulpit of this church was supplied by Rev. Brownlow Hastings. The members of the congregation greatly appreciated his fine messages. Continuing his plan for pre-revival services, the pastor will preach at both hours today on the subjects he would have used last Sunday. His subject for the morning hour is "Back to Bethel," and he will continue the study of the Ten Commandments at the evening hour, preaching from the seventh commandment, using as his subject "The Sin That is Damning Society." The Sunday school meets at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship 10:50 a.m. The B. T. U. leaders will meet at 6 p.m. General B. T. U. meeting and Brotherhood at 6:30 p.m. Evening worship at 7:30 p.m. You are invited.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH
812 Mississippi Street
I. J. Brooks, Pastor
Mas Braswell, Choir Director

With the coming of the beautiful spring weather and the influenza epidemic subsiding, we have a right to expect a great increase in attendance at all the services of the church. One of our B. T. U. member, Max Braswell, attended the B. T. U. clinic held in New Orleans last week. He brought back a most excellent report of the meeting. The southern division of the Associational Baptist Training union meets with our church on Monday night, March 4. Don't miss this important meeting. It will bring both information and inspiration and it will make Miss Gertrude smile to have a big attendance from "her union." Another important thing to remember is the contest between the Men's class and the Women's class of the Sunday school. The men will have to remember not to let the women outnumber them like they did last Sunday. The pastor's morning subject will be "Bearing and Sharing" (Hebrews 11:18). The evening message will be evangelistic. Visitors and friends invited. At this church you will find a comfortable pew and a wecome for you.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH MONROE

Dale Cobb, Choir Director

The Sunday school opens 9:45 a. m. It is hoped that the fine weather of March will bring a larger attendance and better work in all departments. The superintendant has plans for continued progress in the Bible teaching and it is hoped that we will be on time and bring our friends to this service today. Baptist Training union 6:30 p. m. There is a group for every age and a splendid program arranged. Especially do we urge all members of the church to attend the training service. The pastor's sermon subjects today are: "Incentives to Christian Service," morning; "Honoring God or the Antipode," evening. See Prov. 3:9. Among the greatest privileges of man is that of honoring the Lord. Man's vilest act is to dishonor the Lord. If earthly children are promised long life as a reward for honoring their earthly parents, how much more should we receive in honoring God. The W. M. S. meets at the church for a business session Monday at 2 p. m. All the ladies are urged to be present. The Wednesday night prayer meeting will be conducted by Dale Cobb.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, March 3, 1940. The golden text is "God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ" (II Corinthians 4). Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ" (John 1). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Our Master taught no mere theory, doctrine or belief. It was the divine principle of all real being which he taught and practiced" (p. 26).

STONE AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

There are many things which God does in which we have no part. God paints the clouds and the golden sunsets; He keeps the stars in their orbits; He sends showers and sunshine; He paints the roses and the lily, and scents them with their sweetness. But there are other things which are just as great and beautiful in which He permits us to be co-workers. He gives us the opportunity through service to put the tints of immortal beauty on human souls. What an honor to be a co-wokrer with Jesus Christ in the transforming of lives, the dispelling of darkness, misery and sin; the bringing of light, happiness and righteousness to human souls. It is not what our life is in wealth, culture, and attainment, but what our life is in service to others that is the test of greatness. Today, March 3, is roll call. For some four weeks we have been working toward the goal, every member present at service on this date. This week is to prepare [illegible] the ten weeks loyalty campaign to be launched next Sunday. Mrs. [illegible] [illegible] engages [illegible] members who have served [illegible] [illegible] to keep pace with opportunity. As a part of this loyalty campaign [illegible] endeavor to help these [illegible] and inspire them to [illegible] Christian service. Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p.m. Miss [illegible] Voss leader. Evening service at 7:30. Circles meet Tuesday afternoon at [illegible] with circle No. 1 meeting with Mrs. G. B. Haynes, West Monroe. Circle No. 2 will meet with Mrs. H. F. Boyd, at 1016 Georgia street. The [illegible] Wednesday evening prayer service will be led by Mrs. R. W. [illegible].

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

March is the last month of the church year. During this month we are asked to underwrite the budget, a copy of which has been mailed each family of the congregation to pay up the obligations assumed to the church, and to work and pray for a large ingathering of people. Will you cooperate with the church officers? The diaconate, the financial agents of the church, is anxious that the members act voluntarily. "God loveth a cheerful giver." And the session, the spiritual and controlling body of the church, is especially concerned about the enlistment of all people who are Presbyterians by training, desire and belief. The door of our church is open to every one who accepts and trusts Jesus, the Christ. With the aid of the membership and the favors of God, the Holy Ghost, we propose to reach our goal, a membership of 1,000 by April 1, 1942. "Eternal Life or Death" and "The Rewards of Faithful Service" are the subjects of our messages. You are urged to attend the Sabbath school. Our mission is spiritual and our one aim is a worship that will bless and inspire. A cordial welcome awaits you.

Western Auto Is Allowing Slashing Discount On Tires

Here's your chance to effect a definite saving on your tires. Western Auto Associate store, 419 DeSiard street, is offering a 30 per cent trade-in discount in addition to its attractive low prices on Davis Safety-Grip and Davis DeLuxe tires.

Think of it, an old tire pays 30 per cent on a Davis Safety-Grip or a Davis DeLuxe! Then, on top of that, you can pay the balance in easy payments as low as $1 a week.

As little as $7.18 and an old tire will put a Davis Safety-Grip on your car. A Davis DeLuxe is available for as little as $6.06 together with an old tire.

That in itself sounds plenty attractive, doesn't it? Well, this enhances the attraction still further. Davis Safety Grip and Davis DeLuxe tires are tires with national reputation. And they are guaranteed to the hilt.

No better tires for the price are built than Davis Safety Grip and Davis DeLuxe. People who are using them swear by them. They give long wear and they cling to the road under the most adverse weather conditions.

Chris Grammatas Chef At Primos

There's a very definite reason for the distinctive flavor of the food served by Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria, corner of DeSiard and North Fourth streets. It's the chef, Chris Grammatas.

Grammatas, who has followed his profession in the larger cities of the nation, came to Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria recently from Houston, Tex. A native of the orient, he is a graduate of the Lewis Hotel and Cook school of Washington, D. C.

This schooling thoroughly acquainted him with American dishes, but his childhood recollection of oriental cookery has enabled him to improve on them. He has added many new and delicate dishes to the menu since coming to Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria, particularly in the line of sweet dishes. Sweets are particularly favored in the eastern countries, as everyone is more or less aware.

Chef Grammatas offers an extraordinary variety of food at Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria, with a change of menu every day. With regular lunches and dinners, he offers a selection of five desserts, for instance.

Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria features the highest quality in food, service and environment at popular prices. To provide its patrons with the best, it operates its own bakery to make its bread and pastries.

No more tempting seafood can be had than that served in season by Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria. Those who like seafood at its best will tell you so.

And just think, turkey and fresh strawberries can be had the year-around at Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria.

In sanitation and attractiveness, Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria is unsurpassed. And to give the public the ultimate in service, it maintains a staff of 35 employes and remains open all night.

LOCAL POULTRY FLOCKS TESTED

Ouachita Parish Now Has 52 Units Approved By Government Body

Ouachita parish now boasts 52 United States approved pullorum-tested flocks and hatcheries, according to Mrs. Jewel McQuilier, parish home demonstration agent.

Members of the Louisiana Poultry Improvement association, the owners of these chickens put into practice the association's program to aid farm people and poultrymen in building better poultry flocks and increase their profits, the agent explained. In Louisiana, the program is carried on as a joint project between the United States department of agriculture, bureau of animal industry, Louisiana State university livestock sanitary board and the L. S. U. college of agriculture.

Each bird in approved tested flocks is selected for breed characteristics, size, vigor, freedom from blindness and paralysis, production qualities, and is tested for pullorum disease by authorized selecting agents, according to Mrs. McQuiller. Only standard breeds and varieties are qualified as breeding stock, she said, and all cull birds are removed from the breeding flocks.

No eggs weighing less than 1 11/12 ounces are used to produce United States approved chicks, the agent stated. Eggs must be sound in shell and reasonably free from tints in the case of eggs of the white shell breeds, she said. All approved hatcheries are inspected at least once during the hatching season and at least one-third of the flocks supplying eggs to each approved hatchery are officially inspected; flocks not meeting the rigid requirement of the plan are rejected, thus insuring buyers of getting chicks of high quality, Mrs. McQuiller pointed out.

Following is a list of owners of Ouachita's approved flocks and hatcheries: Mrs. John McClusky of Swartz, Mr. W. A. Singleton of West Monroe, John H. Dumas of West Monroe, Mrs. Fabe Ingram of West Monroe, Mrs. M. R. Coon of West Monroe, R. C. Mahaffey of West Monroe, Mrs. J. R. Frantom of West Monroe, Edwin Johnson of West Monroe, Mrs. J. S. S.S.S. TONIC
So many people take it
—to increase appetite
—to boost energy

COUNTLESS thousands of men and women can testify to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought them.

The facts are simple because of all conditions effecting the human body a low blood count is most deceptive. If you feel rundown . . . lack a keen appetite . . . have lost weight . . . don't give up until you restore those precious red-blood-cells back to normal.

S.S.S. Tonic may be just what you need to get you on the right road to health and happiness again.

In S.S.S. Tonic you go after the trouble in two ways . . . first you increase the appetite and better your stomach digestion—thus making better use of the food you eat—secondly, thin, weak, watery blood is made rich and red again thus giving you a boost in energy.

Try S.S.S. which any drug store can supply and no ethical dealer will suggest a substitute. The big 20 oz. size is a two week's treatment and represents a saving in the purchase price. ©S.S.S. Co.

ASSEMBLY OF GOD
Cypress And Crosley Streets
West Monroe
E. L. Tanner, Pastor

We had fine attendance in all services last Sunday. Weather being favorable, we are expecting a much larger attendance today. Our services will begin with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m., S. W. Hamilton, superintendent. Preaching hours are 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The pastor will preach at both services. Christ Ambassador class meets at 6:30 p.m. All plans are complete for the revival that begins March 10. We are looking forward to a great revival at this time. We invite you to meet with us in all our services, especially if you are a stranger or visitor in the city.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
St. John And Grammont Streets
L. T. Hastings, Pastor
D. C. Black, Pastor's Associate

Special recognition will be given to various people who attend our services Sunday night to hear the pastor deliver his second sermon on "Marriage and the Home," the fourth sermon of the ten feature Sunday night services during the ten weeks of loyalty campaign. Appropriate gifts will be presented to the couple that has been married the longest, the couple that has the most children present, to the couple most recently married, and to the youngest grandmother. Seats will be reserved for the couples that have been united in marriage by the pastor during his more than fourteen years of ministry in Monroe. This ought to be the most impressive and most helpful service in this series. Everybody is invited. "The Why of Suffering" will be the subject of the pastor's message Sunday morning—a subject that has caused the average Christian more doubt and difficulty than any other. Why does God permit suffering and sorrow? Superintendent Miller and his corps of Sunday school officers and teachers are pulling hard for 1,000 in attendance Sunday morning. The Baptist Training union and the Brotherhood hold their meetings at 6:15. Old members are expected to be present; new members and visitors are always welcome.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
West Monroe
Dr. A. E. Prince, Pastor
Professor Dallas Goss, Music Director
Miss Beulah Doerr, Educational Director

The pastor was called to Illinois last Sunday for a funeral and the pulpit of this church was supplied by Rev. Brownlow Hastings. The members of the congregation greatly appreciated his fine messages. Continuing his plan for pre-revival services, the pastor will preach at both hours today on the subjects he would have used last Sunday. His subject for the morning hour is "Back to Bethel," and he will continue the study of the Ten Commandments at the evening hour, preaching from the seventh commandment, using as his subject "The Sin That is Damning Society." The Sunday school meets at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship 10:50 a.m. The B. T. U. leaders will meet at 6 p.m. General B. T. U. meeting and Brotherhood at 6:30 p.m. Evening worship at 7:30 p.m. You are invited.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH
812 Mississippi Street
I. J. Brooks, Pastor
Mas Braswell, Choir Director

With the coming of the beautiful spring weather and the influenza epidemic subsiding, we have a right to expect a great increase in attendance at all the services of the church. One of our B. T. U. member, Max Braswell, attended the B. T. U. clinic held in New Orleans last week. He brought back a most excellent report of the meeting. The southern division of the Associational Baptist Training union meets with our church on Monday night, March 4. Don't miss this important meeting. It will bring both information and inspiration and it will make Miss Gertrude smile to have a big attendance from "her union." Another important thing to remember is the contest between the Men's class and the Women's class of the Sunday school. The men will have to remember not to let the women outnumber them like they did last Sunday. The pastor's morning subject will be "Bearing and Sharing" (Hebrews 11:18). The evening message will be evangelistic. Visitors and friends invited. At this church you will find a comfortable pew and a wecome for you.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH MONROE

Dale Cobb, Choir Director

The Sunday school opens 9:45 a. m. It is hoped that the fine weather of March will bring a larger attendance and better work in all departments. The superintendant has plans for continued progress in the Bible teaching and it is hoped that we will be on time and bring our friends to this service today. Baptist Training union 6:30 p. m. There is a group for every age and a splendid program arranged. Especially do we urge all members of the church to attend the training service. The pastor's sermon subjects today are: "Incentives to Christian Service," morning; "Honoring God or the Antipode," evening. See Prov. 3:9. Among the greatest privileges of man is that of honoring the Lord. Man's vilest act is to dishonor the Lord. If earthly children are promised long life as a reward for honoring their earthly parents, how much more should we receive in honoring God. The W. M. S. meets at the church for a business session Monday at 2 p. m. All the ladies are urged to be present. The Wednesday night prayer meeting will be conducted by Dale Cobb.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES
Corner Auburn Avenue And North Second Street

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, March 3, 1940. The golden text is: "God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ" (II Corinthians 4). Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ" (John 1). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Our Master taught no mere theory, doctrine or belief. It was the divine principle of all real being which he taught and practiced" (p. 26).

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
J. M. Alford, Pastor

Today being the first Sunday of the month, we will observe the Communion of the Lord's Supper. Let every member be present to engage in this important service. Let there be heart-searching, earnest prayer and reconsecration to the Lord for holy living. Forsaking all sin and love for God and our fellow man are the requirements for participating in the Lord's Supper. The pastor will deliver a message suitable for the occasion. The Sunday school opens at 9:45 a.m. Parents, we want your children for our Sunday school; but we want you to come and bring them. Make a special effort to be on time for the opening. The young people meet for their league work at 6:30 p.m. and the evening worship service will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock. At this time the pastor will deliver a discourse on "The Value and Necessity of Making a Choice for the Lord Early in Life." This will be the last of five special services for the young people. Our pre-Easter revival will begin Sunday, March 10, and continue through the week, closing on the third Sunday, the 17th. STONE AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

There are many things which God does in which we have no part. God paints the clouds and the golden sunsets; He keeps the stars in their orbits; He sends showers and sunshine; He paints the roses and the lily, and scents them with their sweetness. But there are other things which are just as great and beautiful in which He permits us to be co-workers. He gives us the opportunity through service to put the tints of immortal beauty on human souls. What an honor to be a co-wokrer with Jesus Christ in the transforming of lives, the dispelling of darkness, misery and sin; the bringing of light, happiness and righteousness to human souls. It is not what our life is in wealth, culture, and attainment, but what our life is in service to others that is the test of greatness. Today, March 3, is roll call. For some four weeks we have been working toward the goal, every member present at service on this date. This work is in preparation for the ten weeks loyalty campaign to be launched next Sunday, March 1. Enrolled on our register are names of members who have either lost the vision or have failed to keep bright the vision, failed to keep pace with opportunity. As a part of this loyalty campaign will you not endeavor to help these regain lost vision, and inspire them to a life of Christian service? Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m., Miss Mary Voss, leader. Evening service at 7:30. Circles meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, with circle No. 1 meeting with Mrs. G. B. Haynes, West Monroe. Circle No. 2 will meet with Mrs. H. F. Boyd, at 1016 Georgia street. The 7:30 Wednesday evening prayer service will be led by Mrs. R. W. Irby.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

March is the last month of the church year. During this month we are asked to underwrite the budget, a copy of which has been mailed each family of the congregation; to pay up the obligations assumed to the church; and to work and pray for a large ingathering of people. Will you cooperate with the church fathers? The diaconate, the financial agents of the church, is anxious that the members act voluntarily. "God loveth a cheerful giver." And the sesison, the spiritual and controlling body of the church, is especially concerned about the enlistment of all people who are Presbyterians by training, desire and belief. The door of our church is open to every one who accepts and trusts Jesus, the Christ. With the aid of the membership and the favors of God, the Holy Ghost, we propose to reach our goal, a membership of 1,000 by April 1, 1942. "Eternal Life or Death" and "The Rewards of Faithful Service" are the subjects of our messages. You are urged to attend the Sabbath school. Our misison is spiritual and our one aim is a worship that will bless and inspire. A cordial welcome awaits you.

FACTORY EXHIBIT
1940 Johnson Seahorse Motors
Monday, 8 A. M. to 8 P. M. in front of Miller-Guerriero Hardware Co.
337 DeSiard St.
JOHNSON SEA HORSE

The exhibit is housed in a large trailer and will include a new single-cylinder, one-and-a-half horsepower Johnson motor. George P. Moore, veteran Johnson representative, is in charge of the display and will be glad to explain the many superior features of Johnson Seahorse outboard motors and how to get the best service and performance out of them. Johnson Seahorse outboard motors are sold and serviced here by Howard Griffin, 712 South Grand street, and Miller-Guerriero Hardware company, 331 DeSiard street. Johnson Seahorse motors are ideal for either fishing, boating or hunting.

Western Auto Is Allowing Slashing Discount On Tires

Here's your chance to effect a definite saving on your tires. Western Auto Associate store, 419 DeSiard street, is offering a 30 per cent trade-in discount in addition to its attractive low prices on Davis Safety-Grip and Davis DeLuxe tires.

Think of it, an old tire pays 30 per cent on a Davis Safety-Grip or a Davis DeLuxe! Then, on top of that, you can pay the balance in easy payments as low as $1 a week.

As little as $7.18 and an old tire will put a Davis Safety-Grip on your car. A Davis DeLuxe is available for as little as $6.06, together with an old tire.

That, in itself, sounds plenty attractive, doesn't it? Well, this enhances the attraction still further. Davis Safety-Grip and Davis DeLuxe tires are tires with national reputations. And they are guaranteed to the hilt.

No better tires for the price are built than Davis Safety-Grip and Davis DeLuxe. People who are using them swear by them. They give long wear and they cling to the road under the most adverse weather conditions.

Western Auto Associate store is currently featuring a Circle-Arrow sale. It will continue through March 16 and through that date all the numerous items handled by the store will be available at deeply-slashed prices.

Virtually every automobile accessory and innumerable household items are stocked by Western Auto Associate store, which is home owned and operated by J. T. Eubank. You'll find it profitable to shop at the establishment.

Chris Grammatas Chef At Primos

There's a very definite reason for the distinctive flavor of the food served by Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria, corner of DeSiard and North Fourth streets. It's the chef—Chris Grammatas.

Grammatas, who has followed his profession in the larger cities of the nation, came to Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria recently from Houston, Tex. A native of the orient, he is a graduate of the Lewis Hotel and Cook school of Washington, D. C.

This schooling thoroughly acquainted him with American dishes, but his childhood recollection of oriental cookery has enabled him to improve on them. He has added many new and delicate dishes to the menu since coming to Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria, particularly in the line of sweet dishes. Sweets are particularly favored in the eastern countries, as everyone is more or less aware.

Chef Grammatas offers an extraordinary variety of food at Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria, with a change of menu every day. With regular lunches and dinners, he offers a selection of five desserts, for instance.

Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria features the highest quality in food, service and environment at popular prices. To provide its patrons with the best, it operates its own bakery to make its bread and pastries.

No more tempting seafood can be had than that served in season by Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria. Those who like seafood at its best will tell you so.

And just think, turkey and fresh strawberries can be had the year-around at Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria.

In sanitation and attractiveness, Primos Restaurant and Cafeteria is unsurpassed. And to give the public the ultimate in service, it maintains a staff of 35 employes and remains open all night.

The Red sea gets its reddish tinges from a tiny seaweed.

RESERVE CONFERENCE WILL BE DISCUSSED

To discuss general plans for 1940 and particularly for the Girl Reserve conference to be held here March 16 and 17, Reserve advisors of Neville High and Ouachita Parish High schools will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at 500 Bres avenue. Miss May Coker and Mrs Elizabeth Manhein will be hostesses at the meeting.

The same program scheduled for the February conference, postponed because of prevalence of influenza, will be presented. Miss Laura Flournoy is chairman of the conference.

Pigeon races have been held in England with as many as 50,000 homing pigeons competing.

DICK TRACY
PRISON BARS! CHARGES OF ADMINISTERING MEDICINE WITHOUT A LICENSE! ALL THIS HANGS OVER TRACY'S HEAD AS THE KROYWEN BABY'S CONDITION GROWS WORSE AND WORSE.
CHESTER GOULD
MANSLAUGHTER, EH? SO THAT'S THE CHARGE I'LL HAVE TO FACE IF THE BABY DIES.
BUT, DICK, YOU WERE TRYING TO HELP THE BABY. YOU WERE TRYING TO SAVE ITS LIFE! THEY CAN'T DO THIS TO YOU.
I WAS A FOOL! I PLACED TOO MUCH FAITH IN OLD MAN KROYWEN'S SECRET SERUM.
BUT KROYWEN HAD INJECTED THOSE TROPIC SLEEP GERMS INTO THE BABY. HE WOULD HAVE DIED ANYWAY.
MEANWHILE---
IS THE CHILD STILL ALIVE?
HE'S STILL TAKING THE OXYGEN.
DOCTOR!
YES, MISS TRUEHEART, COME IN.
MR. PATTON AND I MADE ANOTHER SEARCH OF MR. KROYWEN'S LIBRARY. WE FOUND THIS NOTEBOOK.
IT DESCRIBES THE EFFECTS AFTER THE SERUM HAS BEEN ADMINISTERED.
LOOK, DOCTOR, AT THE LAST PARAGRAPH.
"FOR THREE OR FOUR DAYS THE PATIENT LIES IN A COMA. AFTER ABOUT 72 TO 86 HOURS, FIRST SYMPTOM OF RECOVERY IS SWEATING."
"SEVERE AND SUDDEN SWEATING IS A POSITIVE SIGN."
NURSE, DID YOU HEAR—
DOCTOR!
THE CHILD IS COVERED WITH PERSPIRATION!

THEN LITTLE BO-DAN, RECOVERING FROM HIS ILLNESS, STAGGERED DIZZILY TO HIS FEET, AND FOLLOWED.
"THE KIDNAPED GIRL--MY MATEA--WHERE IS SHE?" GROOT CARLUS ASKED EAGERLY. THE STRANGER SHRUGGED.
"I DON'T KNOW, BUT I'M TAKING YOU TO A FELLOW WHO TOLD ME HE SAW HER BROUGHT HERE."
PRESENTLY THE MAN USHERED THEM INTO A HALL WITH A NARROW STAIRWAY. "GO ON UP!" HE INVITED.

TARZAN HESITATED. LIKE ALL JUNGLE CREATURES HE WAS SUSPICIOUS OF UNFAMILIAR ENCLOSURES.

"I KNOW WHERE THE GIRL IS," SAID THE BEARDED MAN, "BUT IT'LL TAKE SOME FIGHTING TO GET HER."
